PROTECTION FROM FIRE.

Owners of real estate with buildings are particularly interested in a material that will render their houses safe from fire as well as protection from the weather. Insurance pays actual losses in part, but no incidental losses, as stoppage of rents or business, &c.

THE CHICAGO

Fire Proof Paint Co.

Makes the only reliable mixed paint that will answer this double purpose. The Goss & Phillips Manufacturing Co.'s large manufactory, dry kilns and barns are covered with it, even the engine room.

Where this paint is applied the wood will not take fire from sparks, cinders, burning shingles or embers of any kind, flying from one roof to another, carpets burning on floors, upsetting or explosion of kerosene lamps, and the hundreds of other ways in which fires accidentally start. On a roof, it not only protects from fire, but is ornamental and saves the shingles from decay. All shingle roofs should be covered with it.

For full particulars and testimonials inquire at or address us at our office, Room 6, 89 Randolph street, Bryant Block, Chicago, Ill.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

BUILDING RESUME.

In an article published some time ago in this JOURNAL, it was stated that up to Oct. 13, 1883, 2070 buildings representing $12,949,175 had been erected since Jan. 1, and that he present year w ould likely exceed the year 1882, both in he number and co st of new buildings. For the year 1882, 3119 permits were issued representing a cost of $15,842,800 which figures have already been equaled as far as the amount of money expended is concerned. Up to the present time 2722 permits have been issued, representing a cost of 16,219,000. There will not be as many houses built this year as in 1882, bnt the amount expended will be greater. Many of the residences built on the North and South sides are of an exceptionally fine character and display all that is novel and useful in the architecture of the present day.

In commenting on the great improvements in building the Tribune says: There is a decided improvement in the character of the buildings both for business and residence purposes, that have been erected during the year. Men have discovered it to their advantage to build well, the additional cost being meagre as compared with the benefits that would certainly accrue. There have not been many entirely fire-proof buildings erected, but the comparatively cheap and effective fire-proofing methods that have been discovered during the last few years have been numerously adopted, and the result is that Chicago has many buildings, the interiors of which, although made up wholly of wood are as free from danger of fire as though they were constructed of brick, iron and cement.

TERRA COTTA AS A BUILDING MATERIAL.

The brief notice in a former issue of the JOURNAL on the revival of the old Terra Cotta Works at toe corner of Wests Fifteenth and Laflin streets with the central office in the Republic Life Building in this city by "The Lake View Terra Cotta Company," failed to do justice to the article itself as a building material. The ancient Egyptians before the time of Moses may be considered its discovers. It is nothing more than the carefully prepared clay molded and baked into artistic form. The Egyptians preferred it to the various qualities of stone which were and are in abundance along the banks of the Nile. Good brick has ever been recognized in modern as well as in ancient times as any indestructible building material the world over and Terra Cotta is the most perfeet quality of brick in artistic form. In its manufacture it is submitted to a degree of heat that would pulverize any stone that has ever been used as a building material. There is not a stone in use which is not injured by time and the elements. Terra Cotta is simply indestructible. Its use for architectural decorations in the construction of fine buildings has of late years been much fostered and its manner has been brought to great perfection in this country. In quality it stands above stone, granite or iron. The exteusive fires in large cities withii the last few years have demonstrated the inferiority of al the latter. After sad experiences Terra Cotta and brick are rapidly superceeding, among the careful owners, architects and builders every other material. Its use in our western cities would be even more extensive if the supply had been equal to the demand. There has been heretofore but one factory in operation west of New Jersey. The new company "The Lake View" has been organized by practical Terra Cotta workers of many years exyerience in this as well as the old country. Otto Peltzer, the Secretary, in company with the architect of the company have been on a tour of inspection through the Eastern factories for the purpose of perfecting iheir works in thls city. The company own four acres of land in the town of Lake View with a bed of fine clay for ordinary work and have contracted for the best clay in New Jersey, Indiana and Ohio and will leave nothing undone to place their work on a par with that of the largest establishment in the east. Architects and builders will consult their own interests by remembering the "Lake View Company" at No. 83 Republic Life Building in this c ity.

$10,000,000 WORTH OF ARCHITECTURE IN A PALACE OF JUSTICE.

Some singular stories are told of the construction of the new Palace of Justice, at Brussels, which is now approaching completion. The design of the building was the cherished ideal of the celebrated architect Poelaert, who died three years ago, leaving, however, well studied drawings for nearly every detail of the vast edifice. So long and earnestly had he thought over the problem that he is said to have fixed upon the general design, and even to have worked it out in plan and elevation, long before the question of building such a structure had even been discussed, and when the time came, his scheme was all ready for putting in execution. As carried out, his plan is a very magnificent one, the situation, on the top of the highest elevation in the city, helping to make the building one of the most imposing in Europe. Considering that the original estimate of cost was less than two million dollars, and that nine millions have already been expended upon it, with the prospect that another million will be necessary to complete it, one may be excused for doubttng whether the structure may not be a little too imposing for its purpose, and the Belgian attorney-general, who replied to the congratulations of the King upon the completion of so magnificent a temple to Justice, by asking if it might not rather be called a temple to Architecture, probably expressed the feeling of a good many tax-payers.

The estimated cost of new buildings, for which plans were filed in New York City from January 1st to November 30th, 1883, is $41,859,058, as against $43,094,761 for the same period in 1882, showing a falling off in building operations in that city of only $1,235,703. This is an excellent showing when we take into consideration the extent to which builders have been hampered by strikes and the slowness of sale experienced in improved reality. From all parts of the country are received reports of increased building activity, and it has even been predicted that the business of the year now drawing to a close, will exceed in the aggregate the business of any previous year in this line. Not only has business been prosperous, but it will be found upon investigation that the class of bulldings erected, especially in New York City and Chicago, is of a superior kind as regards both durability and architecture. In fact, architects are to be congratulated upon the many happy designs that have left their boards to contribute to the beautification of the two great cities. This is seen in the number of superior dwellings and apartment houses recently erected or now being completed in the residential districts of New York as well as in the few large office buildings such as that of The Mutual Life Insurance Co., that have replaced time-worn structures that had for years reared their unsightly contours to add to the dingy appearance of many prominent business localities.

THE MARKET.

The outlook for real estate is encouraging to legitimate dealing and bids fair to brighten as spring approaches. As the city fills up with business and substantial improvements, the necessity of finding a remedy for the bridge nuisance and for poor street car sccommodations, is becoming more apparent every day. Improvemeuts are going on in the harbor on the lake front and it is believed that the river must be done away with sooner or later and the shipping done from the outside harbor. Nothing of a momentous nature has appeared above the horizon and nothing remains to be said except a reference to the scattering sales of more or less importance throughout the city and county. In last week's JOURNAL, reference was made to the amount of business done in the several towns north and south of the city. Hyde Park has always had the lead. Lake View is next, and the Town of Lake including Englewood and the Stock Yards is third; as for exmaple, Rose & Barry sold two houses for $5350 on Duncan Park near Stock Yards, and one on Root street for $2200 -the first for cash, the second on time. Those who have operated in real estate in the above locality say that the buying is all done by people who find employment at the Yards, and by business men who sell to them. Mr. James F Mick and C. S. Redfield of Englewood both report a good business in their locality. On Adams street 250 feet west of Laflin 50x 188½ feet was sold Dec. 4, by A. W. Kingsland to J. Peterson for $15,000, and another for the same amount on Prairie avenue, 248 feet north of Twenty-third street, 24⅔x 175¾ feet by W. H. Stoddard to D. K. Pearsons. The influence of the new dummy line from West Fortieth street to Austin and the extension of the Belt Railroad northward through the town of Cicero between the carshops and Austin are doing much toward settling up the unoccnpied prairie west of the city limits. A glance at the suburban warranty deeds under the heads of Cicero, Hyde Park, Evanston, Lake, and agreements for deeds will do much toward keeping up the spirits of suburban property owners and agents. Some uneasiness is felt among house owners and renting agents about the probability of rents coming down on account of so much new building. The "building boom' is not likely to amount to a "building craze," and the Journal ventures the prediction that rents will not fall in any perceptible degree either on the North or South side, nor upon the best streets on the West side. Landlords who have not kept pace with the advancement made in improved dwellings will soon find their old houses at a discount among the better class of teuants, especially on the West side. The interest in real estate is not flagging nor are values depreciating as is evidenced by inquiries at this Journal's office for information. However, the "boom" is not near enough at hand to warrant a heavy investment in another Real Estate Journal. Several of these "infants" have died "a bornin" and with the field covered by the big dailies as it has been since the panic, we are prepared to see another failure if the fool-kill-killer does not attend to his business. Times have changed and the field was never so fully occupied by real estate news, and real espapers. As it is now the The Real Estate Journal feels able to meet with all new competitors until they lie down.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

The predictions of three months ago, that the leading branches of trade would during the fall probably be subject to no serious embarrassing conditions, the commereia horizon at that time being remarkably clear of general or particular disturbances, have been in the main fufilled, and an active and fairly profitable season has been the result. No hampering conditions have materially affected any line of merchandise. The numerous failures of September and October, had, in one sense a beneficial effect that of a more rigorous scrutiny on behalf of merchants, into the financial responsibility of their customers, and a hardly-felt tightening of credits. The result is a better feeling in commercial circles, and an increasing belief that the clouds have disappeared and been succeeded by a clear sky and bearing no trace of future storm. The distrust occasioned and still prevailing in some circlcs is not to be wondered at when the business methods of many who have legitimately acquired a large credit by years of honest trading are considered. The temptation to expand, to enter upon illicit methods, to promote false impressions of soundness and of wealth, beeomes acoasionally too strong for even a naturally conscientious man; and the ambition to do commanding business prevails over commercial integrity. If this were the rule instead of the exception, there would be at once an end of all credits. But the exceptions are frequent enough and disastrous enough in their results to show that there is an evil to be remedied; that there are tendencies which endanger not alone the direct creditor, but the property of the indirect and wholly irresponsible one, as the depositor in banks or savings institutions.

The dropping-out of weak firms, and the improved condition of credit caused by the additional caution due to the shocks occasioned by the succession of heavy failures should now produce a revival of increased activity. The assurance of an open winter and the satisfactory yield of the crops, no

REAL ESTATE LAW.

THE RIGHT TO APPORTION ADMINISTRATOR'S FEES.—The opinion of the Probate Court of Cook Connty, by Knickerbocker, J.—Holding that the Probate Court has the right to apportion the compensation for administering on an estate between the administrators according to the services rendered. This is not only just but it is undoubtedly the law in this State. There can be no good reason given why one executor or administrator should do uo work or perform no services and receive as much compensatiou as the one who transacts the business of the estate.

THE REVENUE LAW—SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS—TITLE TO ACT.—The opinion of the Supreme Court of this State by Scholfield, J., holding that where the provisions in the act relating to "cities, towns and villages" conflict with the general revenue act relating to the application for judgment in special assessment cases that the provisions of the former act govern. The court also consider what provisions in an act will be sufficiently germane to the subject expressed in the title to free it from the constitutional objection.

IS THE PRESENT MARKET VALUE OF REAL ESTATE IN CHICAGO AND SUBURBS LIKELY TO DECREASE?

In view of the fact that we are chronically, eternally, and perennially, in a blissful state of uncertainty, as to all things in the far, the orient future,—weather included—we respectfully beg to be excused from expressing any positive opinion on such a grave subject without giving it the benefit of our more mature consideration. Nevertheless as we feeled called upon to rise and explain in some manner, we will submit the opinions of a few of our local celebrities residing in the suburbs: All of whom are men of undoubted talent and possessors of gigantic intellects, though unknown to fame, and unappreciated by the cruel and sordid world.

This galaxy of talent, including "Truth," "Vox Populi." "Many Citizens," "One who Knows"(?) and many others, not wholly unknown to the press, nor the waste basket, gathered themselves together and formed themselves into a body corporate, under the name and style of "The Incandescent Debating Club."

Our suburban reporter, having temporarily disposed of his gold-mounted toothpick for a consideration (37½c) to an accommodating friend—a lineal descendant of the children of Israel, and the tribe of Benjamin—found himself in possession of a brain crowded with beautiful thoughts in the spring poetry line, and backed by car-loads of knotty arguments—to say nothing of three (3) plugged nickels—so he determined to give vent to his feelings, and the aforesaid nickels at one and the same time.

To accomplish this, he joined the "Incandescents"—the initiation fee—without one pang of regret, in the hands of the President, which gentleman, acted in the double capacity of President and Treasurer.

Our knight of the lead-pencil then modestly took his seat among the lowly, and breathlessly awaited, note-book in hand, the beginning of the first act.

The President after vainly soliciting the accommodation of a "chaw" from the members in his immediate vicinity arose and pounding on the table with the Club's improvised gavel—an empty pop bottle, demanded in an authorative voice, that silence should reign supreme, (she reigned) then turning the baleful glance of his left wall-eye, fall upon our unfortunate scribe, asked with great determination, "What are we here for?"

The assembly, evidently feeling that the question was addressed to them merely in a collective sense, or more probably as a figure of speech, after the manner of the Socratic mode of argument; wisely held their peace; not so with the impetuous young man on the end of the bench among publicans and sinners, who took upon himself the responsibility of remarking that he "didn't know."

His observation was passed over with silent contempt and the chair proceeded:

"We are here gentlemen," continued he, "to discuss all or any interesting topics touching or concerning the public weal, or in any wise appertaining thereunto, and before me I find that the program for this evening consists of the momentous question, "Is the present value of real estate in Chicago and suburbs, likely to be influenced by pauper immigration?"

Mr. Jones will kindly signify which side of the question he will "shinny" on, and Mr. Mulcahy will confer a favor by doing likewise."

Mr. Jones, a gentleman with an expansive brow and a mouth to correspond, replied with a few neat and well chosen remarks, that he, while feeling the grave responsibility he was assuming, still would argufy in the affirmative, if it were all the same to the chair.

Mr. Mulcahy, a gentleman with a slight foreign accent, declared himself as being willing to take either side, as he was altogether without prejudice regarding the question, neither had he read the papers, but if agreeable to all, he opined that the negative would strike him about amidships.

The parties of the first part then chose their men alternately, our scribe falling to the lot of Monsieur Mulcahy, who forthwith opened the ball,

"Gintlemin of the Jury! began he, as straightening himself up he covertly spat on his hands and caught the speaker's eye. "I tell yez the land in and 'round Shaecago is as good as the wheat any day and sorra the decrease of valley will there be in that same as long as P. Mulcahy, Esq., has a voice at the polls, which be that same token isn't a voice at all, but a straight Democratic ticket by-gob, and as I was sayin' to Dinny Doolan, who kapes the illigant foive-cint 'booze' beyant there. that the people of Sheecago were the very old dickins to rush up houses on short notice, and I'll jist tell ye what my razons wor—" "Time's up Mr. Mulcahy!' broke in the President, "ten minutes only for each speaker, Mr Jones what are your views?"

"I am of the opinion, Mr. President," returned the scion of the ancient and illustrious House of Jones, "that if the authorities do not pave a few of the streets in this locality, the value of property will go down. Yes sir, way down below zero, and as for myself I have found it necessary to acquire the rather questionable accomplishment of walking on stilts to enable me to reach my domestic cirele on damp evenings. My wife firmly refuses to learn or have anything to do with the exercise, and has already beaten down the landlord in the rent to the amount of $2.75 per month and if the weather only keeps its grip, we will soon be in a position to claim that a further reduction of $2.00 will be necessary to our peace of mind and the welfare of the community at large. Now is not this depreciation in value? I pause for a reply."

"Besides," continued he, "your Real Estate boom is moving north and west with the young man, the defeated candidate, and the guileless immigrant, where the wild untamed cyclone loves to linger and the sportive cow-boy flourisheth even as a green bay-tree, or mayhap on, and up, where the lordly pines toss their plumed heads, the Polar star and the Aurora Borealis walk hand in hand while the pensive wild goose and that other chap look on aghast, with—" "That'll do," remarked the referee, "Mr. Switchem will now chip in, and while I am speaking I will take the opportunity of offering the suggestion to Mr. Mulcahy, that if that bob-tailed-cross-in-the-fore-legs-two-for-a-dime bull pup reclining behind the stove is his personal property to have and to hold, and still boards with him, that it would be a pious notion to lead him gently forth and bid him a tearful and tender farewell as I have noticed with consternation that he has incorporated into his system the greater part of our limited stock of fuel, and for the past ten minutes I have been in an agony of doubt that he would shortly commence operations on the wood-box. I prythee remove him; he is excused.

PROTECTION FROM FIRE.

Owners of real estate with buildings are particularly interested in a material that will render their houses safe from fire as well as protection from the weather. Insurance pays actual losses in part, but no incidental losses, as stoppage of rents or business, &c.

THE CHICAGO
Fire Proof Paint Co.

Makes the only reliable mixed paint that will answer this double purpose. The Goss & Phillips Manufacturing Co 's large manufactory, dry kil .s and barns are covered with it, even the engine room.

Where this paint is applied the wood will not take fire from sparks, cinders, burning shingles or embers of any kind, flying from one roof to another, carpets burning on floors, upsetting or explosion of kerosene lamps, and the hundreds of other ways in which fires accidentally start. On a roof, it not only protects from fire, but is ornamental and saves the shingles from decay. All shingle roofs should be covered with it.

For full particulars and testimonials inquire at or address us at our office, Room 6, 89 Randolph street, Bryant Block, Chicago, Ill.

NEW USES FOR WOOD.

IT does not seem safe nor wise now to declare any kind of tree worthless. Even the despised basswood and cotton wood trees have become valnable. It may be, the so-called good-for nothing sage-bush, which covers the bad lands of the Western States and Territories, will be found to possess some valnable properties, and then it will be elevated to a place among the now valuable trees. Late inventions and discoveries have revealed the fact that the finest polish and strongest household furniture can be made out of paper. It can be pressed so hard that no instrument short of a diamond can scratch it; and it can be given the finest shades in imitation of wood, and produced cheaper than walnut, mahogany or ebony. And late discoveries in paper making established the fact that cottonwood makes the whitest and strongest fiber pulp yet manufactured out of wood. There are vast quantities of pulp imported, and some newspaper men are clamoring for it being done free of duty. Paper mills in Delaware, Pennsylvania, and other Northern States are shipping thousands of cords of poplar wood from North Carolina and elsewhere, one mill in Delaware contracting for 30,000 cords. This is costly, and shows conclusively that our rich lands, where cottonwood grows so luxuriantly, and on which in many cases, the black walnut has been denuded to make furniture in England, may yet become profitable fields to raise and manufacture paper furniture, carwheels and houses. Something has to take the place of pine, walnut and cherry, in house-building and ornamental woodwork, and the probability now is that the cottonwood is the coming tree, It is easier propagated, a more rapid grower, is exempt from enemies and parasites, and is a native almost everywhere. Foresty men have troubled themselves about the futnre timber to supply the industrial pursuits. The best of car-wheels are made of paper, which stand the weather and wear longer than iron, and are less liable to accidents from breaking. If they will stand in this most difficult trial, paper can certainly be used almost in any place.

TRANSVERSE STRENGTH OF TIMBER.

THE machine with which the tests were made is a 50,000-pounds machine, and is capable of testing beams twenty-five feet long, as well as many of the framing-joints used in practice. It consists of a compound lever hung in a cast-iron frame, to which is connected, by means of a steel rod and turn buckle, one end of a lever, of equal arms, placed below, this lever having a 12-inch leverage, and being connected at its other end by means of a chain, with the yoke. Two hard-pine beams, each twenty inches deep, ten inches wide, and twenty-six feet long, are laid across the timbers of the machine in such a way that the chain already referred to is midway between them. Two common jack-screws, each in a pair of wrought-iron stirrups, are placed at a distance apart depending upon the span of the beam to be tested, the latter being placed upon the jack-screws end under the yoke. The jack-screws are then screwed up, and the beam to be tested is thus raised at its two ends, and hence loaded at the point where the yoke is attached.

The deflections are recorded to the ten-thousandth of an inch, as the measnrements were made with a micrometer screw that could be read to that degree of accuracy, and hence it was thought best to give the results as they were obtained, although it is not claimed that change of temperature or other disturbing causes, which would be inappreciable as far as any practical result is concerned, may not cause so great a variation as to render it unnecessary to read to such a degree of accuracy. Perusal of the preceding summary will warrant the following conclusions in regard to beams:—

1. That the values of modulus of rnpture, both for spruce and hard-pine, are much less than those commonly given in our hand-books and text-books.

2. That the values of the modulus of elasticity of spruce and hard-pine, as deduced from the immediate deflections, are somewhat less than those usually given.

3. That until we have more time tests we should nse a factor of safety with the modulus of elasticity, in calculating deflections.

4. The question of beams giving way by longitndinal shearing is one that should be taken into account in practice.

THE BRICK ERA.

It is a noticeable fact that pressed brick has almost entirely superseded stone in the construction of outer walls, particularly fronts, and that molded brick, of which many artistic and handsome designs are being made, is fast taking the place of stone for the purpose of outside trimmings. The rapid growth into favor of these kinds of brick, which has been greatly augmented by the fact that Chicago need no longer go to the East or elsewhere for them, but can secure as good or better an article at home, stamps this as essentially the "Brick Period" of the West, if not the country.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

THE MARKET.

As the city grows older and her business men learn wisdom by experience, real estate becomes more valuable and all legitimate business more stable and profitable. In New York City they have organized a Real Estate Exchange, which will in time, deal in the shares of land and improvement companies. These are now being organized far more generally than is understood by real estate dealers. Under a law passed last winter by the Legislature of New York, a corporation dealing in houses and lands can hold property amounting to $3,000,000. When the next movement in real estate occurs it will be found that hundreds of such companies have been organized the shares of which will naturally be listed upon the Real Estate Exchange. The full advantage of such laws has been enjoyed by the people of the State of Illinois and numerous land, building and loan associations have been chartered to do business in this city. Efforts to establish a Real Estate Exchange in Chicago has resulted in a failure because there was nothing for the association to stand on. Now, the Real Estate and Renting Agents Association is the only organization representing real estate interests and will to a large extent, serve the purposes of a real estate exchange. The reports of private dealings are often misleading; the official record of conveyances is not always to be relied upon, as no legal penalty is imposed for falsifying the deeds and thus non-residents are dependent entirely upon the statements of their agents, who are not members of any organization that will hold them down to square dealing. The R. E. & R. A. Association can do a great good in this as well as other directions. It can co-operate with the board of underwriters, the Citizens Association and other organizations of a kindred nature in relation to securing and amending building laws. It has been stated in this Journal that the real estate and building interests of Chicago were already far in advance of our municipal affairs. We need better bridges, better streets, better sidewalks, more light, more police protection and less villainy in our common council and board of county commissioners, and organizations of the kind we are describing can exert a potent influence in legislative bodies. Pure water cannot flow through a foul orifice, nor can good and salutary laws be administered properly by ignorant men and unscrupulous demagogues. We must elevate better men in office; we must improve the municipal affairs of our city before we can expect real estate to be as high as it is in the greatest cities of the world. No new phases of the market have appeared to require comment. The record columns will disclose all there is of any importance to non-residents and dealers.

Several important transactions are recorded under the head of "Miscellaneous" and "Agreements for Deeds." The entire report of the past week speaks well for Chicago and Cook County at this season of the year.

IS THE PRESENT MARKET VALUE OF REAL ESTATE IN CHICAGO AND SUBURBS LIKELY TO DECREASE?

After the President had "turned the hose of his eloquence" -so to speak,--full upon the unfortunate canine, he quietly resumed his seat, with the conviction that at least one of his hearers found his logic unanswerable.

This aforesaid canine was afflicted with chronic melancholia, a rudimentary tail, and impressed the casual observer with the idea that he had unintentionally missed divers meals "many a time and oft." Despite his forlorn appearance, he was escorted to the door with much ceremony and apparent solicitude, by his proprietor the genial Mulcahy- and then ignominiously kicked off the front steps into the gloomy beyond.

When Mulcahy returned, Mr. Switchem, the school master, was holding down the stbject and was awarded "first blood," when he upheld his leader's principles and those of the side on which he "shinnied" by the following piece of informatiou.

"You see, Mr. President," said he, "the gentlemen of the opposing side think that because the real estate business has of late been overrun by "sharks" who pass themselves off upon an unsuspeeting public, as persons who represent the real estate interest of this city; that if these men have the power to dispose of property as they profess, why the future value would soon be equal to the price of an "ancient canticle."

But "soft you now," he contiuued, "admitting that there are such fraudulent parties engaged in the business, you will concede that they do not altogether drive the bandwagon—as it were,—and the fact becomes more apparent when I tell you that, in a paper I borrowed the other day, I noticed that the Real Estate & Renting Agents' Association have had a meeting and as they are "dead on to" the gilt-edged "sharks" and land pirates, they purpose making the association, one that will look after the real estate interest of Chicago as well as their own. To do so they make it sine qua non that the members of such association must be engaged in the real estate business in a legitimate manner, and be men of probity whose business record will stand the closest scrutiny.

This happy condition of affairs, gentlemen, will bar out all the before mentioned gentry(?) who do the "crooked act," and leave this line of business in the hands of men who will make the public interest and their own identical, and as I might say—to borrow a classical expression—'thus fill a long felt want.'

Can I not say in conclusion, that we now need not be apprehensive of any decrease in value of the realty in and around Chicago? Selah!"

George Fitz-Herbert De Marchemont Boggs from the ranks of the "yeas" now went to bat, and to pass him over without a few explanatory remarks would deeply wound the tender feelings of G. F. H. De M. B.

In the first place he was undeniably juvenile, as the fresh peach-bloom of adolescence still lingered on the vast solitude of his cheek. his cravat was simply miraculous, his pants painfully tight, but having spent two weeks in the heart of the city, attending during that time for five consecutive nights, the thrilling drama of "Dead-Beat-

Dan, or the Phantom Saw-Buck of the Sierras," he felt his soul swelling within him—somewhere—and his heart told him that he must speak or "bust"—at least his pants certainly would,—so he began with a few playful remarks about Mulcahy's bald head being a "shining example of connubial bliss," and the "Dominie's" nose, a "first cousin to the unfortunate State street bridge," and was preparing to launch boldly forth upon the treacherous sea of argument, paralizing and knocking silly all those who had spoken previously in the negative when—(he didn't.)—"Kaze why."—

P Mulcahy stood up and publicly announced in very unparliamentary language, that he could stuff the kickin' out of any taller-legg'd dude in that neighborhood and in fact any man of the opposite side would afford him much pleasure and recreation, if he would come forth and kindly tread on the tail of his ulster.

The gentlemsn of the sudden surname of Boggs quietly evaporated, but the martial Ensebins Jones, gallantly came to the front with the observation that he was not much of a professional pugilist, but that it was habitual with him to eat a man of about Mulcahy's physical construction every morning before sitting down to his coffee, and moreover that his bowels positively yearned to get outside of any man who wore government socks and who lived upstairs.

Blood, with a big B, would have been the inevitable result but for the timely interposition of the ready-witted representative of the press, who having been awakened from a gentle slumber by the disturbance, now came forward with his life in his hand and his note-book under his arm, speaking words of expostulation and entreaty, and after having been knocked into the woodbox a few times, made the happy suggestion that the meeting should adjourn sine die.

The motion was immediately taken up by the President and pronounced—"carried" on his sole responsibility. Messrs Mulcahy & Jones were then requested to shake hands and mutually apologize, whereupon Mr. Jones straightway fell upon the neck of P. Mulcahy Esq. and wept, while that gentleman surreptitiously blew his nose upon the coattail of the party by the name of Jones.

The presiding gentleman then produced forty-five cents, the assets of the club and made a second motion to the effect that such sum should be made, set over, and assigned, for a prey and for a spoil, and should be devoted to the purchase of liquid nourishment from one Dennis Doolan, in order to re-establish harmony among the members; such "harmonizer" to be applied and used as the majority should hereinafter direct,—carried.

The I. D. C. then rose up as one man and called him blessed, and after girding up their loins—metaphorically speaking—advanced upon the House of Doolan in good marching order with the great pie-annihilator of the West Side the festive man-of-news—considerably in advance.

THE FIRST BONA-FIDE MORTGAGE MUST PREVAIL.

In the case of Walker vs. Wise, et. al., lately decided by the Supreme Court. Buffandean, on the 18th of April, '77, gave a mortgage to the plaintiffs upon certain land, which mortgage was recorded the same day. Buffandeau also gave a mortgage on the same property on the same day to the defendants. This mortgage was not recorded until April 26th, 1877. The lower court found these facts, and as a conclusion of law from them it fonnd plaintiff's mortgage as a lien prior and superior to the lein of the mortgage of the defendants, Wise & Denigan, The Supreme Court say: "We cannot presnme the plaintiff's mortgage was first executed and delivered because it was recorded first, nor does the fact that it was first recorded tend to prove its prior execution and delivery. The Court is of the opinion that there is a failure in the finding of the facts neeessary to a proper determination of the case, and therefore it has been sent back for a new trial. The opinion of the Court does not expressly say what the facts are which should be found, and which are necessary to a proper determination. But there is no donbt that these facts are—which mortgage was first executed and delivered, and whether the second mortgagee had notice of the first mortgage, and whether their mortgage was taken in "good faith and for a valuable consideration." We infer that these must be the facts which are required for the determinatisn of the case, because Section 1214 of the civil code provides, that "every conveyance of real property other than a lease for a term not exceeding one year, is void as against any subsequent purchaser or mortgagee of the same property or any part thereof, in good faith and for a valuable consideration, whose conveyance is first duly recorded." The term "conveyance" as used in this section embraces any instrument in writing by which any interest in estate is created or mortgaged. The old Supreme Court, in 1873, in the case of the Odd Fellows' Savings Bank vs. Banton et al., decided that "a mortgage of real property is void as against a subsequent mortgage of the same property which was first recorded, and was taken in good faith, and for a valuable consideration, and without actual notice of the preceding mortgage." We do not consider that there is anything in the case under review which militates against this principle. If the plaintiff's mortgage—though not prior to another in its execution and delivery—was taken in good faith, and for a valuable consideration, and without notice of the preceding mortgage, it would prevail over the first mortgage, because it was first recorded. A decision contrary to this would make the recording of a mortgage an empty and delusive act. It is not plain, to the lay mind at least, why there should be the expense and delay of a new trial in this case The Walker mortgage should and must prevail.—Exchange.

"Bright Fires--Clean Coal--Low Prices!"

The many hundreds of business houses'—bankers, real estate agents, attorneys, brewers, distillers, furniture dealers and manufacturers, who rely on the "Real Estate and Building Journal" as a guide to investment, and a protection to credit, will find it to their inferest to call upon Messrs. Rhoads & Ramsey of 206 LaSalle street—first as to the prices of coal; second as to the quality; third as to cleanliness. There is not a firm doing business in this line who can surpass them in prompt delivery, clean coal and low prices—a schedule of which is found in their advertisement on page eleven. This is not a puff got up by the above firm to deceive the well-to-do money-making classes, who read this Journal, but is written as the unvarnished truth and is vouched for by the publisher who speaks advisedly on the subject.

Responsibility of Agents.

In a late action tried in the Supreme Court of this State against an insurance agent to recover the amount of loss by fire the agent had wrongly represented to the insured that the keeping of a single barrel of oil was not a violation. Upon tne company's refusal to pay, suit was brought against the agent and judgment recovered by the plaintiff. The court thus classified the cases where an agent may be held personally liable:

"First.—Where the agent makes a false representation of his authority with intent to deceive.

"Second.—Where, with knowledge of his want of authority, but without intending any fraud, he assumes to act as though he were fully authorized; and

"Third.—Where he undertakes to act a bona fide, believing he has authority, but in fact he has none, as in the case of an agent acting under a forged power of attorney."

Real Property.

The loss suffered in the United States by a shrinking of $250,000,000 in the so-called standard stocks, during the past year, has renewed again the wide-spread conviction that almost the only truly reliable property

WOULD YOU SAVE TIME, TROUBLE AND EXPENSE---THEN SUBSCRIBE FOR THE 'REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING JOURNAL."

1883 will soon take her departure to give place to 1884—and with its terminus we can say truthfully that business of all kinds has not shaken a happier farewell hand to any year than to 1883—and no year has ever waited a more cheerful greeting than 1884. A new era has dawned upon our country—and its name is "prosperity,"—its influence is felt from the sunny shores of Florida to the snow-capped hills of Maine; no city is better blessed than the "Qeeen of the World"—Chicago. Real estate business continues to hold a cheerful and high head—then all who are interested in the real estate boom,—for Chicago will certainly have one—should subscribe for the 'Real Estate and Building Journal', the only paper that represents the Real Estate business full and complete. If you want to buy or sell it will be of untold advantage to you; because in its columns are contained everything from the simplest to the most profound that would be of advantage to those dealing in real estate. And all interested in Chicago should try to keep apace with her real estate movement, and the "Real Estate and Building Journal" will put you on the inside track.

On account of its large circulation among all classes, it offers special inducements to advertisers, who wish to place their business before the people as a whole.

PROTECTION FROM FIRE.

Owners of real estate with buildings are particularly interested in a material that will render their houses safe from fire as well as protection from the weather. Insurance pays actual losses in part, but no incidental losses, as stoppage of rents or business, &c.

THE CHICACO

Fire Proof Paint Co.

Makes the only reliable mixed paint that will answer this double purpose. The Goss & Phillips Manufacturing Co's large manufactory, dry kilns and barns are covered with it, even the engine room.

Where this paint is applied the wood will not take fire from sparks, cinders, burning shingles or embers of any kind, flying from one roof to another, carpets burning on floors, upsetting or explosion of kerosene lamps, and the hundreds of other ways in which fires accidentally start. On a roof, it not only protects from fire, but is ornamental and saves the shingles from decay. All shingle roofs should be covered with it.

For full particulars and testimonials inquire at or address us at our office, Room 6, 89 Randolph street, Bryant Block, Chicago, Ill.

RESUME OF NEW BUILDINGS—1883.

With this number of the Journal the reports of new buildings are closed for the year, which has certainly been a season of prosperity with all classes engaged in the manufacture of building material and in the construction of houses. Since the first of last May nothing whatever has occurred to hinder the progress of new-building until cold weather set in. Wages have been good and all able and willing hands have found work. A resume of the most important structures is as follows: The nine-story office building, being erected by Mr, Pullman at the south-east corner Michigan av. and Adams st. The building is fireproof and will cost $500,000. The Royal Ins. Co's Building on the north side of Jackson st,, running through to Quincy st on the north, and is 65 feet west of Lasalle st. It is 100 feet wide and 10 stories above the basement in height; the south front is of red granite, the north front of Anderson pressed brick, and when completed will cost $500,000. The Board of Trade Building on Jackson st., at the foot of Lasalle st,, to cost about $3,000,000, a description of which has been given in this journal. The Farwell Building, covering a block bounded by Adams, Market and Monroe sts. and the river, costing $1,000,000. The Jewett Building, at the north-west corner of Monroe and Market sts, running west of the river and is one story higher than the Farwell Block. The Corwith and Law Buildings, facing on Market street and running back within 50 feet of the river, are 7 stories high, The former has a cut stone front, the latter is of Anderson pressed brick; both together occupy the space between the Jewett Building and the Fargo Building on the corner of Madison and Market. The Commercial National Bank Building on the south-east corner of Monroe and Dearborn sts., six stories above the basement in height, to cost $125,000. The fronts are composed of pressed brick. The First Natl. Bank Building and the Montauk Block were finished early in 1883 and do not belong to this year's report. They are among the finest office buildings in the country, the former which is occupied on the main floor by the Bank, costing $1.000.000. The Burlington Block at the north-east corner of Adams and Franklin sts, was constructed wholly for railroad office purposes and is one of the best arranged buildings in the city. The street fronts are of pressed brick with large polished granite volumes for the Adams street entrauce. The Ryerson Building at the corner of Adams st. and Wabash av., cost 300,000. The walls are of Anderson pressed brick, with cut stone trimmings with a good deal of iron and plate glass for the exterior. The six-story addition to the Hammond Building at the south-east corner of Monroe and Lasalle st., which has a fine front of Anderson pressed brick, trimmed with terra cotta, was completed this year. The nine-story office building built and owned by Mortimer and Tapper. The Hammond building is nearly finished and will cost $120,000, it has been leased for $22,000 a year. The Calumet Club House at the north-east corner of Michigan av. and 20th st. is 80 by 125 feet in size and is four stories above basement in height; the outer walls are made exclusively of Anderson pressed brick and ornamental molded brick and terra cotta, and and form the most attractive and pleasing exterior on Michigan avenue. The building will cost complete $175,000.

At the northwest corner of Jackson and La Salle streets, is the Charles Counselman office building, which will be ten stories in height. It is 70 by 65 feet in size, and the outer walls are all of Anderson molded pressed brick, with some terra cotta courses and other trimmings. The structure, which has now reached the top of the fourth story, will cost when finished $125,000.

Another important structure in this locality is the European Hotel, being erected at the northwest corner of Van Buren and Clark streets, for Mr, William McCoy. The outer walls are of Anderson pressed brick, and the building will be seven stories high. Work is rapidly progressing and the building will soon be ready for the roof. The interior will be practically fire-proof. It will cost about $100,000.

Just across Pacific avenue from the new Board of Trad Building is the structure that will be the home of the new Open Board of Trade. The walls, which are of Anderson brick, are rising rapidly, and the Building Committee hopes to have the west half of tee structure ready for occupancy by next spring. It is not unlikely that the board will release the east half of the lot, fronting on Clark street, to parties for the erection of a billiard-hall, etc,

The only other building in this vicinity in course of erection is the seven-story office building for Mr, John D. Parker, on Sherman street. near Jackson. It will have an Anderson pressed-brick front and will cost $100,000,

At the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Twelfth street is the new Training School for Boys, The walls of the building, which is of firm and attractive design, are of Indiana pressed brick. The roof is now being put on, and the building will be completed next spring. It will cost about $65,000, and will be a monument to the generosity of the Chicago Commercial Club.

Just south of the Commercial National Bank Building on Dearborn street is the Carson office building. It will be eight stories and basement in height, will have a front of Anderson pressed brick, and will cost $200,000.

A business building being completed for Judge Lambert Tree at the southeast corner of Lake and La Salle streets. It is of pressed brick with stone trimmings, and is six stories and basement in height. The structure will cost about $100,000.

A handsome five-story store building was put on the lots at Nos. 203 and 205 Madison street. It is on leased ground which was transferred last week by H. W, Strong to James Paxton for $60,000, or 2,300 per front foot:

One of the few vacant spaces on the east side of Market street, just south of Madison, is being filled in by a fine six-story stone-front store, forty feet wide, for Mr. James Boddie, which will cost $60,000.

Opposit the Pullman Building there is being erected for Mr. William Grant a fine store building, six stories high, with a front of brown stone, and at Nos. 73 and 75 Jackson street Mr. E. L. Brand is having a large store and flat building erected. It has an Anderson-brick front trimmed with stone.

Messrs. Treat & Foltz erected a substantial six-story business building on Wabash avenue, at the northwest corner of Congress street, on the site of Aiken's old theatre, at an expense of $100,000, for Mr. John Quincy Adams.

The Averill Building, at the southwest corner of Wabash avenue und Jackson street, was erected during the year, and is one of the best store and office structures on the thoroughfare. It is five stories high, and the outer walls are of pressed brick.

The panorama building at the corner of Hubbard court and Wabash avenue, in which the "Battle of Gettysburg" is being exhibited, built for Mr. Davis, of Brussels, who subsevuently sold it and the picture it contains to a Chicago syndicate for $200,000. The building alone cost $45,000.

The Academy of Fine Arts, on Van Buren street, near Michigan avenue, was finished in the spring. It is about sixty feet square. has a front of Anderson pressed brick trimmed with terra cotta, and is three stories high.

The above comprise most of the leading business structures built in the central portion of the city, but, by no means, all important buildings for manufacturing and store purposes throughout the entire city, Those who have access to a file of this journal can by a cursory examination and review of the building permits see and learn fully the extent of building operations.

The total number of permits issued for new buildings in Chicago for the year 1883—not including alterations and additions—is 2749, representing an outlay of $16,291,900, and occupying a frontage of about 80,000 feet and 6000 stories. This adds fifteen miles of solid street frontage to the metropolis of the West, without allowing for the width of streets.

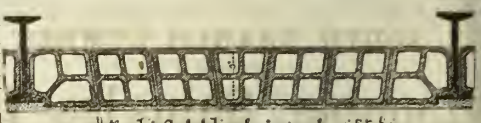
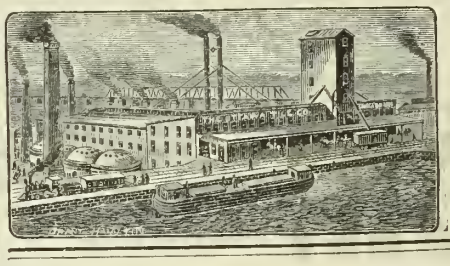
THE
Real Estate and Building Journal

R. C. SMYERS, PROPRIETOR.

CHICAGO, SATURDAY, Dec. 29, 1883.



TO OUR PATRONS.



The past year though full of failures and misgivings among stock dealers and many classes of merchants has been a year of prosperity with the "Real Estate and Building Journal. Many printing houses and some periodicals in the west have been compelled to suspend on account of lack of support, but the publisher of the Journal has been favored with an increase rather than discouraged by a falling off of patronage. This healthy condition is due to some extent to the improvement that has been made in the reading and record matter of the paper and largely to the prosperity and liberality of the gentlemen who find use for it. No class of business men in Chicago deserve better to succeed than our real estate men. They comprise many of the ablest as well as some of the wealthiest men of the country, and are doing more to build up our great city, both in reputation and improvements than any other class of business men Hundreds of business men who do not advertize their transactions must be included in this class, because they furnish much of the money and brains employed in the great work of improving real estate. Many of our western manufacturers have likewise contributed to the beauty and advancement ofCnicago as well as othercities. Lumbermen, sash, door and blinds manufacturers, stone men, brick men, and dealers in building iron as well as Terra Cotta works have had a good year's business. The interests of the real estate and property owner are cognate to the business interests above enumerated, hence they are all alike interested in the contents of the Journal. To one and all of these the publisher extends his best wishes for future success and tenders his heartfelt thanks for past favors—and to each and all of such he wishes a happy new year.

THE MARKET.

The cold weather and the beautiful snow have contributed more to the enjoyment of the holiday season than to the improvement of the real estate market. The last week has been more prolific of big mortgages than of important sales. Mssrs. E. White and W. G. Waddell obtained a loan of $45.-000 through Shortall & Helmer for 5 years at 6% for the purpose of building twenty houses at the corner of Warren avenue and Lincoln street, coverng twenty lots. A loan of 35,500 was made by J. M. Daggett to M. Laflin on pt of sec 14 38 14 for 3 years at 6%, also A. S. Havens mortgaged to J. Rosenthal, trnstee, for 35,000, lots 1 and 2, Wilson's sub 18 39 14, and other property for 3 years at 6%; also W A English obtained from or through F. R. Chandler a loan of $12000 for 3 years at 6% on part lots 1 and 2, block 14 Wolcott's addition. The list of mortgages has decidedly increased during the last 10 days, both on chattle and real estate security. During tne latter part of December, all of January and the first part of February the latter part of February till the first of May mortgage columns increase and the transfer of real estate decrease. From the middle o real estate sales loom up, and, perhaps, are more numerous than at any other season o the year. During the last two or three year the fall trade in lots has not come up to the predictions of many wise acres who seem to know more about the future than of the past. One thing is certain, Chicago realty is holding its own and in favored localities has very much appreciated in value. Men of limited means have been buying lots and building homes in the suburbs by the thousands, and our rich merchants and a few foreign capitalists have been buying up all unoccupied ground in the business portion of the city. Nearly every foot of vacant property centrally located, has been grasped by strong hands and the bulk of it improved by erecting costly and useful buildings. The best business property in the market (not the best in the city) has been sold during the year for from 2500 to 3000 per front foot, and the best residence, for from 200 to 800 per front foot, unimproved, of course. Central business property appreciated wonderfully within the last four years, but not until within the last 12 months has residence property taken a jump. Since the depression property on West Washington and Michigan Boulevards, and to some extent Grand Boulevard Indiana and Wabash avenues has advanced to the high figures noted above. An examination of suburban deeds as classified in this journal will show exactly what relation the suburbs of Chicago are holding to city realty. The following monthly and annual table will show the extent of real estate operations for the past year.

REAL ESTATE LAW.

POWER TO RENEW MORTGAGE.—The opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States by Matthews J., holding that the agreement by which further time was given for the payment of the debt, during which the mortgage was continued in force was authorized by the will of the deceased Mary Beers. The power to extend the time of payment of the debt without releasing the mortgaged security considered.

Taking the instrument in all its parts and looking at its entire scope and purpose, it must be admitted that, notwithstanding its omission of any direct and express stipulation of that character, its meaning and legal effect are to continue in force, so far as the parties to it had lawful authority to do so, the covenants and lien of the mortgage as security for the payment of the original debt, with the interest reserved at the increased rate until the expiration of the extended time of payment. This effect except by virtue of the powers contained in the will of Mary Beers. Cyrenius Beers, as debtor, had no power to continue the mortgage in force, nor as tenant for life to renew it as a mortgage in fee. This is a demonstration, therefore, that the instrument must be treated as an execution of those powers, because, if it can not otherwise operate according to the intention of the parties, it must be referred to the power which alone can make it effectual in all its provisions.

SIMPLIFYING REAL ESTATE TITLES.

It is an axiom, almost, in business matters, fhat the value of a property is greatly enhanced by making it easy to establish and to transfer ownership in it. There are thousands of persons, who would like to own a home, even though a modest and cheap one, but who are deterred, first by the delay and difficulty and cost of examining a title and next by the certainty that the same delay and difficulty would arise if they ever should need the money more than the home and finally by knowlekge that the demand for such property is limited because others like themselves, are deterred. If it were possible to buy a little home as quickly and readily, with as little risk and as little expense, as it is to buy a cargo of grain, or a bond or certificate of stock, there would be many applicants for such property where there now are none. Then, too, if every buyer knew that the number of other applicants would be increased by the same facilities which open the way for him, and that he could transfer the property to any other owner, when the terms, as quickly and with as little trouble as he can transfer a share of stock or a bale of cotton, another serious obstacle would be removed.

More buyers would insure better prices for holders of real property. But a simplification of real estate titles would also lead to greater facilities for the use of such property as collatteral security in loans, The more ready ascertainment of titles, the saving of expense and trouble in determining whether a security is sufficient, would tend to make purchases possible for a great number of persons who are now debarred from purchasing. If the dealers in real estate seek to promote the permanent interests of those who deal with them, they will regard the reform in titles as the most important object to be promoted.—Am, Real Estate Guide.

Improvement in Chimneys.

The best chimneys are made by inclosing hard-baked glazed pipe in a thin wall of bricks. Such chimneys will not only draw better than those made in the usual way, but there will be less danger from "defective flues." A four inch wall of bricks between us and destruction by fire is a frail barrier, especially if the work is carelessly done or the mortar has crumbled from the joints. To build the chimneys with double or eight-inch walls makes them very large, more expensive and still not as good as when they contain the smooth, round flues. To leave an air chamber between them for ventillating is better than to open directly into the smoke flue, because it will not impair the draught for the fire, and there will be no danger of a sooty odor in the room when the circulation happens to be downward, as it will be occasionally. The outside chimney, if there is one, should have an extra air-chamber between the very outer wall and the back of the fire place, to save heat, a precaution that removes to a great extent the common objection to such chimneys. A very large per cent of fires come from defective chimneys.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

Suit Brought Against Ex-Trustees of the Town of Lake for $11,000.

State's Attorney Mills, at the instance of Wilson M. Darlington, a trustee of the town of Lake, began a suit yesterday to recover $11,000 which, it is claimed, former trustees owe that corporation. The names of the trustees and the amounts claimed from them are: George L Chatfield, $1,964; John Wall, $389; Patrick Nolan, $1,929; Levi Montgomery, $480; Peter Murphy, $1,494; A B Condit, $871; Rudolph Beister, $1,092. It is claimed that these men defrauded the town out of the amounts named during their terms of office, and the reason why the suit is brought by the state's attorney is that the present town officers, John O'Neal, Frank M. Smith, John Wall and George L. Chatfield, have entered into a conspiracy to refuse to prosecute the defaulters in their corporate capacity.

In Chicago great enthusiasm is being manifested among real-estate people in the organization of the Real Estate and Renting Agents' Association, which is intended to unify the interests of legitimate dealers and agents, and exterminate, if possible, the unprincipled and surreptitious.—Dakota Terra Firma.

The Incubus on Real Property.

From New York Record and Guide.

The heavy money penalties exacted under laws from all who purchase real estate is beginning to attract wide spread attention from the press of the country. Investors cannot see why they should be charged such monstrous fees for buying one kind of property more than another. John Smith, for instance, receives a legacy in cash of $200,000. Of this sum he decsdes to invest $175,000 in bonds and stocks and $25,000 in reallty, He disturbes his risks over twenty different securities, and the next day after his purchase the bonds and stocks are in his safe deposit company, and the total cost is $12, 50 for every $10,000 so invested, There is no loss of time, his title is absolntely secure and the expense is a trifle compared with the magnitude of the sum involved. But he also purchases a house and some land which involves two tranactions. He must hire a lawyer to search the titles a month's time is consumed, and finally the expense of the transfers costs more than the brokerage on the $175,000 invested in securities. After all this waste of time and money it is proable that some dower which has been overlooked will be resurrected and his real estate title rendered insecnre. This is a monstrons discriminasion against real property, artifically made by onr laws. We are worse off in this respect in New York than in other States,

Protection Frum Lightning.

At first sight it seems a little strrnge that an architect almost never gives a thonght to protecting city buildings from lightning, while it is sure to be one of the considerations attaching to the planning of a conntry building, and the proper steps to be taken often form a part of the original specification, and their exeention is watched with anxious care. It is not that electric discharges occur less frequcntly over cities than over open stretches of country, and it may well be that a city may lie in the regular pathway which recent Anstrian researches show electric storms habitually take, and yet escape injnry, while isolated objects in the country in the range of the same storm are blasted.

A moment's thought, however, explains this immunity. In the first place, there are the great number of factory and mill chimneys which are now-a-days almost invariably properly protected. aud from their great height afford ample security to buildings lying within a considerable radius from them as centers. Then, nowhere than in cities is there better earth connection to be found, since, if one decides to rod his building, and can make his earth connection by securing the rods to the city water-mains, he need give himself no further thought on the matter, other than occasionally to assure himself that his rods do not rust out at the couplings, or are not fused by some known or unsuspected discharge. Bnt there is no absolute need of employing roofing connected with the ground by metalic rain-water conductors, themselves connecting directly with the sewers—which do not form a bad earth. Even if the roof itself is not tinued, the building is not likely to have a metal cornice connected by rain-water leaders with the ground. Besides these and the iron-fronted buildings, and the network of telegraph and telephone wires, which by themselves, would probably protect a city, there are the thousands of soil pipes rising above the roofs, each having an earth in the sewer, and indirectly through the connecting plumbing, with the city water-mains. So, except in the case of chnrches and other lofty buildings, the architect building in the city need not necessarily concern himself with the electric protectio of the building.

The principal requirements of good protection are conductors of proper size and sufficient conductivity securely attached to the building—, not insulated from it,—and to which all the metal work of the buildin s attached, so arranged, too, as to offer n

1883 will soon take her departure to give place to 1884—and with its terminus we can say truthfully that business of all kiuds has not shaken a happier farewell hand to any year thau to 1883—and no year has ever waited a more cheerful greeting than 1884. A new era has dawned upon our country—and its name is "prosperity,"—its influence is felt from the sunny shores of Florida to the snow-capped hills of Maiue; no city is better blessed than the "Qeeen of the World"—Chicago. Real estate business continues to hold a cheerful and high head—theu all who are interested in the real estate boom,—for Chicago will certainly have one—should subscribe for the 'Real Estate and Building Journal', the only paper that represents the Real Estate business full and complete. If you want to buy or sell it will be of untold advantage to you; because in its columns are contained everything from the simplest to the most profouud that would be of advautage to those dealing iu real estate. And all iuterested in Chicago should try to keep apace with her real estate movement, and the "Real Estate and Building Jourual" will put you on the inside track.

On account of its large circulation among all classes, it offers special inducements to advertisers, who wish to place their business before the people as a whole.

chance of short-circuiting, and ample earth connections. This last requirement is easily stated, but is the most difficult of all to properly satisfy: indeed, in the face of recent French investigations (see American Architect, page 221, No. 358) it seems so hopelessly expensive a task to provide a perfect earth that it seems hardly worth while to attempt to do anything, unless the building stands on the bank of a stream or pond.

PROTECTION FROM FIRE.

Owners of real estate with buildings are particularly interested in a material that will render their houses safe from fire as well as protection from the weather. Insurance pays actual losses in part, but no incidental losses, as stoppage of rents or business, &c.

THE CHICAGO

Fire Proof Paint Co.

Makes the only reliable mixed paint that will answer this double purpose. The Goss & Phillips Manufacturing Co.'s large manufactory, dry kil s and barns are covered with it, even the engine room.

Where this paint is applied the wood will not take fire from sparks, cinders, burning shingles or embers of any kind, flying from one roof to another, carpets burning on floors, upsetting or explosion of kerosene lamps, and the hundreds of other ways in which fires accidentally start. On a roof, it not only protects from fire, but is ornamental and saves the shingles from decay. All shingle roofs should be covered with it.

For full particulars and testimonials inquire at or address us at our office, Room 6, 89 Randolph Street, Bryant Block, Chicago, Ill.

BUILDING RESUME—1883. Continued.

In last week's number of the JOURNAL, a description of the most prominent business, office and manufacturing structures was given with the cost of the same. The following descriptions of costly residences will serve to show the great progress Chicago is making in architecture, and in the accumulation of wealth. The year 1883 surpasses all other years in the feature of costly and magnificent residences. Only the most elaborate and costly buildings are noticed.

SOUTH SIDE.

A residence for S. A. Kent on Michigan avenue, near Twenty-ninth street, two stories, basement, and French roof in hight, and 50 by 90 feet in size, with basement of rock-faced brown stone and walls of red brick and terra-cotta. Also a barn of the same material, 32 by 60 feet in size, in the rear of it.

A residence for A. Byram, on Michigan avenue, at the southeast corner of Twenty-ninth street, finished early in the summer. The outer walls are all of Bedford stone, and the structure, which is 42 by 80 feet on the ground, is two stories, basement, and French roof high. The design is novel and attractive. A barn in the rear, 35 by 50 feet, also has walls of Bedford stone.

A residence for W. R. Linn, on Michigan avenue, near Twenty-eighth street. It is 43 by 80 feet in size, two stories, basement, and steep roof in hight, and has walls of green stone. The barn is 30 by 50 feet, and has walls of the same material.

A residence for George Hankins, on Michigan avenue, south of Fourteenth street, 40 by 80 feet, and two stories, basement, and French roof high. The walls will be entirely of granit, and will be quite massive.

A residence for George Baldwin, at the corner of Prairie avenue and Ray street, 28 by 70 feet, and two stories, basement, and attic high. The outer walls of the house and barn are made entirely of Anderson pressed and molded brick.

A residence for John Wrenn, the banker, on Prairie avenue, south of Twenty-ninth street. It is 30 by 70 feet in size, two stories, basement, and attic high, and has a front of brown stone, Anderson pressed brick, and terra-cotta.

A residence for Amos Grannis, on Indiana avenue, south of Twenty-ninth street, 28 by 80 feet, with walls of red brick, trimmed with terra cotta. In the rear is a large barn, also of red brick and terra cotta.

A residence for Arthur Bingham, on Prairie avenue, near Twenty-ninth street. It is 28 by 70 feet in size, two stories, attic, and basement high, and has walls of Anderson pressed brick.

Two handsome houses for Charles L. Hutchinson, on Prairie avenue, north of Twenty-ninth street, one 25 by 70 feet and the other 30 by 80 feet in size. Each is two stories, basement and attic high, and has walls of red brick, with timber filled in, forming ornamental panels.

A residence for A. A. Sprague on Prairie avenue near Twenty-ninth street. It is two stories, basement, and attic high, 40 by 85 feet in size, and the outer walls are of Anderson pressed and molded brick trimmed with finely-carved brown stone.

A residence for T. R. Birch on Prairie avenue, near Twenty-ninth street. It is 40 by 85 feet, and is two stories, basement, and attic high, with a large barn in the rear. The walls of both structures are of Anderson pressed brick.

Five houses, two stories, basement and attic high, and one flat building, four stories and basement high, at the southwest corner of Indiana avenue Eighteenth street, for the J. M. Walker estate. The fronts of these are of Anderson brick, trimmed with white stone, and are quite attractive.

A residence and dancing-academy for A. Bournique on Twenty-third street, near Cottage Grove avenue. The residence is sixty feet front and four stories high, and the academy is about 60 by 127 in size and one story high. The walls are of Anderson brick.

become divided into trades almost scientific in their distinctiveness.

The land maintains the city, and the city again maintains, fructifies, educates, and elevates in its turn. Let a great city like Chicago be suddenly obliterated with all its energies and all its mighty influences, and the landed interests of all this continent must stagger under the blow. The gradual washing down of the earth and ashy accumulations of the bad lands during the ages succeeding the ice period and the spreading of the vast detritus over the ancient river and ocean bed which now forms the substrature of our prairies—whither due to providential—or simply to geological causes, was an economical phenomenon more concerned in the commercial, social, and moral progress of mankind than any other one geological evolution that can be named. The total absence of all limitation towards lateral extension noticeabie on our wide and level prairies, the indissoluble association between our commerce and our land, each being essential to the efforcement and conquests of the other, presents a groundwork for confidence in the grand future of our municipal, suburban, and surrounding real estate which renders all investment in a share of soil about us, even to the most limited extent, the most judiclous, and valuable investment that can be conceived of. Our commerce our manufactories must and will have a location for their vast machinery. The accumulated wealth of our merchants will surround itself, as of old, with the tokens of that pride in successful effort, and that fundamental joy born of the possession of field and forest, of pleasant lawns, and babbling brooks, which is as strong in the hearts of men as ever. Citizens will continue to alternate the hot breath of forge, and clangor of the iron wheel and hammer, with the gentle perfume of the garden, and the refreshing quiet of the shrubbery. Toiling men must have these things in as large proportion as possible. Excursions and parties here and there during our heated season only prove the necessity for a country retreat; while the imperious claims of industrial enterprise demand with a voice as loud or louder, that occupation for willing hands, must still further invade the remoter districts, to be again surrounded with a new and a widening circle of the sheltering homes of the workers. These inter-relations are as inevitable as the progress of time. They are upon us now; and, as in all other adventures, the first to take is the foremost in right, and the wisest to keep will be the happiest to enjoy.

The confidence of our citizens in this steady and resistless growth in the value of real estate in this vicinity has been amply demonstrated during the year now closed. Thousands of our poorer as well as more opulent citizens have manifested their faith in the future of Chicago by investments of savings in the purchase of sites for homes as well as for speculation. An aggregate of nearly fifty-two millions of dollars clearly attests at once the prosperity and the enterprise of our people; and the enquiries which daily reach us from capitalists in the provinces prove the general attractiveness of our prairies as an investment. All are invited to make common cause with us. Cordial welcome awaits the stranger as well as the citizen. Chicago is large-hearted enough for all, her opportunities are unlimited, and her prospects never were brighter. The best informed are the most hopeful, and those who have the largest stake now are the most willing to extend it.

THE INTER-RELATION OF REAL-ESTATE AND COMMERCE.

For many ages, and until comparatively recent times property was almost wholly limited to possessions in land. The husbandman, who sheltered his rude implements in a mean shed under the friendly walls of an ambitious and thriving burg, was as truly a dependent, as his fellow a few miles away, who sought protection from marauders of one kind by bartering his rugged services beneath the banner of a marauder of another kind. During long and troubled periods the ownership of real estate produced no effect on the general relations between the lordship of the soil, and the importunities of commerce. The generally inalienable character of landed estates deprived them of a selling price, and the arbitrary practice of conferring extensive territories on the children of royal and princely families rendered purchase in fee simple usually impossible. Modern revolutions especially that of 1789 in France, gradually broke down the old barriers; although the general effect has not been great as a means of advancing the inter-relations of husbandman and artificer in the old world. The metayer, with his fraction of a rood of soil has no wool, no beef, no pork, no wheat, no horses, no cheese for sale. His plot only yields himself a scanty sustenance. Commodities must be produced in appreciable quantities and merchantable quality to do more than supply a rural population with the necessaries of life. The accumulation of wealth in trade centers, as well as the requirements of manufacturing industries, create a value for territorial possessions, hitherto unknown. Landed estates become an accompaniment of successful trade, to yield in their turn to the imperious requirements of commercial intrusion. Thus, the principle of action and reaction between land and commerce has become an established economical factor in modern life. Agriculture itself has

Chicago R. E. and R. A. Association.

A meeting of this association was held on Wednesday afternoon last, at the board room 157 LaSalle street, President H. C. Mory in the Chair. About twenty of the association attended, and the question of the approaching annual banquet was first discussed.

The banquet committee reported favorably; and a resolution was unanimously passed that the banquet should be held at the Palmer House, Jan 15, next, at 7,30, P. M.

On motion Mssrs. Cummings, Pierce, Kerfoot, Henshaw and Marshall, all popular members, were nominated a committee on invitations; and on a second motion Mssrs. Mulligan, Baird and Hathaway were named a reception committee.

A proposition to amend the existing bye law on initiation fee resulted in the snm of $50 being fixed as the fee hence forward.

The secretary was instructed to notify members of the association not present, named as members of committees. The committee on rules reported progress, and asked further time; and confidence in the prosperity of the association was expressed under the rules to be suggested.

The annual meeting will be held at the same place next Wednesday at 2 P. M.

Much care is taken in the admission of members. The approaching banquet is expected not only to supply a pleasant social occasion but to result in much benefit to the association.

south of Eighteenth street, were completed early in the year. They are among the most elaborate residences on the South Side and have outer walls of brown stone.

A fine residence for D W Wells, on the corner of Michigan avenue and Twenty-sixth street. It is of red brick, elaborately trimmed with brown stone, and will be one of the largest and handsomest residences on the avenue when completed.

North Side.

The notable improvements on the North Side during the year were almost exclusively in the form of private residences. The most pretentious effort has been made by Mr. Potter Palmer on the Lake shore drive, between Oak street and the park. This house will be the largest, and by reason of its peculiar castleated style of architecture the most commanding residence on the North Side or in the city. It is very massive, being constructed of brown and gray stone, with a turreted tower on the northeast corner, over 100 feet high. The house will be surrounded by spacious grounds, which will be elaborately laid out and carefully kept. Completed, the structure will cost Mr. Palmer over $250,000. Mr Palmer has also erected some nice stone houses near his own residence, which will be completed and ready for occupancy this year.

Another handsome and expensive mansion is that being erected for Judge Lambert Tree and which will soon be under roof, at the corner of Cass and Ontario streets. The walls are all of rock-face brown stone laid irregularly. This house will be finished this year.

The Union Club-House, at the corner of Dearborn avenue and Washington place, which has just been completed, is of brown stone, intelligently designed outside and in, and finished with the finest of hardwoods throughout. It is three stories and basement high and is the most imposing structure on Dearborn avenue.

Mr Henry Ives Cobb is just now completing a model home for himself on Rush street, the second door south of Superior street. It is two stories, basement, and attic high, has a front of Scotch brown stone, rock-faced, with broad, generous windows, and a unique and handsome entrance. The interior was designed by Mr. Cobb with an eye to comfort and refined elegance. This house will be finished next spring,

Mr, J. V. Farwell's magnificent new house, at the corner of Pearson street and the Lake shore drive, is rapidly approaching completion, and will be ready for occupancy this year. It is sixty feet square and three stories high. The walls and exterior trimmings are entirely of gray-black stone from a quarry west of the city, giving them a rich and substantial appearance.

The above firm have been in continuous business since 1867 without a change of firm name. They report money for long loans as abundant inChicago and as largely furnished from the accumulations of western people, and further say that the prospect favors a sustained building activity, the cost of building having dropped in the past four months from 15 to 18%, due to the large stock of material on hand and a probability that labor to some extent must sympathize.

Mr. A. T. Hemmingway came into the firm the first of the year and will have charge of the sales, the firm having three departments, to wit: Loans, Rents and Sales. Mr. Hemmingway has been general Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association for the past six years and was in the real estate business for a period of eight years prior to that time. The firm is one of the most successful and enterprising agencies in the city

H. A. Hurlbut.

The market for Loans is well represented by the firm of Reed & Hurlbut or rather by Mr. H. A. Hurlbut at No. 123 Dearborn street. The eastern office is in charge of Josiah H. Reed at 53 Williams street, New York. This firm loans several millions of money each year in Chicago. Mr. Harlbut says:

"For the past year, the tendency of my customers has been to loan rather than to invest, and the amount of business has been much larger than the year previous, but more in loans than in investments. The firmness and strength with which central property has been held has been rather above what parties could consider as good bargains. Rates the past year have been firmer—6 per cent the average. The outlook for the coming year is better still, owing to the growth of the city, the actual demand for more buildings, and the building by owners of property for their own occupation."

J. P. White & Co.
Room 4, 95 and 97 Clark street.

In an interview with Mr. J. P. White of the above named firm it was learned that for the purpose of keeping customers posted as well as themselves they kept their Atlas corrected up to date, and as fast as they received the Real Estate and Building Journal, they entred the prices paid and loans made in place figures, so as to be able to locate a price of property exactly and at the same time see the market price. Mr. White says the firm is making a specialty of central property, and that they have considerable to do in the way of making vatuations for investors. Their specialty is this intimate acquaintance with down town land quotations, an aquaintance which they keep constantly up with the times, and immediately serviceable by aid of their vast atlas in which are daily recorded all changes in ownership and purchase price. The invaluable help thus afforded in securing property at bottom figures is testified to by the increasing number of buyers who have used Mr. White's services in making purchases. With his unique facilities, all he needs is a description of property wanted in order to immediately select for inspection the most eligible property at command. Some of the best property is not advertized, or even placed in the market, yet through this agency of J. P. White & Co's it is often opened to negotiation and transfer, to the mutual advantage of buyer and seller.

J. Appleton Wilson.
162 LaSalle st.

Englewood, Normalville and Lawndale are among the leading suburbs of Cook County. This well-known broker has operated and is now identified with real estate improvements in all of the above named suburbs. In 1869 he was trustee of the Ravenswood Land Co., since which time he has been identified with suburban interests. Mr. J. A. Wilson has prominently contributed to the remarkable growth of the cities and towns named above, his houses having been sold on easy payments, at prices ranging from $1200 to $5000 and $10,000, while his building lots ranged in April from $10 to $50 a foot. As soon as the Chamber of Commerce (just across the street from the depot) is completed, the new year will bring to these nearest and long popular suburbs more new residents than ever before. The enterprise and push of the citizens of Englewood have placed that city in the front rank as a convenient and popular place of residence for Chicago's business men.

REAL ESTATE LAW.

"Pierce vs Morey & Snow"; Just as the Real Estate and Building Journal predicted six months ago, the above entitled case would be reversed and sent back for a new trial. The Plaintiff should have moved out if the house was dangerous.

Lease.—False Representations. — Sewer Gas—Rights of Tenant.—The opinion of the Appellate Court of the First District, Ill., by McAllister, P. J., in a case where it was alleged that the tenant was induced to take the lease of a house upon the fraudulent misrepresentation that it was free from sewer gas. The tenant moved in and she, her family and boarders were injured seriously by sewer gas. The duty of the tenant and the liability of the landlord under such circumstances are fully stated by the learned judge who delivered the opinion of the court.

Constructive Notice.—A deed or other instrument, to be notice to subsequent purchasers, must show on its face that it was so executed and acknowledged as to entitle it to be recorded.—Girardin vs. Lampe, Wis. S. C., Sept. 25, 1883.

The Dedication of Land for a Street is a question of fact for the jury and not of law for the court.—Eastland vs. Fogo, Wis. S. C., Sept. 25, 1883.

Landlord and Tenant.—Where the landlord obtains judgment and sues out a writ of error which he subsequently dismisses, he is still entitled to recover the damages provided by statute. In such case he may recover all the damages actually suffered by him, including loss of profits in business. Both single and double damages are recoverable under the same count.—Hitchcock vs. Pratt, Mich. S. C., Oct. 3, 1883.

Riparian Rights, unless expressly limited, extend to the middle of the navigable channel, and cover any shallows or middle ground not shown in the government surveys, but lying between the channel and the shore, and this where the deed refers to a city plat instead of the government survey. Private agreements between joint riparian owners, whereby they apportion among themselves the submarine rights in front of their premises, cannot diminish the riparian rights of their grantee, if the latter have no notice of these agreements. Such agreements, after conveyance, would be a fraud of the grantee's right.—Fletcher et al. vs. Thunder Bay River Boom Company, Mich. S. C., Oct. 3, 1883.

A Wife's Dower in land owned by her husband may be barred by her quit claim deed of the land to him.—Rhodes vs. Davis, Mich. S. C., Oct. 3, 1883.

Adverse Title—Father and Son.—A father entered land in 1849 in U. S. land office in the name of his son, then five years old. Before issue of patent the father took possession of the land and occupied it until his death, in 1878. The son lived with his father until some time after he became of age. The father acknowledged the son's title until within a few months before his death. The father willed the lands to one against whom the son brought ejectment. The father willed other lands to the son. Held, that the court was justified in directing a verdict for plaintiff.—Allen vs. Allen, Wis. S. C., Sept. 25, 1883.

Execution Sale of Crop.—Where land is let to a tenant on shares, the interest of the landlord in the growing grain can not be seized and sold on execution before severance, so as to pass a good title thereto as against a purchaser at sheriff's sale of the land.—Long vs. Leavers, S. C., Pa., May 25. 1883.

Conveyance—Sale of Land—Standing Timber—Real and Personal Property.—By written contract P agreed to sell a piece of land to H, and convey when the purchase-money was paid. The standing timber was to remain P's as security. H, without paying, cut and sold part of the timber to J, and P gave notice of his ownership; thereupon J bought P's interest in the land and timber, prior to any attachment. Before J's deed was recorded, the lumber not having been delivered, was attached by the creditors of H. Held, that J was the owner of the land, and by legal sequence the lumber, and he could follow it and assert his dominion over it.—Dickerman vs. Bay, S. C. Vt., January term, 1883. Reporters' Advance Sheet.

Fraudulent Conveyance.—A voluntary conveyance to a trustee for the benefit of the grantor's wife and children, is not fraudulent against a creditor whose claim was, at the time, amply secured. The fact that the mortgage security is subsequently lost by the creditor's laches does not make such a conveyance fraudulent.—Stephenson vs. Donahue, S. C. O., Sept. 25, 1883.

PROTECTION FROM FIRE.

Owners of real estate with buildings are particularly interested in a material that will render their houses safe from fire as well as protection from the weather. Insurance pays actual losses in part, but no incidental losses, as stoppage of rents or business, &c.

THE CHICAGO

Fire Proof Paint Co.

Makes the only reliable mixed paint that will answer this double purpose. The Goss & Phillips Manufacturing Co's large manufactory, dry kilns and barns are covered with it, even the engine room.

Where this paint is applied the wood will not take fire from sparks, cinders, burning shingles or embers of any kind, flying from one roof to another, carpets burning on floors, upsetting or explosion of kerosene lamps, and the hundreds of other ways in which fires accidentally start. On a roof, it not only protects from fire, but is ornamental and saves the shingles from decay. All shingle roofs should be covered with it.

For full particulars and testimonials inquire at or address us at our office, Room 6, 89 Randolph street, Bryant Block, Chicago, Ill.

TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Architects Builders and Manufacturers will confer a favo on the publisher by mentioning the REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING JOURNAL when sending for circulars or corresponding with parties advertising in these columns.

A loan of $45,000 made by Shorthall & Helmer, 110 Dearborn street, to the White estate and W. G. Waddell, as recorded recently in the REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING JOURNAL, was made for the purpose of erecting twenty dwellings on Lincoln street and Warren avenue. A loan of $76,500 was made for building purposes to the White estate et al by the same firm some months previous. This firm is ready to make loans in any amount on good security. These houses front eighteen on Warren avenue and two on Lincoln street. They are designed by the well-known architect, W. A. Furbur. They are built with pressed brick and stone fronts and all modern conveniences will be used. Mr. Furbur is the architect of the Famous Miltimore works at Pennock. The contract is taken by Mr. W G. Waddell, the owner, who sub-lets the contracts as follows:

Painting.

Messrs. Perkins Bros. received the contract for the painting. This firm with their stores at 467 West Madison street and at the corner of 26th street and Cottage Grove avenue, are well known as painters and house decorators to many of the readers of the REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING JOURNAL This contract which they now have in hand will be done by experienced men and under the pe rsonal in spection of Perkins Bros. The contract for the painting of these buildings amounts to about $3,500.

Plumbing.

Mr. S. J. McGraw is the contractor for the plumbing and gas-fitting. The contract for plumbing amounts to about $4,000. Mr. McGraw is the patentee of The Positive Check and Waste, which is on exhibition at his store, 362 Wabash avenue. This patent is now being specified in contracts by architects, and meets with general favor.

THERE were about fifteen hundred more buildings erected in Philadelphia in 1883, than in 1882, and the buildings were of a more substantial character. The whole number of building permits issued was 6045 against 4355 in 1882 and 4250 in 1881.

The Hyde Park Building Boom.

The village of Hyde Park is about 48 square miles in extent, and is almost entirely devoted to residence in its northern half, while manufacturing industries are the most prominent features of its sonthern half. The two most noteworthy features therefore, of a review of the past year should be the building operations, and the work of the manufactories.

It is impossible to give the exact number of buildings erected within the limits of the village; for the reason that there are no data in existence, either in the hands of private parties or the village authorities. A careful estimate places the number of buildings at 850. The large majority of these were dwellings, although a limited number of stores and barns are included. Of this number 200 are allotted to that part of the village, lying north of 57th street, and the remaining 650 are credited to the territory south of that line,

As there is no record of the number of buildings, so there are no memoranda which will give their exact cost. Competent judges estimate the average cost of the residences north of 57th street, which are in the main elegant and ornamental buildings, at $7000, which gives a total of $1,400,000. The majority of the residences south of that street are the houses of artizans and the average cost is put at $2000, giving a total cost of $1,300,000, and a grand total of $2,700,000 invested in the building of private residences, stores and barns. These figures were largely swelled by the construction of the large and substantial freight shops at Pullmann, school houses, a foundry, ice-house, etc., at South Chicago, boarding-houses, and foundations for the immense works of the United States Rolling-Stock Company at Hegewish, "The Forks" of the Calumet river. the large and handsome Illinois Central passenger stations at South Chicago and Woodlawn, and various other particular enterprises involving the investment of large sums of money. All things taken into consideration, an estimate of $2,800,000 is probably much within the amount invested this year,

Real Estate and Building Journal

R. C. SMYERS, PROPRIETOR.

CHICAGO, SATURDAY, Jan. 12, 1884.

Our Public Lands and the Extension of Internal Commerce.

Last week we explained the inter-relation between real estate and commerce on general principles of progress and economy. Our views are strongly supported by the necessary effect of the sales of our public lands during the course of last year. The sales during 1883 increased forty per cent over 1882, and in the latter year fifty per cent over the year previous. A very large proportion, in some districts the great majority of the new settlers are foreigners. These persons are generally supplied with some ready money, enough to make a first payment on their land, and maintain themselves for a year. With the increase of domestic security arising from the sale of crops arise the great and growing wants of these new communities. Household furniture of wood and iron, clothing agricultural implements, and in regular proportion the various articles appertaining to civilized life become of greater demand. Many of our large cities find the supply of these newly settled regions a source of large and profitable trade; and a cessation of immigration has at times imperiled the existence of some of our manufacturing establishments. In two years, more than twenty-nine and a quarter millions of acres of government lands, have been accepted, and more or less improved, thus affording a rich territory for commercial enterprise. Of these territories Dakota heads the list with 6,689.595 acres; Nebraska comes next with 1,315,104 acres; next follows Minnesota with a settlement of 1,292,969 acres of public lands. Other states and territories swell the great total; Kansas. 808,655; Washington Territory, 763,779; California, 704,274; Mississippi, 516,211; Oregon, 499,770; Louisiana, 487,599; Arkansas, 460,656; Wisconsin, 454.002; Florida, 434,749. If Texas could be included, the great total would be greatly increased; but the general government owns no public lands in that state. During the six years ending with 1883, the almost incredible sum of 62,331,770 acres of good land has been transferred to purchasers. Some drawbacks exist against this splendid showing. All the tracts in Dakota which have been nominally sold to actual occupants, are not really in the hands of resident cultivators. A similar state of things probably exists to some extent in the other states named above; but the growth of towns and cities, and the vast amount of land actually in the hands of permanent settlers prove that wide regions have passed into the control of genuine cultivators resident on their own farms. The enormous addition to the wealth of the country derived from the products of these lands must largely and speedily spread through the commercial centers in return for domestic goods. The effect of this spread of wealth has had and will have still more, a lasting and healthy recuperative effect on trade. Chicago has never been slow to take advantage of opportunities, and our merchants will well know how to turn the proceeds of the twenty million acres newly devoted to civilizing purposes to the best account. The average under cultivation must increase from year to year for a long time; and the exchangeable value of the proceeds of these lands will afford a basis for many new centers of manufacture as well as the extention of many of those now existing. The outlook in this quarter is certainly cheering.

Notice to our Patrons.

Our readers are respectfully cautioned against one H. C. Munth who was discharged by us and other journals for gross misconduct. We found him wholly untrustworthy and were compelled to sever our relation with him. We now learn that he is slandering and misrepresenting us and the character and standing of this journal and we invite our friends to make inquiry before crediting one word he says. We believe we are far above slanders and misrepresentations, whether uttered by H. C. Munth or any other person. Other journals have been similarly treated by this man Munth, and the probability is that a very severe lesson will be legally taught him for what he has already done since his discharge by us.

THE MARKET.

At this period of the year real estate transfers are not usually very numerous. The greater number of deeds filed since January 1, 1884,have expressed contracts entered into towards the close of 1883, But although only a few days of the present season have elapsed the market has not been without decided signs of strength and life. Several sales have been effected by Messrs. Mead & Coe at $20,000 and under; a plot of ground on South Clark street, 200 feet north of Polk, having been sold by this firm at the figure named. The nine-story building at the corner of LaSalle and Jackson streets Is being rapidly rented to first class tenants, four floors out of ten having been already taken at good figures, although the roof is scarcely completed. The total income from that building will yield a very handsome interest on the outlay. The purchase of 138 feet on LaSalle street, by 74 on Adams, by the Home Insurance Co. of N. Y., for $250,000, is the most important transaction recorded this month. The same property a little more than a year ago sold for $50,000 less. Last September a New York capitalist purchased 50 by 99 feet on the corner of Jackson street and Fourth avenue for $62,500; and the owner has jast refused $68,000 for the same property. Prices remain steady. Many other transfers are now the subject of negotiation;and important contracts have in some cases taken definite form; but as investors generally are very careful in examining details the time has not yet arrived for announcing definite sales.

RENTS.

In order to aid intending investors, we have proposed the following questions to some of our most experienced and judicious real estate men:

1, What class of houses yields the best profits on the outlay, those calling for high rents or moderate rents?

2, Have rents afforded as good an interest on the capital expended as most other classes of business?

3, Which do you consider the wisest investment in real estate, one yielding a smaller immediate return, or a larger ratio of profit after the lapse of years? To which of these are present preferences directed.

On this subject many of our foremost investors have been consulted. The opinions of were first obtained. These gentlemen have been so long established in Chicago—during a period of nearly thirty-two years—being thus the oldest real estate firm among us; and the firm have been so closely identified with the growth of the city that they were naturally appealed to. These gentlemen state as the result of their long experience that an investment in well selected bulk property in the immediate outskirts of Chicago will in course of a liberal length of time exceed any aggregate of principal interest resulting from a purely money investment in bonds and mortgages. Those who seek immediate returns will lend their money or build houses. Those who can purchase and hold bulk property will be more fortunate, even even if the location chosen be undeveloped but promising. In the case of inadequately improved property the land rises in value rapidly, and will yield well. and will speedily become worthy of buildings appropriate to the advance. Low priced dwellings, the firm think, pay a larger percentage on cost than more expensive ones, especially, if the buildings, fairly appointed, are put up specially for rent. Cottages pay better on actual cost than either of the former class of dwellings, Style of appointment appropriate to the location, is always an important element. Dwellings of good well appointed character are not as a rule desirable for revenue only. Investments on growing and improving arteries of a great city always pay well, Flats, built plainly and substantially always pay a good interest on outlay. Such structures are at present much in favor. The firm recommend purchase of property on the great "arteries," improved, if speedy revenue is necessary. or unimproved if the investor can afford to hold and be content with the greater advantages that are certain to come in time. Messrs.

LYMAN & GIDDINGS

expressed views identical in general purport to those given above, though conveyed in terms necessarily somewhat different. Thoroughly informed on the laws which govern the growth of cities, and well experienced in the feelings of Chicago property owners and investors in real estate, these gentlemen are authorized to speak with confidence. In their view moderate rents always pay better than high rents; but moderate rent is as much governed by location as by the amount. and even more so. The locality allowed for, a sum moderate for that neighborhood pays better than a rent in that neighborhood based on a higher scale, even though the appointments would justify the increased demand. Rents, this firm think, have paid as good interest as any other class of investment, and better than some others that seemed more promising two years ago, A judicious investment for time usually pays better for property unimproved, but well located, than outlay on improved property. The latter may not be quite eqnal to the market either for rent or sale in a few years. Present preferences are towards investments under the control of purchasers, so that buildings may be made suitable to surroundings, and adapted to the tastes and demands of tenants or purchasers influenced by prevailing styles, and sanitary and other requirements, In this view structures demanding heavy outlay in favorable localities, by retaining their solid and respectable character, are cheaper and more valuable than less expensive buildings in the same neighborhood. This fact is especially noticeable in business thoroughfares.

Proposed Builders' and "Traders' Exchange of Chicago."

An important meeting in support of the project above named was held on Wednesday last in the building southeast corner of Wabash avenue and Washington street.

On motion of Mr. G. C. Prussing, Mr. Marshall M Cotter was elected chairman, and Mr. Ed. H. Calloway secretary. The chairman stated the object of the meeting, which was to establish an organization useful to all branches of trade connected with building. In order to promote discussion Mr. Prussing moved the following resolution in view of the desirableness amounting to a necessity for such an organization as that proposed "Resolved, that we the undersigned do hereby subscribe our firm names as members of the "Builders' & Traders' Exchange of Chicago, to be governed by such rules or bylaws as may be adopted at a subsequent meeting of the subscribers." Mr. Prussing said that five years ago 24 men organised an exchange in Cincinnati, and now it is a flourishing institution with 2200 members. Similar associations have been established in Few York, St Louis, Boston and elsewhere, and they have been all successful.

Mr. H. L. Gay estimated the cost of the hall in which the meeting was held at $6000 a year, and calculated that this sum would have to be raised each year by rent of offices, fees etc. A desultory discusion took place, the meeting dividing into groups, debating the subject. Mr. White moved that steps be taken at once to ascertain the number of persons present who would subscribe their names for $25 a year. After debate on this proposition the chair asked those present who assented to Mr. White's proposition to move to the right of the chair. The great majority about 4 fifths of those present took up the position indicated,

Further debate ensued on the question of immediate organization. Mr. Prussing's resolution was put to the meeting and carried with the proviso added that the fee should not exceed $25. A resolution on organization was next put and carried, creating a committee of 9 from different branches of the building trade. The number was subsequently increased. The following gentlemen were then generally proposed and elected: H. C. Hoyt, G. Tapper, J. P. Ketcham, G. E. White, Jonathan Clark, John Tomlinson, William Chenoveth, Wm. Wilson, James Johns, G. C. Prussing, N. L. B. Jenney. This committee was given power to add to their number from branches of the trade not represented, and were instructed to report to a meeting to be held at the same place January 16, 2 P. M.

PROTECTION FROM FIRE.

Owners of real estate with buildings are particularly interested in a material that will render their houses safe from fire as well as protection from the weather. Insurance pays actual losses in part, but no incidental losses, as stoppage of rents or business, &c.

THE CHICAGO

Fire Proof Paint Co.

Makes the only reliable mixed paint that will answer this double purpose. The Goss & Phillips Manufacturing Co.'s large manufactory, dry kilns and barns are covered with it, even the engine room.

Where this paint is applied the wood will not take fire from sparks, cinders, burning shingles or embers of any kind, flying from one roof to another, carpets burning on floors, upsetting or explosion of kerosene lamps, and the hundreds of other ways in which fires accidentally start. On a roof, it not only protects from fire, but is ornamental and saves the shingles from decay. All shingle roofs should be covered with it.

For full particulars and testimonials inquire at or address us at our office, Room 6, 89 Randolph street, Bryant Block, Chicago, Ill.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

—)o(—

TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Architects Builders and Manufacturers will confer a favo on the publisher by mentioning the REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING JOURNAL when sending for circulars or corresponding with parties advertising in these columns.

A Good Time To Build.

The actual cost of a building site, although very important, is not the only item to be considered in estimating the advisability of erecting a house. There are many other serious details of expense. Building materials, especially hardware, stone, brick, lime, lumber. and many others have to be taken into account. After very careful inquiries we are able to lay before our readers some very important facts on these matters. Let us take hardware first. On this item the most prominent merchants and dealers have been personally consulted, in order that our own information might be supplemented, and connected if necessary. A marked decline in hardware has taken place within a year past; and the general tendency appears to be still downward. In some lines bottom prices seem to have been reached. Cabinet hardware, such as nickel plated goods, have declined 25 to 30 per cent, and for common hardware in that line from 20 to 25 per cent. For the finer classes of goods in this department, or what are called fancy goods, the decline in price has been greater in proportion than in staple goods. Screws have come down lower than in 18 months past, and the tendency is towards further weakness. An exception in this general department is Upholsterer's tacks which have advanced a little, at least temporarily, in consequence of a combination for that purpose. This state of things will probably not long continue to affect this article.

Iron pipe has advanced slightly, but on other goods of a similar class there is no advance, Brass goods for house furnishing are steady, but to all appears in consequence of an advance in lead and composition of that metal for plumbers' purposes. The heavier and commoner articles, nails, weights, locks, and trimmings of all descriptions have come down considerably. In the lighter articles of this class whatever further decline takes place is expected within the next thirty days. If it does not happen in that time prices will continue probably at present rates. But in nails, weights and such matters a steady decline is anticipated through the season. The nail mills shut down some time ago in order to reduce production. The sinking in prices has thus been here temporarily checked; but when the mills open again, a slight reduction in prices is anticipated. The price of nails was too high in proportion to other articles. Builders' hard ware generally has come down from 20 to 25 per cent; and in some classes is as low as possible, and if there be any change at all in these classes, it will be upward as the season advances, everything from a saucepan to a shovel is down. Tin plate and all articles made from it were greatly depressed last year; and there is no present probability of a rise in price. In all this department the present season presents great inducements for an investment in house property.

Hyde Park Public Improvements.

The public improvemnts of the past year have been very numerous and important. Miles of sidewalks, sewers and water-pipe have been laid, and miles of streets improved. The two most noticeable public improvements, however, are the Ninety-second street swing-bridge across the Calumet river, costing $25,000, and the water-works tunnel, which is now half completed, and extends a distance of half a mile under Lake Michigan.

President H. R. Hobart, in his annual message for the municipal year, ending April 1, 1882, estimated the population of Hyde Park at 25,000, against 15,724 as given by the census of 1880. A moderate estimate of the population January 1, 1883, is 45,000 people; Pullman and South Chicago alone containing 15,000 inhabitants by actual census returns.

Ex-President Hobart says: "We live in the largest village of the world—a corporation covering nearly forty-eight square miles, or about one-third more than the entire area of the great city of Chicago. I may add, that in area, population, attractiveness for residence, opportunities for business, and extent and importance of industrial enterprises, Hyde Park excels any village or town in the universe, and has yet only just begun to grow."

Bricks For Builders.

The Ottawa Tile Company, Chicago, have commenced supplying the hollow tile for arches of nine floors and the partitions of the Pullman office building and also for the furring of the outside walls. They have also been awarded the contract for the fire-proofing of the new Sibley warehouse and the J. D. Parker office building and the residence of Wilbur F. Story, on Grand boulevard, Hyde Park. The demand for fire-proofing material is such that the enlargement of the plant at Ottawa is not too great to be run to its full capacity in the production of their excellent material, a fact that gives a positive indication of an increasing demand for fire-proof buildings, both public and private.

A fine sample of fire-proofing is now observable in the new Board of Trade building, Chicago. where the Wight Fire-proofing Company are placing, it is said, the largest contract for this material ever let in the West. Particularly interesting is the encasement of the mammoth wrought-iron columns, which support the tower, in light porous terra cotta, a material that is light in weight, yet is almost a perfect non-conductor of heat.

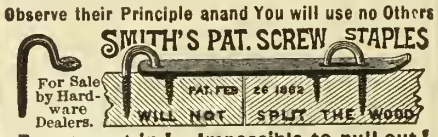
Real Estate and the Social Problem.

Workmens' Homes.



The majority of mankind do not look beyond the most essential requirements of the hour, food, clothing and shelter. When sparsely distributed, and enjoying sufficiency either in actual possession or in the usual expectation of the place and circumstances, present needs are all that there is any motive for supplying. But when aggregated in dense masses, pressed by a continual struggle, and rivaled by counter claimants. at every turn a sharper, and sometimes a more virulent sentiment is created. In proportion as men become more observant, and therefore more sensitive, better acquainted with results, while ignorant of the train of ratiocination which discovers causes, they become more subject to panics. Of this class of alarms, perhaps the more dangerous is the dry rot panic. If a crowd trample each other to death in a theatre or a church, suddenly there is an investigation and the cause of the wrong is more or less corrected. But if a crowd becomes possessed with an alarm that the sources of their life and hopes are being gradually filched away from them, the corroding feeling spreads long unnoticed. When a population believes that their land is being occupied to their own hopeless exclusion, either the fallacy, if there be one, should be exposed or the evil ought to be corrected. In this respect the spread of knowledge of facts is the destroyer of logic. The better opportunity there is to learn by observation the less is there of reasoning. The results of wealth are around us on every hand; only a few can fully comprehend the multiplicity of details, and the study of principles and relations necessary to accomplish even one creative result. The multitude never stops to reason out those problems. They behold luxury and ostentation and they think that only an outstretched hand is required to grasp and hold it, and if there are unknown causes and hidden problems which prevent them from an equal share, fortwith there is a cry. There is a spirit of dissatisfaction abroad at the rapidity with which our land is being occupied by great combinations to the exclusion of hand workers, and the occasion as one which demands notice, and redress, if need be. The posession of a home plot of land is the most conservative. the most civilizing, and the most sanctifying influence this world presents. The earth is accepted as the common nourisher. and men have always, and will always claim a direct share in its bounty. In a city like Chicago where there is such a wide extent of surface most readily applicable to the creation of homes, there is no one region set apart as a reserve for workmen's dwellings. A serious movement towards the devotion of a generous tract of land especially for the purpose of cottage homes would alike confer honor on our city, and credit on our legislature, Our philosophical principles and our selfrespect have founded our social system on the family as the basis. The home is the sacred asylum where virtue and content shelter themselves and blossom out in beanty. Ownership is the manly title which best suits our individual independence, No man wants to be a beggarly dependant on public distribution which is only an alms disguised. Let us protect our land and devote it to its primary purpose as the residence inheritance of the race; and let our toiiing millions feel that confiscation shall not go on unchecked, leaving them shelterless—aliens in their own country. There is room for all and to spare. It is for the collective wisdom of the community to apportion our great possessions so that while there is room for all, all shall have room. We suggest that the great public shall take counsel for its own people; and while it is unfortunate that every man cannot be relied on to do without help and protection, yet we must deal with men as they are. Let a selected reservation of land be distinctly marked out as sacredly devoted to workmen's homes, within easy reach by rail of our great center, and there will be then less ground for the angry cry that the poor are being crushed out, The growth of our city will gradually occupy more and more of our residence sites, driving the population to the suburbs, as always happens in great cities. Let us make provision for that beforehand in regard to our toiling masses.

THE MARKET.

Opinions as to the present tendencies of the market are by no means uniform, some dealers being highly satisfied, others less jubilant. The prevailing opinion is that real estate will remain steady, or slightly advance, but there is not yet time for a fixed judgment. Certain it is that inquiry has been verv active during the week, and more sales would have been effected at cash rates if buyers could have suited themselves in location. Certain it is also that there is no lack of capital seeking investment in real estate and Chicago is receiving her full share of attention. Correspondence with outside investors is active, and is expected to lead to important results. Holders generally are firm, while some whose property is extensive have shown signs of concession in second class localitles. The general tendency. so far as developed, is in favor of investments for speedy rcturn; speculation in acres is not yet much favored, A sale of a lot 100x158 ft on the n. w. corner of Indiana ave, and 39th street, of the property of O. S. Wheelock for $20,000 cash, and the taxes of 1883, effected last Wednesday, will indicate the fact that prices are fairly firm in that locality, as it is favorably situated. In the opposite direction the sale of a house and lot on Gross Park Way, 25x125, for $1650, and an unimproved lot on Roscoe av., 25x125, for $400 show that purchasers are to be found for one neighborhood as well as for another, We think we sum up the situotion by saying that the outlook is as good as last year at this time as to prices, and better as to inquiry and prospects.

RENTS.

Our questions have been replied to this week by Mssrs. Pierce & Ware, and we have these gentlemen deal in the better and more expensive and stylish class of property and find as little effort necessary to dispose of it on good terms as property of any other class, They maintain that houses hold their own; and have not exhibited any tendency towards a fall in value this year yet. Rents of stores are easily renewed at last year's rates, and in this respect the firm are agreeably disappointed. Inquiries from other cities in this country and abroad are numerous, and foreign capital is seeking employment among us more than ever. In sales there is no sign of weakness, and as persons who pay moderate rent are always the majority, a class of residence, to meet the requirements of this class always pays well. This firm have experienced no difficulty in obtaining excellent tenants for the new and very attractive residences situated on the corner of Lake avenue and Oakwood boulevard.

There are seven residences at this point constructed in very pleasing Flemish style. One ofthese 30 feet by 80, is expected to rent for $3600. The others, somewhat smaller, will readily bring $1200. The material is green stone, and the general finish is unusually elegant. There is a class of wealthy persons who have long resided in hotels because they could not find houses with sufficient charms of style and arrangement to suit their tastes. A more expensive class of houses is now being provided to suit tenants of taste and means. Outside New York there has not hitherto been any class of dwellings obtainable, similar to those now under the control of Mssrs. Pierce & Ware. Houses of a superior class will probably be preferred to flats by persons of independent position; and investment in this class of property, judiciously made, can not fail to yield encouraging returns. The line of this firm's general business is rather in the direction of investment with a view to speedy returns.

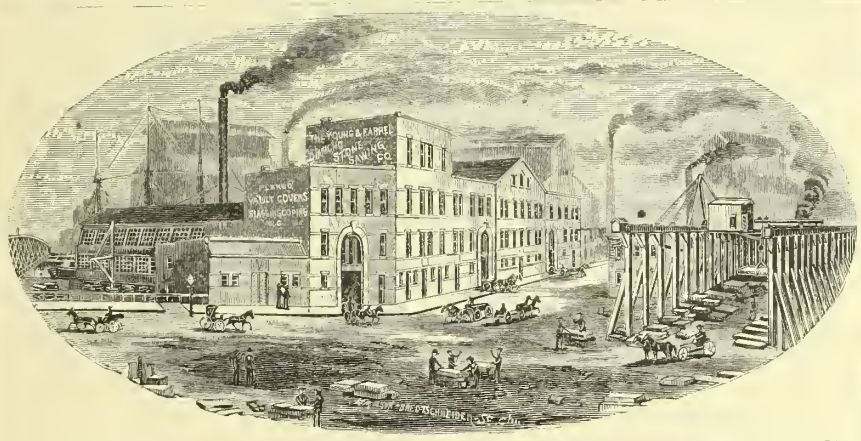
vation and patient industry assembled for the avowed purpose of promoting other peoples interests as well as their own, by means of the soundest principles of economy, enterprise and emulation, greeted each other in social welcome for a few hours. For the first time in the history of Chicago the real estate interests of the city were associated for mutual benefit, Several ineffectual attempts have already been made here to harmonize the principle and procedure in the transfer of the ownership of our territory, to simplify methods, effect more certainty in titles, and diminish expense. The vastness of the interests involved, the great wealth actually employed, and the resolute foresight of a few leading spirits have at length accomplished the object, long sought ineffectually. The first annual banquet which st once proclaimed and completed the work. was marked by a large attendance, most amicable interchange of friendly courtesy, and an exhibition of genial social talent which probably surprised those most immediately coucerned in its exhibition.

Mr. H. C. Morey, president of the association, was in his place; his dry, quiet humor, and shrewd business wit ensured a most hearty recognition. The toasts were well worded, and very appropriately responded to, in some cases remarkable so. Mr. E. A. Cummings replied to the first, "Our Association" and did himself honor. Full of earnestness on behalf of his theme, both as a toast and a reality, Mr. Cummings spoke well and infused not a little fervor into the proceedings. Mr. H. L. Turner replied to the sentiment "Loan Agents" most happily. His address was direct, hnmorous and impressive, and was frequently endorsed by tokens of honest admiration. Mr. W. L. Pierce, while nol an orator, was earnest and judicious in reply to "Real Estate Agents"; and supplemented his own femarks by a well worded paper from the pen of Mr, F. R. Chandler. His Houor the Mayor entertained the company very happily in response to the toast "Our City," and was never more at home than among his real estate compeers. Uniting, as of course, the character of politician to that of representative of property, his honor attributed the appreciation of the value of our soil to his own election and good government. After a good paper by Mr. C. H Mulliken a resume of ancient land transfers consliluted the address of Mr. R. C. Givins, for the occasion, the spokesman of the "Men of Deeds." The law added its wit and wisdom in the humorous and withal weighty response of Mr. J. P. Wilson.

Mr. T. E. Bryan, a veteran real estate representative, spoke to the "Days of Yore," and withmuch force recalled many incidents in the growth of our city. One instance was especially impressive—that of the large sum of 160.000,000 being raised by the efforts of Mr. Henry Villard now prostrated, for investment here when the disastrous fire intervened.

The feast itself was good, enjoyable, and enjoyed. The men of deeds proved themselves to be also men of words, good and entertaining. The occasion was marked by a genial and practical wit, hearty sociability, sound professional knowledge, and ready capacity for weighty, albeit humorous debate, which gratified as much as it perhaps snrprised every gentleman present. The association has no need to travel outside its own ranks for ability to do its own work, express its own sentiments professional or playful, and wear its own laurels in the future as in the past.



One especially gratifying fact was again demonstrated by the success of this banquet. It is this:—There can be geniality, and wit, and wisdom of the best quality without wine,

The Builders' and Traders' Exchange.

This organization is now established. The meeting held for the purpose of definite action, in the Taylor building, northeast corner of Wabash avenue and Washington street, was earnest and harmonious, Mr. George E. Tapper in the chair. Through the effective action of the committee on constitution and bye-laws, appointed at the previons meeting and under the energetic direction of Mr. G C Prussing, the chairman, a practical report was presented to the meeting and adopted after some discussion. The system of arbitration was distinctively adopted as the method for adjusting difficulties respecting contracts; and recalcitrants shall be considered subject to the censure of the organization. A refusal to submit to the arbitrators in such cases is now declared in advance to be unprofessional. This position is certainly judicious, in that it appeals to the sense of honor of the members, and renders them sensitive as to their reputation. The third Monday in January of each year was fixed as the time for the annual meeting; and a nominating committee was provided for the selection of officers to be elected by the association. Under this provision the first annual meeting will be held in the Taylor building next Monday at noon. Mssrs. T. C. Courtenay, Erastus Foote, Jr., Jonathan Clarke, and D. J. Puvington were named by the chair as the first nominating committee. The organization starts out with about two hundred and fifty members.

CULTIVATION OF TASTE IN BUILDING.

A Most Laudable Enterprise.

It is a little over thirty years since the system of international comparison of scientific skill and tastefnl handicraft became established as a great principle in manufacturing industry. Previous to that time each nation and every manufacturer in each, followed the old system of jealousy of every other. Men thought that a policy of secrecy was the most favorable to industrial interests. The policy of exclusion of ideas from workshops, ateliers and studios necessarily included another, and most serious omission. Men overlooked the benefit resulting to their own intellectual efforts from that essential source of Improvement,—"Comparison." Free and competent workers, men of steady nerve and creative genius, can and do look on the labors of others in the same line, to learn and not to borrow, to instruct themselves in living principles, not to appropriate the concrete and complete results of other men's labors.

Especially is this principle true with respect to those compositions which have a recognized position as the result of superior design and practical merit. Staple articles deserve a prominent place where they can be inspected by intending purchasers, and the suitability of different designs and appliances can be studied by actual observation. Many of these must now be sought for at great trouble and expense. We can safely assert that there are hundreds of simple and useful articles connected with the building trade, of solid merit, that have not obtained the general recognition they deserve. A permanent exhibition of snch will confer a great benefit on the public. Even in lines that are well known there is plenty of room for taste and skill in special cases, as in iron work, mouldings, ceilings, and sanitary arrangements. Our lives have been placed under greatly improved conditions, within a few years, by a few new appliances. The market abounds with good things for building as well as other purposes. Let them be placed where they can all be seen.

Another class of articles also deserve a place;—those that express original ideas, or meet new requirements on novel principles. One of the chief reasons why piracy of inventions has hitherto been possible is that the world at large has not been informed as to the rights of individuals. Patented articles are frequently worthless, and often far inferior to standard staples already well known and widely used. A new thing, of pronounced superiority ought to obtain recognition, not to replace the old, but supply a new want.

Should Mr Henry S Gay succeed in this proposed enterprise he will deserve the lasting thanks of the public. The situation chosen on the south east corner of Wabash avenue and Washington street is well located, central, spacious, well lighted, and suitable to the purpose. Once organized such an institution would be identified with the building trade of the whole country, and form a very important addition to the city as a centre of industrial education, and a market for building materials of the highest class.

REAL ESTATE LAW.

Important to Landlords and House Agents.

The case of Mrs. Georgiana Pierce against H. C. Morey & Co., was one to recover damages for loss through the existence of sewer gas in the house 474 Randolph street, Chicago, which had been leased to her by Morey and Snow as agents for James Gibson. the owner. Snow had represented that there was no sewer gas about the house. Mrs. Pierce occupied it as a boarding-house, and soon after she went in, the existence of sewer gas was discovered, and the health of Mrs. Pierce and others suffered, and her boarding-house was broken up. She, however, remained in the house some months after the nuisance was discovered. She then brought suit and recovered judgment in the court below for $1100. On appeal it was contended that an instruction to the jury was bad because it held that the lease was absolutely void owing to fraud and misrepresentation. Judge McAllister reversed and remanded the case, deciding that the instruction was wrong, because of the fact of the plaintiff not leaving the house at once on discovering the nuisance and thus preventing the accumulation of damages.

PROTECTION FROM FIRE.

Owners of real estate with buildings are particularly interested in a material that will render their houses safe from fire as well as protection from the weather. Insurance pays actual losses in part, but no incidental losses, as stoppage of rents or business, &c.

THE CHICAGO

Fire Proof Paint Co.

Makes the only reliable mixed paint that will answer this double purpose. The Goss & Phillips Manufacturing Co.'s large manufactory, dry kilns and barns are covered with it, even the engine roo[m].

Where this paint is applied the wood will not take fire from sparks, cinders, burning shingles or embers of any kind, flying from one roof to another, carpets burning on floors, upon ...ng or explosion of kerosene lamps, and the hundreds of other ways in which fires accidentally start. On a roof, it not only protects from fire, but is ornamental and saves the shingles from decay. All shingle roofs should be covered with it.

For full particulars and testimonials inquire at or address us at our office, Room 6, 89 Randolph street, Bryant Block, Chicago, Ill.

Principles of Ruttan Ventilation.

BY G. P. RANDALL, ARCHITECT.

The leading feature of the Ruttan System of Ventilation is to introduce the warm air into the room through the floor or somewhere between the floor and ceiling, and exhaust it out of the room through the floor or through a perforated base, from whence in passing out of the room it goes under the floor between the joists, which are raised on top by cross-furring them up, thus enabling the air as it passes from the room to move in any and every direction, crosswise as well as between the joists; and at some points under the floor it is taken down to the cellar in a flue or flues, where it is connected with an exhaust flue that takes this foul air up and out of the building. This is sometimes designated as the downward exhaust principle. At other times it is taken from under the floor directly into an UPWARD EXHAUST flue out of the building above the roof. This is regarded at present as the best practice, but this is RUTTAN IMPROVED

Mr. Ruttan's theory was to take the cold and foul air out at the floor or near it in small jets, so small that scholars sitting in the vicinity would not have their feet and legs chilled by the moving currents. There are some architects who exhaust the cold air out of a room by setting registers in the floor, with exhausting ducts between the joists leading to the outlets. This, too, is wrong for the reasons just given, that the currents of air moving from every direction on or above the surface of the floor toward these exhausting registers would soon make the feet too uncomfortable to be tolerated. In a school room artificially warmed and ventilated, every care should be taken to get the fresh air into, and the cold and foul air out of a room with the least possible amount of air currents that would strike any portion of the body.

Proposed Buildings in Hyde Park.

A mansion is to be erected at an early date on the corner of Fifty-second street and Woodlawn avenue, at a cost of $5000. Also a large and handsome brick structure, on Fifty-third street, between Lake avenue and the Illinois right of way. Several stores will also be erected during the season, aggregating $75,000 and over. Hyde Park is healthy, and when contemplated public improvements are carried into effect, will become, even more than at present, a favorite place for private residences.

Building as a Mode of Distributing Wealth.

No man can be reasonably asked or expected to invest his money in philanthropy by the building of houses, unless some specific purpose is to be served by the structures, Money is so powerful a form of wealth, and so useful in creating more wealth when economically expended, that to throw it broadcast without determinate purpose except that of aimless philanthropy, would serve no good purpose, not even that of the philanthropy intended, The sense of value in anything corresponds to the capacity for effort in men, and a thing is valued in proportion as its acquisition has evoked a struggle to obtain it. What is obtained without pains is never valued. Neglect and decay, even of the best things, necessarily follow if too easy acquisition is the rule. But while aimless philanthropy defeats its own professed purpose, wise distribution is inherent in the creation of objects valuable in themselves; and in none more than in building. Individual pride, ambition, and even vanity frequently supply motives whereby the most powerful and permanent economical forces are set in motion. When Augustus declared that he found Rome of brick, but left it of marble, we may conclude that the better shelter of the Romans was not the principal motive which prompted either the statement or the policy which led to it. Great men have always been great builders. Grandeur and permanence are the especial characteristics of splendid structures; although codes of law have ever surpassed them in both qualities.

But whether dynastic grandeur, individual majesty, or the lowlier but purer motive of human duty suggests the work, certain it is that no art is a more wise or beneficent distributor of wealth in the most judicions manner than the noble one—architecture. The materials employed are so various, and require so much science in their discovery and production, so much labor in their transport and arrangement, so much skill in their disposition, that all the components of human industry are concerned in the creation of a fine building. From the humble but skillful quarryman with his sledge and his square, from the rough toiler in the brick yard, to the scientific designer, draughtsman and colorist, all the combinations of mental and physical genius that we possess, are concerned in the great work. The purposes served are not merely those of protection from the elements, and permanence of structure. The loftier qualities of proportion, harmony of details, and symetry of arrangement, at once enlist the services of trained intellect, and cultivate the better sense of the community who control the structure. Thus the creation of buildings spreads wealth, on the most generous and the most conservative principles, among the representations of all classes of industry. The cultivation of human ingenuity in construction and ornament, of emulation and pride in the workmen, and the infinite diversities of technical skill called for and exhibited constitute an education, and a source of power and stability conferred by no other art whatever. The men of stone, iron, clay and wood, the men of steam and electricity, of coal and bitumen, the craftsman with his plumb and level, the artist with his pencil, the calculator with his cosines, the sculptor with his chisel, go hand in hand with the glass-maker, and the paper printer, the frescoist and the marqueteur in the creation of a noble edifice. And when such a structure is produced all men are proud of it, even those who envy its possessor most, Usually it is only a vigorous and enterprising commonwealth that can rear such buildings. It is general prosperity that makes them possible. But when that power, wealth, prosperity, and prospective augmentation of each prevails, as among ourselves, good buildings are at once the most beneficent and the most strengthening elements of permanence that we can possess.

THE MARKET.

A Good Time To Build.

Last week we published some reasons, drawn from present and prospective prices in builders' hardware, why the present season will be a good time to build. Similar reasons can be found in the prices of other materials. Lumber is not expected to advance, and may fall a little with the general level of prices. Brick exists in large quantities in the hands of manufacturers; and although this article may advance when demand becomes more active, the rates will be reasonable. The same may be said of tiles. At present common brick are a little below last year's rates. Pier and footing stone shows a slight decline. Pressed brick do not exhibit a noticeable change. Lime holds its own, and cement, whitesand, plaster of Paris and fire clay have not advanced. After careful inquiry we are informed that a good understanding exists between contractors—employers generally, and workmen; and that last year's rates of wages are generally regarded as fair on both sides. On this point prophesying is a quick sand. Looking over the whole field we are induced to estimate the change in favor of investors at about ten per cent over last year; and the rate may be slightly more favorable. At the same time the purchasing value of wages will not diminish, as prices generally will reach a lower level.

Builders' and Traders' Exchange.

The first annual meeting of this body, under the constitution, was held in the Taylor building last Monday, Mr. George Tapper in the chair, Mr. Calloway, secretary. The nominating committee made their report, and the gentlemen recommended as officers were all elected without opposition, an immense improvement on the old system of uncertainty and indecision and delay.

President, George C. Prussing; first vice president, J. P. Ketchum; second vice president, E. Baggot; secretary, F. C. Schoenthaler; treasurer, Amos Grannis. The board of directors for one year are, George Tapper, Jonathan Clark, James A. Miller, H. C. Hoyt, W. E. Frost;—for two years, J. B. Sullivan, W. H. Chenoweth, Chas. H. Kimball, C. C. Thompson. There is every prospect of energy, harmony and success.

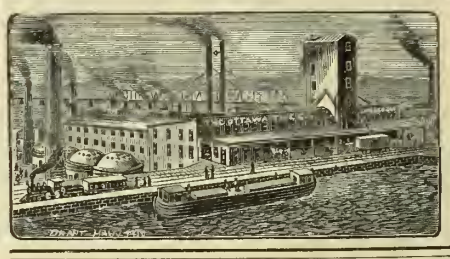
Notice to Advertisers.



We again caution our patrons against one H. C. Munth who was discharged by us and other Journals for good cause. He has altered what purports to be a copy of a contract for advertising with this Journal, and otherwise conspired with certain dishonest advertisers to swindle the publisher. The said Munth as well as his dishonest and dead beat associates have been reported to the proper newspaper agency, whose business it is to protect publisbers against tricky and dishonest advertisers.

RENTS.

We feel pleasure in again recording the active operations of Messrs. Pierce & Ware during the current week, as a token of the present strong tendencies of the real estate market. As this firm make a specialty of property on the South Side and in the great business centre, and manage the better and more expensive and stylish class of residences, their opinion forms a sound basis for a judgment. Not only have houses held their own, but this class of property has been in active demand. The inquiry for stores in the portions of the city where the firm are interested have never been more active at this period of the year. Indeed, the demand has been unusual, especially on the part of inquirers from without. Rents of spacious premises in good business locations are reported on a generous scale. As an example we quote the Wm. T. Allen Co.'s building, on the corner of Wabash avenue and Randolph street, which has been vacant for a year; it is now under contract for five years at the handsome price of $60,000 for the term, to P. Lorillard Sons of New York, The firm are of opinion that all stores on the South side will be occupied at good figures. Householders contemplating a change on the 1st of May are earlier than usual in the field. Messrs. Pierce & Ware are making an effort to accommodate persons of affluence by providing a class of residences, presenting in style, composition, finish and internal arrangement, a new departure from the square box-like structures that have been hitherto provided in most cases. A good example of this class of mansion, and one which will probably be repeated with some alterations of detail, is the handsome edifice at the corner of Lake avenue and Oakwood boulevard which we mentioned last week, Built of green stone with pressed brick in the most appropriate spaces, and presenting a very elegant appearance, this building is quite an ornament in the neighborhood. Erected in the best and most tasteful Flemish style, without unnecessary ornamentation, and constructed with the most improved interior appliances, this house will form one of the most charming residences outside New York. Provision is being made for the increasing number of persons possessed of means and culture, who desire that their surroundings shall enable them to express their tastes, and to expend their wealth in the most appropriate manner, and under conditions of independence in the display of domestic happiness.

Important Improvements.

Probably no portion of our suburban districts is now the object of more attention or likely to become the centre of more flourishing activity in the near future than Hegewisch. The United States Rolling Stock Company's car shops are being rapidly constructed there; and the entire region will assume the character of a great manufacturing centre. The owners of property in the district are therefore wide awake and are taking advantage of their good prospects by preparations for furnishing the incoming population with suitable building sites. The entire south west quarter of the north east quarter of section 31 has been devoted to this purpose, and has been divided into four hundred lots of convenient size, and at moderate prices, The arrangement was perfected last Tuesday at 10 A. M., and in one half hour afterwards the first sale was effected, of one lot in the middle of the block, on Hegewisch avenue, for $300. The new Pan Handle road will pass in the immediate vicinity of this property; and arrangements are being perfected between the Nickel Plate, the Western Indiana and other roads for interchangeable crossings on the north east corner of section 6, which lies on the immediate south of section 31. Arrangements are also being completed for the extension of the improvement of avenue K., South Chicago, through the Hegewisch region, The foregoing lots will be offered on the 30th inst., and applications may be made to A. Krimbill & Son, Geo. K. Edwards, Smith & Wilder, Louis A. Frey and F. R. Thormeyer; real estate agents in South Chicago; also to Goodrich, Tuttle & Co., Room 12, 115 Dearborn st,, to C. E. Crane & Co., 56 Dearborn st., Chicago; to L. E. Hohman, Hammond, Indiana; J. W. Eschenberg & Co., south west corner Fifth Avenue and Wash ington street; and to Bogue & Hoyt, 170 Dearborn st., corner, basement First National Bank building, Chicago. These gentlemen will be happy to exhibit plots of the subdivision, and explain prices and terms.

Having submitted our questions to Messrs. Goodrich, Tuttle & Co., we are able to confirm previous reports in regard to the fact that moderate rents are more profitable to owners than high rents. The former are more regularly paid and are suited to the means of the most numerous class. Real estate property has rendered as good returns as any other subject of investment and in many cases better than the average. This firm are not strictly speaking engaged in renting houses, preferring to devote their attention to actnal sales of unimproved property. They think, in reference to our third question, that any capitalist who can hold acre property will derive eventually greater advantage from it than from improved sites because he can suit himself as to all matters connected with the improvement.

The firm speak with confidence on this point because Mr. Goodrich has been since 1865 intimately connected with the creation of our city and especially the southern portion—Hyde Park and its vicinity, As chairman of the board of trustees of the village and personally associated with all the transformations that have rendered a prairie a handsome and thriving suburb, Mr. Goodrich is intimately informed as to the real value of property in that entire district. The investigation of titles has always formed a principal portion of this firm's special business; and they possess very extensive and accurate records, some of quaint character and curious origin, which are of high value in the examination of abstracts, and in the laying out of plats. Mr. Goodrich is in fact an authority on water supply, drainage, transfers, tax difficulties, and other similar details, in respect to Hyde Park, Lake and South Chicago, and can estimate market values as well probably as any other person. Levels, metes and bounds, and relative advantages arising from such serious considerations as these are known from actual observation and study. The firm also pay attention to mining interests and this branch is under the supervision of Mr. Tuttle, a gentleman well qualified in that species of enterprise. For these reasons we quote the opinions of the firm respecting the relative value of lands in our southern suburbs. Investments in such property do not meet the views or the means of most purchasers, but to those who are able to bear a burden for a while there is solid advantage from judicious selection, and appropriate construction afterwards.

Real Estate the Safest Investment.

The present aspect of the money market and the prospect for the year now opened, afford the strongest argument for attention to real estate that has been presented for a decade. All classes of stock exchange securities have declined not only in value, but in price, which is frequently a different thing. The enormous shrinkage in railway stocks and other similar invesments, estimated to reach 1000 millions has demonstrated the baselessness of the fabric on which so large a section of the public have reared their hopes. Fictitious values have been tapped, and inflated quotations have been punctured, and the collapsed material, all creased, soiled and demoralized, exhibits in its shrivelled proportions its real natural dimensions. The frog that would be an ox, and was loudly proclaimed an ox, has collapsed. Hundreds of millions of now unemployed dollars are seeking an abiding place where they can settle down and there grow up with the country. The owners of these millions have learned to their cost that dividends are an uncertain and frequently a negative quantity. Splendid financiers and unrivaled business diplomats haye been found as fallible as other mortals. Even the keenest directors have failed to bestow value where no value was; and floating dividends have shown themselves little if at all better than spoliation. The prevailing depression might tempt purchasers if a substantial and reliable basis existed on which to build business expectations. But the millions have scorched their fingers, and refuse to venture towards the fire, even when the latter has been reduced and better protected.

No such deprecation is anywhere reported in real estate. Although more sales in a year are recorded in any one district of Chicago than in the whole of any city in western New York, yet land and lots still hold their own. We cannot record a shrinkage in the value of our own property; and we have very recently chronicled a great advance in the price of real estate in favored localities. Holders are firm, both for sale and for rent. Capitalists who have had the good judgment to invest in real estate look from their oases of verdure on the seared and wasted regions, whence comes the cry of distress. The visions of speedy and accumulating wealth nourished by fanciful schemes, in their operation not far removed from gambling, have been dissipated. The real estate spectators, seated in a Coliseum of security survey the arena contests of bulls and bears with equanimity; and are not even so far concerned as to turn a thumb up or down when a gladiator of one faction or another, prone upon the sand, submits his fate to their decision. They well know that there is a struggle for the possession of the earth itself, and that struggle will last as long as men and cities; and must only intensify as time advances.

Opera House Block.

The negotiations, pending during some time, for the substitution of a large and costly block, at the south west corner of Clark and Washington streets, for the antiquated and unsightly rookery new cumbering that site, have been practically completed. The location is one of the finest in the city, being 107 feet on Washington street by 182 on Clark. A costly opera house will be erected during the present year on this site which will represent an outlay of $500,000 to $600,000. A lease for 30 years at 30,000 a year and taxes, has been secured. The building will probably be controlled by a stock company. This investment cannot fail to be profitable. The existing brick structure brings about $50,000 a year, and as the new building will contain stores on the ground floor and offices upstairs, the rental will be large. The plans represent an edifice that will have no superior either in style, solidity or safety.

Messrs. Edward Koch, Charles Henrotin, W. D. Kerfoot, and P. E. Stanley are at present in control of the enterprise, and their names are a guarantee of energy and good faith.

Arbitration in the Building Trade.

We have observed with much satisfaction that the Builders' & Traders' Exchange has adopted formally the principle of arbitration between the chief parties to every building contract, the masters and the workmen. The committee that proposed the constitution rule under which theExchange now operates, were evidently informed on the weaknesses inherent in every system of arbitration, when they adopted "unprofessional conduct," as the sentence in case of a refusal by either party to conform to the arbitrator's decision. As we have already remarked on this point, an appeal to the sense of honor of all concerned is the wisest course until further action be found necessary.

Differences between masters and workmen about rates of wages, hours of labor, remuneration proportioned to profits, and similar matters are not strictly of a legal character. They are economical and prudential subjects of investigation; and partake more of the nature of a calculation as to the rate of interest on capital employed by both parties, than of an infraction of any legal rules. As the workman is a capitalist, and frequently possesses the most essential kind of capital, knowledge and skill, and is always the creditor of his employer until his wages are paid, he stands on the same level as his employer; and his capital is as truly an investment as any other capital. On principle then both parties stand alike, and have an equal right to the dead level system of arbitration. But as no body of arbitrators stands in the position, or can exercise the powers of a court, it is only to the professional relations of the parties concerned that they can look for any kind or degree of enforcement of decisions. The old Romans passed through centuries of disputes arising from the same causes. Their practical wisdom has been embodied for us these two-thousand years in formal principles and precise codes and definitions.Percolating through the contentious and hoterogeneous legislation of centuries, the arbitration principle has long formed a corner stone of some systems of modern jurisprudence. The Scottish system was adopted directly from the civil law, without the intervention of a statute as in England The great advantage of that system has always been that the decree arbitral, or decision of the arbitrator. when officially recorded under the original agreement of the parties to the arbitration, becomes thereby a judicial decision, and can be enforced as such. But in ordinary cases a system of that kind would not usually be judicious in the settlement of disputes about wages and similar matters. Such questions must be submitted to men of experience in the line of business where the discussion has arisen. A decision must be founded partly on the actual condition of the market, partly on trade customs, and partly on quality of work. It Is to wider knowledge, calmer judgment and actual experience that the final reference must be made. Men who possess these qualities will constitute in fact a bureau of statistics, and their decisions will form a basis for subsequent reference which may and will certainly have a tendency to become a sort of code for the future guidance of the trades. It was precisely in this way that the first maritime codes, and in fact the law merchant in general, became gradually established. In such cases the principles of gravitation, cohesion, capillary attraction and the like, must form the basis for practical legislation in this direction. The rapidily with which men can do a piece of work, the difficulties and therefore the skill developed in the course of operations, necessarily depend on the great physical laws; and thus nature herself always will supply the basis for legislation. Factitious rules and restrictions, arising from unnatural and arbitrary authority must give place to the inevitable laws of nature herself. These principles are especiallv applicable to the building trade, where the materials employed ere for the most part ponderous and intractable.

Any organization that can so far consolidate its strength of membership, talent, and professional knowledge as to command the deference of the great body of workers within its sphere, and can establish an equitable jurisdiction by means of the simple penalty of exclusion from its ranks, can be of the greatest service, so long as moderation and fairness to outsiders as well as members, form the basis of its proceedings.

Brick as Building Material.

Probably no material that can be manufactured is so lasting as calcined clay—usually called brick. It will usnally survive all the inclemency of seasons and all the destructive powers of man, without showing its age. The pottery of the most remote period still survives with its lineal scratched ornamentation almost as fresh as ever. The The iron age for building is going by. Ten years ago the iron fashion was at its height, Now builders are returning to the materials most suitable and natural—stone and clay, properly prepared. The oldest buildings on Manhattan Island were of brick brought from Holland for the purpose, The materials of the old Washington Hotel and the old Dutch Church, lately taken down, were like flint, and the mortar was cemented to it. Roman tiles are still found in perfect preservation in the most ancient buildings in England—in Thanet and Sheppey. Babylonion bricks, even when merely sun baked, are still sound, exhibiting the royal cartouche, with all the lines still sharply cut. Bricks are found many feet beneath the present level of the Delta of the Nile; and the more ancient mounds of Ohio and Michigan reveal the permanence of brick under all its phases. Many of the modern styles are artistic in design and improved in material, and there is no reason why they may not last away into the ages.

ARCHITECTURE AND DYNAMITE.

In those regions where volcanoes are indigenous and earthquakes are a permanent institution, there is not much encouragement for the minute elaborations of the architect, the deft skill of the stone carver, or the exactitude of the mason. Little demand can exist, and with the absence of demand disappearance of taste—for mouldings and architraves; while plinths, domes and colonnades are repelled by the terrible curse underlying the quaking earth itself. For these reasons the Japanese and other peoples have been compelled to adopt the simplest substances for their houses. Light paper forms the walls, and the most simple, cheap, and imponderable materials enter into the construction of their dwellings. Architecture as a science, as a distributor and creator of wealth, as the source and the preserver of grandeur and power, has been banished from countries so situated. Even design has acqired a conventional meagerness, and even meanness which indicates immobility and decay. With the departure of all motive for the energy and skill required for the manipulation of the intractable materials constituting the basis of architectural greatness, a large share of the vitality, manly life, mobility and elevating forces of a nation must disappear also. All arts are associated; and loss in any one direction, atrophy in any of the great limbs of science indicates an unsoundness and want of lateral support which imperils the others also. With the decay of architecture a thousand arts must fade and die; and the tendencies of the progressive human mind fatally arrested in one of its most noble manifestations. Results equally fatal are observable from causes of the most opposite character. The apathy and fatalism of the Turks have covered their land with ruins. Pashas frequently shelter their motley retinues of plunderers in the crumbling remains of a ruinous castle or the mouldering remnant of a dismantled fortress. Fatalism has done its work, and the hand of the craftsman is never required to replace the tottering edifice if Allah wills that it should fall. To these elements of destruction a third is added, resulting from the wantonness of science misapplied. If moral restraints do not accompany the discoveries of new elements of destruction, if lightnings are chained by men only to be hurled among peaceable communities, dealing deadliness all around, if thunderbolts have become the holiday toys of vengeful mischief, a blow as fatal must be dealt to progress in noble arts as that inflicted by the devastating earthquake, or the callousness of superstitious torpor. The spirit of mischief once let loose knows no restraint; the imitativeness of wanton malevolence recognizes no law. Human life with its domestic dependencies, human art, the result of ages of thought, study, effort and expenditure, are as nothing to the malicious heart armed with a devastating explosive which can be hidden in a corner leaving no trace of the hand that prepared it. Within a few months the mania for these implements has spread to all countries, from Ireland to Spain, and from Russia to the Mediterranean. Every discontented fanatic, either in religion or in politics, and the world has always been filled with fanatical destroyers of both these classes, has assumed the right to fling explosives wherever his personal enmities suggested. Every land, not excepting our own, is cursed with cranks; and the dynamite cartridge which hurls an edifice into ruin bids fair to replace the revolver which prostrates a president. Evil begets evil. Malicious misuse of deadly engines is a contagious disease, and ought to be stamped out like the rinderpest. Let those persons who are afflicted with the dynamite leprosy be sequestered; for if the evil spreads it will crop out in every street and alley. The sore head politician, and the defeated gambler, the malicious idler who has been discharged for worthlessness, and the incurable tramp with whom vagabondism is as a gypsy nature, will each and all provide themselves with deadly missiles to hurl against our houses. Let this disease become established and farewell to investments in improved real estate. Our buildings must fall in value in proportion to dynamite quotations; and the artisan, and the mechanic can ask for bread because his dynamite brother has rendered building a perilous investment.

RENTS.

There are several districts in and around the city most valuable as locations for investments which have not hitherto received the attention they deserve. There is, for instance, a valuable and peculiar region lying between Harrison and Twenty-sixth streets, and between Canal street and Western avenue which invites more than passing attention. This portion of the city is traversed by two very important streets, each a main "artery" to traffic. We refer to Blue Island avenue and South Halsted street. For some classes of business there is no better location in the city. Stores in this neighborhood are eagerly sought, and are rarely empty. Lots range from $2,000 to $5,000, and if improved according to the locality an investment here is more valuable than the same amount of money in most of the other districts of the city. There are local peculiarities to be attended to. Tenants must receive attention; but the class of persons who inhabit this great district contain a very large number of desirable and thrifty aspirants for business success. It is not too much to say that money carefully laid out in this district, and well looked after will bring the unusual profit of ten to fifteen per cent net. We do not make this statement without good grounds and careful investigation. Blocks can still be obtained where from one to fifty lots may be set off. In addition to the streets already mentioned, Centre avenue is a favorite locality for dwellings and stores of moderate aspirations. Property in these great thoroughfares must rise in value because they are on the direct route to the wide expanse of improvable property in South Chicago and beyond, where at present many most important changes are in process of execution. For information we are permitted to refer to Messrs. Cahoot & Stepina of 581 Blue Island avenue. These gentlemen control considerable interests and will be happy to direct intending investors.

Hardwood.

This article is becoming scarce, and will be held this season without concession. Many mills are entirely without logs, and the output will not equal that of other years. As yet, however, prices have not materially advanced, and last year's quotations will satisfy dealers generally. As the season advances and tastes show signs of inclination in special directions, certain kinds of hardwood will probably take a turn upward. Persons who contemplate employment of this excellent material will do well to make their selections early. The stocks on hand are now in favorable condition for working up, but the total is not very large. Taste in the direction of hardwood is spreading, and new applications of it are being adopted. Ornamental patterns for floors are a settled principle, and few, if any good houses are without them. Common hardwood is also much employed and with good effect in furniture even of those kinds hitherto constructed, of the most expensive foreign and domestic materials. Simplicity and honesty have replaced lavish pretense and costly shams in furniture Veneering with a semblance of rare wood is being discarded in favor of honesty in timber of native growth. A little variety is all that is needed to afford sufficient contrast. We believe that these statements are correct: and have fortified our judgment by reference to men who know, and among others to Mr. Robert Larkins of Twenty-second street in this city, whose experience in all matters appertaining to hardwood renders him well qualified to speak: and as the firm's operations include all descriptions of hardwood, Mr. Larkins may be consulted with advantage.

THE MARKET.

The real estate market this week has continued in a condition which may be described as one of investigation on one side, and expectation on the other. Inquiries continue active, and much consultation between owners and agents has been the chief feature especially as a series of important transactions is being discussed. and we hope adjusted; This is the month when growth is unseen though active; but before long we shall have the evidences above ground. We assert however that never was more willingness apparent to investigate the advantages of real estate, and never has inquiry been more active at this season. Purchasers however are proverbially timorous in real estate transactions, and are deterred from outlay by most simple events. We prefer, for this reason to defer all notice of progress beyond the most general allusions. Our purpose and our business is to speak the precise truth but to wait until a fact is a fact before we mention it. Herein we are compelled to advert to the injury often inflicted on real estate interests by the premature and injudicious disclosure of negociations for real estate. Persons who care nothing but to fill a few lines in a journal, and who concern themselves not about the injuries they inflict on business, hurry to their offices with scraps of rumors and gossip, which they scribble down and distribute without a thought of the indelicacy of the proceeding, and of the damage they commit. We refer, however to some transactions, effected on Tuesday last, not as a complete list, but as indications which real estate men will understand. A house and lot on Western avenue, premises 23x406, near Humboldt Park sold for $180 cash. A lot on Wood street, near 38th, sold for $475; and another lot on Lincoln av

REAL ESTATE LAW.

Defective Notice—Trustee—Redemption.—A notice of foreclosure sale should state when the mortgage was recorded; otherwise the notice is insufficient.

A trustee who, without the knowledge of his cestui que trust, purchases real estate in his own name in part with trust funds, and gives back a purchase money mortgage for the remainder has such an interest in the real estate purchased that a judgment against him will become a lien.

A lien creditor, redeeming from a mortgage sale, is a purchaser for a valuable consideration, so as to be protected from a resulting trust of which he had no notice.—Martin vs. Borey et al., Minn. S. C., July 5, 1883.

Landlord and Tenant: Fixtnres; Machinery; Pleading; Trover.—A refusal by the owner of the freehold, after he has taken possession upon the expiration, and surrender of the term, to permit the former tenants to remove fixtures, which they have attached to the premises during the term will not enable the latter to maintan trover for them against him.

Where a tenant, who has erected fixtures (machinery) upon his landlord's premises surrenders possession and the term to his laudlord, upon the latter giving a bond conditioned for the forthcoming of the machinery, upon the determination of proceedings to try the right of property in the same the surrender carries with it all its legal incidents, snd an action of trover will not lie for the fixtures.—Darrah, Moore & Co vs. Baird, S. C., Pa.

If the tenant who works a farm on shares refuses, on request, to deliver to the landlord the latter's share of harvested crops and threatens to appropriate all the crop to his own use, the court may appoint a re

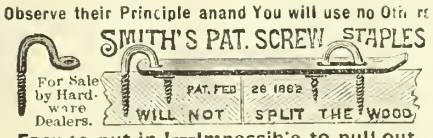
SHERIFF'S SALES.

BY Virtue of a Certain Special Writ of Execution, issued from the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, in favor of John V. Farwell, Charles B. Farwell, William D. Farwell, Simeon Farwell, and John K. Harmon, Plaintiffs, and against J. M. Carter, Defendant, at ten o'clock A. M., on the eleventh day of February, A. D. 1884, at the East main entrance of the County Court House, in the City of Chicago, I shall offer for sale, at public vendue, all the right, title and interest of said Defendant in and to the following described tract or lot or parcels of land, to wit:

Sub-lot three [3] Kingman A. Shaw's Subdivision of Lots nine [9], ten [10], eleven [11] and twelve [12] in Block one [1] of R. J. Hamilton's Subdivision of the West half [½] of the East half [½] of the Northwest quarter [¼] of Section Eighteen [18] in town thirty-nine [39] Range fourteen [14] East of the third principal meridian, Cook County, Illinois.

Dated the 18th day of January, A. D. 1884.

SETH F. HANCHETT, Sheriff,
By C. R. MATSON, Deputy.



ceiver to take possession of the crops and divide them between the parties, especially when the tenant is insolvent.—SCHMITT vs. CASSILIUS. Minn. S. C. July 11, 1883.

THE LIEN POWER OF JUDGMENTS.—There is some confusion on this subject that may create embarrassment. According to the law as it stands the lien power of judgments in the Circuit and Superior Courts is more effectide and certain than that of judgments in lhe higher courts. In order to take effect judgments in Appellate and Supreme courts, a levy must be made and a certificate filed in the office of the Clerk of the County where the land is situated. In the Circuit and Superior courts the judgment is a lien at once. This state of things is anamalous, but should be attended to.

DESTRUCTION OF PREMISES—WHEN IT TERMINATES OBLIGATION TO PAY RENT.—The opinion of the Supreme Court of Oregon by Lord, J., stating the cases when a tenant is bound to pay rent even after the destruction of the premises, but holding when the lease is of an upper story with no interest in the land beyond the enjoyment of the demised story, the tenant is not bound to pay rent after the destruction of the premises.

THE MORTGAGOR'S PLEA in the case of MARGARET E. HOODLESS VS. REID, MURDOCK & FISCHER ET AL was recently denied by Judge Tuley. The complainant took an appeal. Full particulars next week under the proper headings.

A SUIT was begun by Henry C. Olsen against Charles Schnert to recover $5000 damages for being compelled to move out of defendant's house. Schnert rented a part of his house on the corner of Clark and Division streets to Olsen, but on the plea that his wife was sick compelled plaintiff to move out before the lease expired, Chicago Titles.—A New Domesday Book.

One of the chief difficulties in the transfer of land has always been the question of title. Time was when deeds were drawn entirely without punctuation points in order that no ambiguity might be created in those small but significant spots. A misplacement of a semicolon, or the unnecessary insertion of a comma made a serious difference in the application of phrases, and the interpretation of terminology, Even in our own day the mistake of a compositor, or apparent conjunction of terms, although absurd if the punctuation points are misplaced, will affect interpretation to a degree creating an ambiguity in the whole writing. The intricacies of individual interests, especially arising from marriage and inheritance, have always been fertile sources of confusion. Interpretation of wills and the tediousness of chancery proceedings create further causes of uncertainty; metes and bounds, again, which become obliterated as buildings succeed each other, and the extension of holdings across municipal lines further complicate the case. Many instances are recorded where not only a room but a bedstead crosses a boundary; and in one well known instance of a person dying in two parishes because his bed extended over the dividing line, a difficulty as to the disposal of the body took place. Finally the parish where the man's head lay became entitled to the honor of burying him. For these reasons and a thousand others of a similar nature, familiar to all who investigate titles, the question of right ownership, briefly expressed by the word "Title," has ever been a fruitful source of delay, expense, litigation and loss The simplification of transfer has occupied the attention of congresses, parliaments and statesmen for centuries, and much has been done in that direction. But there is one point connected with this subject of Title that ought to be brought into prominence. The general authority, the State, ought to be in possession of continuous and complete records of all transfers from the first. The control of this record does not properly belong to any private person.

Especially is this right clearly demonstrated after a great political revolution or a heavy social disaster. When enormous interests become concentrated as in a city, just as when a nation falls into new hands, whether republican or absolutist, a final authority for the disposal of all claims on portions of the common territory, ought of right to form a portion of the law of the land as fundamental as the constitution itself. If there be any kind of information necessarily an integral portion of the national archives it is that which records the distribution of the national territory. Intricacies and uncertainties multiply rapidly, especially in an active community; and fixed resting places in the course of the lengthened series of items of an abstract of title would simplify research, and establish certainty, at the same time diminuishing expense and loss of time. All the titles in England date from the Domesday Book, 1082—1086. That memorable record constitutes a permanent basis which establishes an indefeasible title. But land transfers have been sluggish for centuries in England, largely through the circuitous line of transfer adopted there, In Chicago divisions and subdivisions continually take place, and the danger of confusion increases in proportion. Since the great fire the State has been dependent on private enterprise for a quasi official record of Chicago land. Private property is entitled to all protection and respect; and therefore we can only suggest the establishment of a great starting point for all Chicago titles through a new and local Domesday Book. Such a Register would constitute necessarily a record of national importance, and would form a new foundation to which all titles could be traced with unerring certainty for many years to come.

The prototype in all its integrity still remains as a mighty monument of the skill and foresight of the first William, and can be consulted without cost. An equal dignity and publicity conferred on the modern example would be worthy of the importance of the subject, and highly consistent with our national political principles,

General Building News.

Bills have been introduced in Congress recently for the erection of buildings at the following places; Augusta, Me., Wichita, Kans,, Fort Scott, Kans., Nebraska City, Neb., New York City, Charlotte, N. C., Huntsville, Ala., Fort Smith, Ark, San Francisco. Cal, Sacramento, Cal., Key West, Fla., Jacksonville, Fla.. Macon, Ga.. Springfield, Ill, New Albany, Ind, Fort Wayne, Ind., Council Bluffs, Iowa, Keokuk, Iowa, Lexington, Ky., Opelousas, La., Monroe, La., Houlton, Me.' Deadwood, Dakota, Manchester, N H.

The four buildings for the World's Industrial and Cotton Exposition in New Orleans are to have 1,000,000 square feet of exhibition space and are to cost in the aggregate only $255,000.

It may fairly be taken that the durability of a stone depends on its impenetrability to water, its density, and the amount of binding material contained in it. It is noticeable that building stones first begin to decay immediately below any flat projecting surface which allows the rain to collect and then percolate through them, and thus dissolve or alter the binding material. To preserve sandstone it is advisable first, to let it dry as thoroughly as possible and then to paint it or to coat it with silicate of soda.

THE MARKET

Chicago Real Estate and the American Hog.

Continuing our researches into the present condition and prospects of the great region lying between Canal street and Western avenue in one direction, and Harrison street and the city limits in the other, we have consulted several firms that control large interests in that region. Commercial fluctuations are felt felt as keenly throughout this extensive district as any other in the city; but the general interests are wide and enduring. A very large number of persons are employed iu the various industries connected with the vast provision trade. The population dependent ou the preparation of beef and pork for the world's market would fill a goodly city. But the tremor of an earthquake is not more readily detected, analyzed and registered by an earthquake recorder of the most scientific and delicate adjustments, the fever pulse of the patient is not more nicely felt by the sphygmograph, than are the variations of the pork market perceived by the multitude of hands that are concerned in feeling its throbbings. Brisk demand and free exportation for pork and beef means good wages ready paid; and rejection of these great staples or either of them signifies cold hearths and vacant boards to tens of thousands. Halsted street leads direct to the great packing houses. The multiplicity ofcommercial occupations along that route and also Blue Island avenue, especially the southern portions, are directly affected by the pork and beef market. When the season is good, hundreds of industrious workers settle down to housekeepiug in dependence on packing house wages. The class of persons thus situated look to the possession of a home as the object of primary ef fort. A lot is purchased, a building society usually supplies the means for erecting a dwelling. If all goes well there is comfort, and the snug cottage shines out as an example for others to imitate. The principal streets through this region are important thoroughfares; and investment usually nets from ten to fifteen per cent, and even more, to investors who are judicious and attentive. In this district even during the present year property has advanced from eight to ten per cent over last year, and the demand for lots, improved and unimproved, has never been excelled at this period of the year.

We have been careful to fortify our own judgment by reference to persons well acquainted with values, and who are also men of truth. Mssrs. H. C. Zuttermeister & Co. established at 818 South Halsted street have afforded us proofs of what we assert. Applications to this firm for properties ranging from $1500 to $2000 are a daily occurrence, and values have advanced steadily. In May 1882 this flrm sold a lot at the corner of Newberry avenue and Twelfth street for $3500; and this year the same property was again sold by the firm for $4150 cash. An important improvement at the corner of Jackson and Halsted street has enhanced property considerably in that immediate vicinity. Three hundred dollars a foot was considered a good price for this property two years ago. Last June some of it sold for $400 a foot, and a strip of ten feet was readily taken at $550 a foot in July. A lot adjoining, 40x125 could not now bepurchased for $20,000. The business of the firm extends from Harrison street to the city limits, and includes all classes of property. Mr. Zuttermeister is therefore well qualified to speak. He maintains that fifteeu per cent is not an extravagant estimate on judicious and carefully managed investments in that district. There are existing instances of eighteen per cent; but that figure must not be calculated on. Stores on Halsted street and Blue Island avenue are rarely empty; and the cottage property in many of the adjoining streets is eagerly sought. The general character of dwellings is being improved; and in many instances costly edifices are being erected by men who a very few years ago started in business in the same district, and are now owners of handsome incomes derived from enterprise and thrift in the improvement of very unpromisiug looking places. Property in the vicinity of Ashland avenue is so well knowu and so favorably situated as not to require further notice. For persons who do not control large means and would be satisfied with modest property a call on Mr. Zuttermeister would be of advantage.

But our information is not limited to one person or two. Mr. Charles Drabek of 741 South Halsted street confirms the general statement as to the solid value of real estate in this great district. This gentleman's interests extend nearly through the entire district mentioned. Property has advanced from eight to ten per cent. Sales are chiefly for cash; and purchasers select improved property whenever procurable in order to derive as much immediate income from their outlay as possible. Mr. Drabek states that thirteen, fourteen, and even seventeen per cent, is not an unusual return for investment in this district. Lots that measure 25x120, sold last year for $800, this year have changed hands for $950. Other lots that brought last year $900, cannot now be purchased for much less that $1050—1100. As the season advances, prices will certainly not decline. The American hog has at this moment his foot in the scale; and his expatriation, like that of other creatures, will be for his country's good. The value of Chicago city lots depends, more than a little in many quarters, on the continued application of the hog to the feeding of alien humanity. One curious feature about real estate in the district under review is that when tenants and occupiers are scarce they are imported. Several of the dealers are also steam ship agents and they have means of inducing prospective investors to come.

Calumet Building.

This well constructed edifice merits a special notice. Situated in the rapidly improving vicinity of the new Board of Trade buildiug, the owners, Messrs. Tapper & Mortimer & Grannis, determined on having the work of every kind performed in a manner worthy of the neighborhood, and fully up to the most improved methods, appliances and arrangements. The building is nine stories in height; and all the ceilings are fire-proof, being constructed of tile instead of lath. The partitions are also of tile, and the spaces between the ceilin and floors above are filled with concre Ventilating grates are placed outside un the window sills of each story so as to p vent all access from within; also betwe the upper ceiling and the roof, and to p vent rot. Every suit of rooms on each fl has one fire-proof vault at least. Am water supply is provided at every story, a an incipient fire could be quenched by flood in the shortest possible time.

The heating apparatns can be run at h or low pressure, and is known as self-retu ing, the water being conveyed back to boiler without pumps. The radiation be limited to four stories, or to the ot five at pleasure. A fire-proof thimble is in on each floor; and the branches are taken off above the floor, the space betw the thimble and pipes being packed w asbestos. The work is all on the best kno system, no new and untried devices be introduced.

With the plumbing the greatest care been taken. The waste pipes are so ranged as not to require taking up. pipes are laid in leaden troughs, and th troughs are kept empty by a pipe at the of each. Each floor can be separated fr the rest, or the whole building can isolated if need be. There is no possibil of poison gas entering the buildi from the pipes, as waste pipes carried up to the roof from the crown of traps, and there is another pipe carried also to prevent syphoning. The sewers connected with the hot flue creating draught downward instead of upward. faucets are all self-closiug. These ventil ing pipes and traps effectually exclude sewer gas. Each basin is safed with lead that all overflow, and dampness of flo and ceilings is prevented. The gas met are all placed over the entrance to the h office and can be connected with any or the offices on each floor without cutting wall.

The whole building is furnished with what is known among workmen as the Muncro fire alarm, which is self-acting and gives notice to the fire patrol. The indicator is placed in the alley, and shows in what part of the bnilding a fire is situated. Every suite of rooms has an open grate for ventilation. Persons who are fortunate enough to secure accommodation in this very superior building can rest assured that they have the advantage of every improvement for security and comfort that the present state of the builder's art can supply. Let ns not omit one noticable feature; all the snites of rooms on every floor have been admirably papered under the supervision of Mr. Faxon of 212 Wabash avenue. About seventy-five different patterns of paper are employed, and so well has the art work of this departmegt been done that there is perfect harmony throunhout the entire building. This is the most extensive job of honse papering ever completed in Chicago, and the most tasteful. Many New York gentlemen who have examined the work have prononnced the papering the most harmonious and complete specimen of the kind they had witnessed. This part of the arrangements was left entirely to the taste and judgment of Mr. Faxon; and the result is that at a very economical rate a result is before us which proves that there is local talent here which can accomplish any artistic work in the building trade and its associations. No need here to travel elsewhere for business ability and practical taste.

Correction.

Mssrs. Kohout & Stepina, real estate dealers of 581 Blue Island avenue, have been too polite and considerate to take notice of our nnintentional distortion of their firm name. We willingly make the correction however, and we desire our patrons to be assured that errors will always be corrected by us cheerfully.

No more Sidewalk Excrescences.

We frequently enconnter barrels and other unsightly objects protruding from the area flues and apertures constructed through our sidewalks. Just think of an old box or dilapidated herring keg planted right on the sidewalk in a leading thoroughfare in Chicago! We boast that we have genius and ingenuity, and dexterity in planning and contriving all kinds of wooden and metal artifices for ornament and utility—although real ornament is utility also—; we are at the head of civilization—that is our boast—; and, yet we plant an old musty refuse box right in front of our stores to prevent pedestrians from tumbling into the coal hole, or breaking a limb by stumbling over an area register dangerously propped at an angle of 45 0. Hitherto that was the best we could do, and bad was the best. This old box and barrel bnsiness on our sidewalks has seen its day. We can do better than that; and all persons concerned should see to it that the nuisance is abated. We put up with a bad thing of course, so long as we cannot help ourselves. In this instance, however, we can help ourselves, because both light and ventilation can be obtained without disturbing the register of the area flue, or creating a dangerous man trap at every ten paces. By a simple but effective device a register is now constructed with hinged doors attached to the level iron frame fixed in the sidewalk. These doors contain glass plates with bulls eyes fitting into the circular orifices in the iron frames. The doors can be let down by hinges attached to the frames, thus opening all the orifices to admit air and give additional light. They are made square and round, of a size to fit the ordinary apertures cut in the stone. The surface is flat, presenting no awkward projection to pedestrians. The manufacturers, A. W. Herr & Co. of 248 Randolph street, can supply any demand.

This firm also manufeature a ventilator and fire locator for insertion in ordinary iron shutters, in order to locate fire in a building. The locator consists of a plate of glass fitted in an iron frame and protected by a lattice. This appliance is easily broken by a hammer, thus giving access for entrance to the seat of the fire. The nozzle of a fire hose can thus be introduced without difficulty, without waiting to break the iron hutter. It is a simple and economical device and cannot fail to be highly useful.

Real Estate Exchange,

Important business came before this body at the meeting on Wednesday last. Mr. J. P. Wilson's suggestions on Eminent Domain were approved, and will result in an appeal to the legislature. At present there is practically no protection for private property against legal spoliation. It has always been understood that the Exchange was for the advantage of agents in facilitating transfers. The entrance fee is $50 until membership reaches 50, and $75 until it reaches 100, The Exchange is already growing in interest, granite is fast coming into use in this city for building purposes, its variety of color, hardness and coarseness of composition giving it a character not excelled by any other stone. Its ratio of absorbtion being only about one quarter that of other stones, makes it peculiarly adapted for building purposes in an atmosphere like ours.

The Hallowell Granite Co.'s

The Hallowell Granite Co. own and operate six varieties of granite, samples of which can be seen at the permanent exhibit of building material, corner of Washington street and Wabash ave., or at their office, 174 LaSalle street.

The new Board of Trade building, the first story of Pullman's new Office building are examples of their stone and work, besides several other small jobs. Architects, builders and property owners will find it to their advantage to give them a call.

REAL ESTATE LAW.

Supreme Court of Illinois.

Thomas J. Sutherland v. William D. Goodnow et al. (Opinion by Scholfield, J., affirming.) Filed at Ottawa, Jan 23, 1884.

1. ASSIGNMENT—of lease carries with it right to renewal.—An assignment of a lease by the tenant carries with it a clause giving the tenant the option to renew the lease at the end of the term, as well as all other clauses therein.

2. LEASE—Option to renew is no present demise.—A clause in a lease for one year giving the lessee the option on a certain condition to renew the lease for another year, is not a demise to take effect at the expiration of the first year, it is a mere covenant or undertaking of the lessor to let the lessee have a second term which may be enforced on bill for specific performance or upon which an action at law may lie for a breach.

A. W. Herr & Co.,

Manufacturers of

Sidewalk Ventilators and Vault Covers,

Are now ready to supply the public with their new and improved VENTILATOR and COAL-HOLE VAULT COVERS. This invention entirely does away with propping up or placing barrels or boxes in your sidewalks, at the same time giving you all the desired ventilation and three times the light given by covers now used, and always leaving the sidewalks fully clear to the public, thus abating an intolerable nuisance, and protecting life, limb, and landlords from serious damages. These covers are constructed with two heavy-hinged wings, so that one or both can be opened from below by turning a heavy thumb-screw when ventilation is desired, and can be readily closed to prevent rain or dust without obstructing the light to apartments below in either case, or disturbing the cover on sidewalk. We have all sizes, both round and square, with or without rings and fastenings. We invite the public, and particularly architects, builders, and those contemplating building, to call and examine our new devices, which will be found cheaper, and we will guarantee better satisfaction than any ever used.

We also invite your attention to our new and indispensable "EUREKA" VENTILATOR and FIRE LOCATER, to be placed on iron shutters, locating the fire in a building to a certainty, thus giving easy access to the apartment where fire is located, saving great damage and delay and loss of property, and can be used as a ventilator whenever desired. It will be found as safe a protection from outside heat as the solid shutter. Call and see for yourselves, or send for circular,

The Fire Fiend.

New Methods of Expelling the Demon.

Individually and as a nation we profess not to be worshipers of fire. But if a celestial visitor, say from Jupiter, should look down on us from sufficient proximity he would discover that we are devotees of that bad deity. From forest to village, and from village to city and from street to street the fire demon rushes, and we still supply him with the proper pabulum to feed upon.

In the most approved temples where this god is invited to abide for a season, we furnish him with some of the most effective conditions for his potency. Not content with the old stairways which were bad enough. and formed chimneys and ventilators where the fiend could revel, we have now superadded an elevator flue straight as a factory shaft. Around this flue we arrange the only stairways in the buildings so constituted. We compel persons to limit their ascent and descent to this one locality, both for stairs and elevator, and when that is in possession of the fiend we may sing poans to our deity for we are his to a certainty. More than that, we fulfil the highest asperation of the devotee and we become incorporated with the essence of our god as a drop of rain with the ocean. We provide great establishments for the insane and imbecile persons, the most difficult to control or protect in danger. We contrive great halls and corridors through these establishments, fit palaces for the fire fiend. We thus invite him and give him thrones and scepters and victims. We, the Journal, are agnostics as to this creed and worship, and we protest against it. We want to raise a crusade for the fiend is now in possession of our sacred places and threatens our homes with desecration. We suggest that all great public institutions be divided into sections, and that no access whatever be possible between one section and another, but by means of semicircular turrets placed outside and attached to the main walls at the point where these walls terminate. Let no access be obtainable from one story to another, but through these turrets one being placed at each side of the building opposite the dividing walls, there being thus two turrets to each division. Fire could not get around the end of the dividing wall and into the next division through the turret,

Let our rows of flats and blocks of residences be constructed on the same principle. These semi-turrets can be made highly architectural in design and components, and will afford abundant opportunity for taste and arrangement in relation to the other portions of the building. Let all factories and hotels be constructed in the same way; and there will exist at once a fire escape and a fire protector within ready access, and at each side of the building, or several of these if the structure be large. We make no claim for this improvement on the score of humanity. We know the average regard for human life among men fiercely competing for power and gain, to place much reliance in humanitarian appeals. But materials are costly, and some of the most valuable are disappearing wholly. These materials cannot be replaced at all, The earth is being denuded of her timber and in many places deprived of her rain fall as a result of men's stupidity.

The fire fiend must be fought and beaten. Our suggestion to-day is but one of many methods. Others will suggest themselves to different minds. But as cities grow, and property becomes necessarily aggregated, measures more and more stringent must be adopted to exorcise the demon that is devouring us and our children. Our fire department is practically little but a costly Prytaneion maintained for the perpetuation of the national fire altar, so long as we heap fuel on the flame that seems to be as sacred to us as it is to to the Parsees, or was to the Chippeways, the Natchez or the Pueblos whom we have displaced.

X. C., REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING JOURNAL.

GERMANY has bought 1,000,000 acres of land in Mexico and is negotiating for many millions more for colonizing purposes. When this project has been put in operation it will do more to pacify and consolidate that shaky country than all the specifics of all the politic mongers on the continent.

THE grazing lands of Colorado, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, Oregon and Idaho are estimated at 1,000,000,000 acres. A region is now being opened through Oregon capable of supporting 5,000,000 cattle and 10,000,000 sheep, and when fully occupied can supply half a million head of cattle, a million and a half of sheep, and ten million pounds of wool yearly. Our stock yards are not likely to remain idle, or real estate in the vicinity to lose its value for some time to come.

IF the corn of this country that is annually made into whisky could be converted into beef the twenty cent steak could be bought for ten cents. If the hides of the cattle thus cheapened were made into shoes, one dollar and over per pair would be saved on the price. Thus the more aldermen we manufacture the less beef and shoes there are for poor people, and the fewer city homes for working men.

THE MARKET.

During the past ten days the market has given signs of sporadic activity. The aurora streaks have shot out in specific lines, and given proofs of more to come. The brightness has not yet spread in unbroken continuity, before long no doubt it will do so.

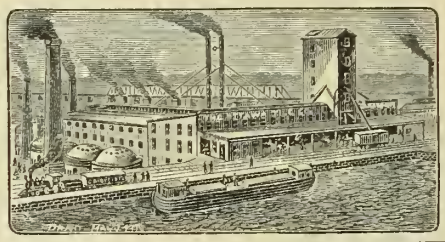
Several very important transactions have been completed; and many more are in process of settlement. The general business outlook is cheering, and negotiations for our real estate are multiplying. The amount of business has been very fair considering the discouraging weather. Generally properties rent somewhat better than last year, and prices for all classes of investments are firm. The tendency may be stated as fixed towards full values, and the debateable point has been passed. Extravagant rates are not demanded or expected—owners being satisfied with a reasonable advance commensurate with the growing desire of the public to be possessed of a share of our soil.



Building will be very general. Among many that might be named, Messrs. Knight & Marshall, 10 Reaper Block, will put up a row of dwellings on Carroll avenue. The firm have been so very successful in renting all the houses put up by them last year for Mr. Wm. Short, of New Albany, that this gentleman has decided to have several more erected this season, though at somewhat less cost. A class of dwellings bringing from twelve qollars to twenty dollars a month rent is greatly needed, and we hope that other investors will turn their attention in the same direction. The same firm will also probably put up several other blocks of dwellings this year as their enterprise extends to all parts of the city. It is not our purpose to multiply illustrations but to present specimens of the tendencies of the market. The class of buildings above alluded to is receiving attention as the demand is great.

Individuals vs Corporations.

In the days of feverish competition the seeds of trouble are easily sown. Certain ambitious persons who were over anxious to favor their own ends by gratifying any unreasonable popular cry, set the example in Europe of erecting special providences to take care of the interests of populations in all matters of private concern. The system could not last; as no administration could possibly supply employment to the multitudes who rapidly become dependent on state aid. When it was found that government undertook to supply the place of individual enterprise, men rapidly lost that initiative power which discovers occupation for itself. When not only self-reliance is thus lost, but the habit of observation, and the application of latent faculties have become dormant, a lethargy takes possession of men and they become helpless. The French are a people of decidedly originating genius. Their resources of taste and construction are infinite; and their skill in conferring pleasing outlines on all objects has long been a source of pride and profit to themselves. In no art are they behind other nations, and least of all perhaps, in architecture. For ages they were compelled to be dependent on princely favor and patronage; but the opportunity was frequently presented of bringing forward real genius. The nation seems to have very largely lost the power of creating wants for itself. When the energies of a people have been unnaturally forced into a wrong direction it is hard to direct them again into the natural channel. Thus the French now are exhibiting a lethargy of originating power in the creation of buildings which is the natural result of the nursing system of kings and emperors. As a substitute for royal authority great corporations and credit mobiler schemes have been substituted to do for the people what they seem incapable of doing for themselves. Should individuals be thus discouraged or thrust aside the results will be very disheartening. It is sad indeed, to see the individuals of a very intelligent nation thus prevented from the exercise of personal taste, genius and independence. It will be a dark day for us if our people cease to select lots for themselves and put up homes according to their choice or means. It is this home yearning, this pride in personal comfort beside one's own fireside that gives the energy that is sought for. It is this habit of individual selection that gives our local real estate its value; and spreads through our active community that creative power that renders us independent of large corporations for the creation of residences. It is this separate activity that keeps enterprise alive; and promotes that sense of value in individual rights which is the most important ingredient in the sturdiness of citizens.

Fire Escapes.

Considering the fact that all the buildings all over the world, both for manufacturing and dwelling purposes are in need of some safe and simple and yet effective means of escape in case of fire, any apparatus which meets this want with completeness and yet without being cumbersome is of the greatest value. In this department again Chicago is at the front. Mr. J. T. Cowles, 44 South Jefferson street, is the patentee, and owner of an apparatus as Fire Escape which has been recognized and accepted all over the United States as the most available, economical and successful yet introduced. It is known as the stand-pipe and ladder fire escape. It is provided with ice proof steps and balconies; and consists of a stout wrought iron, lap welded pipe three inches in diameter, the iron three eights of an inch thick, with a light strong ladder attached. The pipe is attached to the wall firmly, and the balconies can be made of any length forming perfectly safe and accessible landing places. The pipe is also employed as a water pipe and hose can be attached at each story. An automatic siamese valve is attached below, and thus two engines can be attached at the same time if necessary. There is a valve also at the top for use on roofs. The balconies are sometimes made of great length—from fourteen or fifteen feet to fifty feet, as in the case of the Academy of music at Pittsburg. These fire escapes enjoy a natural celebrity; and are t be found in all the principle cities east and west. Mr. Cowles has constant demand for the apparatus all through the western states from Montana to Texas. Four of these fire escapes have been supplied to the Treasury at Washington.

Noble Buildings.

Our merchant princes are beginning to exhibit in architectural construction the same comprehensive capacity which marks their commercial dealings.

Foremost in this display are Mssrs. Armour & Kent with a proposed edifice of twelve stories in beight and one hundred and seventy-five feet in extreme length. The site chosen is on Van Buren street and on Sherman street and Pacific avenue in the immediate vicinity of the new Board of Trade. The style will correspond with the imposing dimensions; and every resource of fire proof material will be employed in the construction. The number of offices will run up into the hundreds, and all will be supplied with the best known apparatus for comfort and security.

Another extensive building of a different character from the former will probably be erected this season on the site purchased from W. F. Storey and F. D. Gray by the Suspension Car Truck Mfg. Co., situated between Halsted and Wallace, and between 55th and 57th streets. The whole structure will cover ten acres. The total investment here will reach $500,000. The investors are New York capitalists and the purchase was effected through Mssrs. A. B. Bogue & C. W. Rigdon of this city.

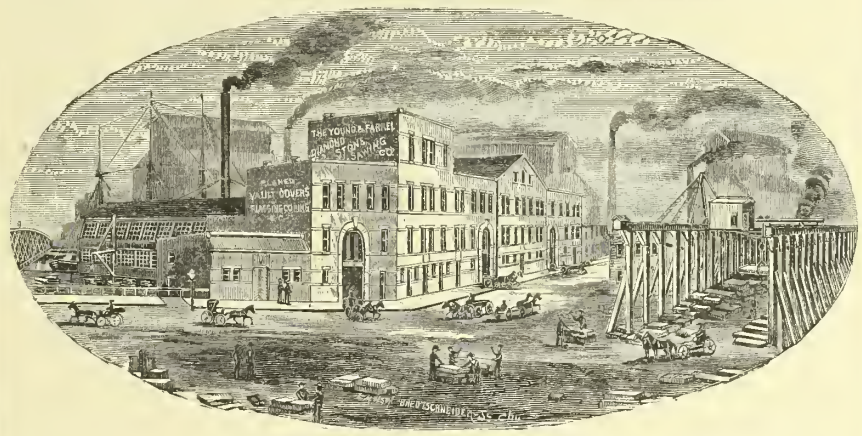
The Great Scottish-Canadian Land Company.

A special to the Pioneer-Press from Winnipeg, Man., says a Scottish-Canadian Land & Settlement Association, with a nominal capital of $250,000, has been formed and will commence operations at once. The company consists of the Earl of Mar and Kellie, Sir Reginald Carlhart, the Hon D. A. Smith of Montreal, George Stephen of the Canada Pacific Railroad, Alexander Allan of the Allan Line, and other capitalists. The leading objects are to aquire by purchase for the purpose of resale 500,000 acres, more or less, of land in Southern Manitoba and Assinniboine, to make advances to settlers to the extent of £100 for each homestead at 6 per cent. The settlers for the most part will be Scotch crofters.

The Land-Grant Question Decided at Madison.

Two winters ago the Legislature transferred the St. Croix land-grant to the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railroad upon condition of its building the Superior Branch. Recently this branch was completed and the company made application for the final installment of the grant. The Wisconsin Central and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Companies objected, they both having old claims on the grant. The Wisconsin Central compromised its objection and withdrew opposition. The St. Paul Company went before the Governor, and arguments by its attorneys and those of the Omaha Line have been held off and on for some weeks. They were completed this week and Governor Rusk rendered his decision in favor of the Omaha Line and gave notice that he should issue to it the necessary patents.

CITY COUNCIL.



An ordinance was passed amending sec. 1108 art. 9, Municipal Code; also amending sec 1109; also amending sec. 2065 art. 65, Municipal Code referring to access to water meters. Also an ordinance repealing the ordinance of July 1873 relating to opening and widening of Forest avenue.

Lumber Exodus.

The removal of some of the lumber men to South Chicago will not probably cause much if any deterioration in the value of the property left vacant. It will all be needed by manufacturing firms that are now straitened for room. Owners are sorry, of course, to lose good tenants; and while South Chicago will gain in many respects, all those parties will eventually be better satisfied.

Transfer Reform.

Our Real Estate exchange, being now in good working order, might advantageously adopt the example set them by their confrere of New York, in taking steps to organize a Land Transfer Reform organization for the purpose of facilitating and lessening the expense of transfers in land and other real estate. REAL ESTATE LAW.

Supreme Court of Illinois.

Thomas J. Sutherland v. William D. Goodnow et al. (Opinion by Scholfield, J., affirming.) Filed at Ottawa, Jan 23, 1884.

1. ASSIGNMENT—of lease carries with it right to renewal.—An assignment of a lease by the tenant carries with it a clause giving the tenant the option to renew the lease at the end of the term, as well as all other clauses therein.

2. LEASE—Option to renew is no present demise.—A clause in a lease for one year giving the lessee the option on a certain condition to renew the lease for another year, is not a demise to take effect at the expiration of the first year, it is a mere covenant or undertaking of the lessor to let the lessee have a second term which may be enforced on bill for specific performance or upon which an action at law may lie for a breach.

3. Tenant cannot sub-let longer than his present term.—A tenant in posession under a written lease for one year with the option of renewing the same for a second year if the lessor does not sell the premises befo re the end of the term, not having any demise except for one year, con not sub-let the premises for any longer term than his own, that is to the end of the first year.

4. Plaintiff procured a written lease to himself of certain premises for the term of one year, which lease contained a clause that he should have the option to take the premises for another year at the same rent, provided the lessor should not sell the premises before the end of the first year. A few months afterward the plaintiff sub-let the property to the defendants, and before the expiration of the term he notified them that if they held over, he would charge them an enhanced sum as rent. Before the end of the term the lessor sold the premises by contract and pnt the purchaser in possession; and the defendants at the end of the term allowed to the purchaser, and took a lease from him. At the end of the second year the plaintiff sued the defendants for the rent of the premises. Held, that he was not entitled to recover; that at the end of the first term the sub-lessees ceased to be tenants of the plaintiff and had the right to lease the property from the owner.

6. SALE—Of land—Conveyance is not the sale. At law a deed for land is not the sale of land. It is but the final step in the consumation of a sale and evidence of it.

9. CONVEYANCE—Relates back to date of sale.—When the time of the sale of land be comes material to protect the rights of parties, the conveyance when executed in consumation of the sale will have relation back, vest title and be evidence of an executed sale, as of the date of the contract, and the delivery of possession, pursuant to which it was executed.

Evading Trustees Sale.

A very fine legal point was raised in the case of Margaret E. Hoodless against Reid, Murdoch & Fischer and others, declared yesterday morning by Judge Tuley. This was a bill filed in March, 1881, for the purpose of setting aside or redeeming from a trustee's sale of four valuable houses on Indiana avenue, near Thirty-second street. The sale was made July 1, 1879, under a trust-deed given by complainant to L. C. P. Freer, Trustee, to secure a loan of $7,000 made to her by Reid, Murdoch & Fischer in 1876. Default having been made in the payment of certain installments of interest evidenced by interest notes or coupons the trustee, at the request of Reid, Murdoch & Fischer, the holders of the notes, gave notice of sale by publication, and the property was struck off to one of the members of the firm of Reid, Murdoch & Fischer, for the full amount of the debt and interest. The trust-deed provided that on default in payment of any covenants of the trus-deed, the principal debt should become due and pay able, anything in the notes or trust-deed to the contrary notwithstanding. There was no provision in the trust-deed that it should become due at the election or option of the holders of the notes, but that it should become due absolutely on such default. The complainant claimed that the loan was absolutely for five years, and the coupon notes in the form of negotiable instruments had been given for installments of interest, the giving of those interest notes constituted, as between the parties, payment of the interest for the whole period of the loan. Hence the principal could not be declared due for non-payment of any installment of interest. Secondly, that under the terms of the trust-deed the taustee could not proceed to execute the power of sale upon giving notice by advertisement simply, but that personal notice must also be given to the debtor and grantor in the trust-deed. It was claimed on behalf of the defendants that no further notice than was provided by the trust-deed—namely: by advertisement—was required under the law; that the interest installments were simply evidenced by the coupons, and that those coupons were not taken or given in payment of the interest, and hence the provision in the trust deed of the maturity of the principal on failure to pay iustallments of interest must govern, without any exercise of the option or election by the holder of the indebtedness; also that there had been such delay—a period of nearly two years—in bringing suit, that the complainant was guilty of laches, and not entitled to the relief she asked.

The Judge held that the complainant's position in regard to the giving of the coupon notes, constituting payment of the interest on the indebtedness for the full term of the loan, was not well taken. Second, that there being no provision in the trust-deed for the giving of personal notice to the debtor of the sale, such personal notice was not necessary to a full execution of the power of sale. There was proof that notice was given by the holders of the note—Reid, Murdoch & Fischer—that they would proceed to foreclose for non-payment of the interest notes unless they were paid by a certain time, but no attention was paid thereto. There was no want of power in the trustee to make the sale as made, nor was there any evidence of want of good faith or irregularity in the sale. The defendants had no ground at the present time to question its validity. Third, if the grounds of relief were meritorious, still the lapse of time between the sale and the filing of the bill was so great as to amount to laches on complainant's part. The bill would therefore be dismissed for want of equity. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court. Mr. E. Roby appeared for complainant and Frank J. Crawford for defendants.

A. W. Herr & Co.,

Sidewalk Ventilators and Vault Covers,

Are now ready to supply the public with their new and improved VENTILATOR and COAL-HOLE VAULT COVERS. This invention entirely does away with propping up or placing barrels or boxes in your sidewalks, at the same time giving you all the desired ventilation and three times the light given by covers now used, and always leaving the sidewalks fully clear to the public, thus abating an intolerable nuisance, and protecting life, limb, and landlords from serious damages. These covers are constructed with two heavy-hinged wings, so that one or both can be opened from below by turning a heavy thumb-screw when ventilation is desired, and can be readily closed to prevent rain or dust without obstructing the light to apartments below in either case, or disturbing the cover on sidewalk. We have all sizes, both round and square, with or without rings and fastenings. We invite the public, and particularly architects, builders, and those contemplating building, to call and examine our new devices, which will be found cheaper, and we will guarantee better satisfaction than any ever used.

We also invite your attention to our new and indispensable "EUREKA" VENTILATOR and FIRE LOCATER, to be placed on iron shutters, locating the fire in a building to a certainty, thus giving easy access to the apartment where fire is located, saving great damage and delay and loss of property, and can be used as a ventilator whenever desired for ventilation of attics, mansard roofs, outhouses, barns, stables and wooden structures of all kinds where ventilation is needed. It will be found as safe a protection from outside heat as the solid shutter. Call and see for yourselves, or send for circular.

Glass Houses.

Some attention is being devoted to glass as a material or the walls of houses, There are always minds carried way by a new thing, or a novel application of an old one' ut inconsiderateness usually accompanies fresh suggestions n an untried field, especially where ideas include many .ements as in the construction of a house. The suggestion gravely proposed to build houses of glass blocks for the dvantage of the increased light. So far as the JOURNAL an judge the meaning of this proposition is that if the alls of a house were made of transparent glass, windows or lighting purposes would be a superfluity. We presume hat even supposing the house to be made of glass readily dmitting light, the inner or the outer surface must be frosted t least. It would be convenient, especially for chambers, hat perhaps a sheet of wall paper be spread over the inner rface for the purpose of excluding curious glances, of hich no doubt there would be many if the least chance resented itself of observing what the inmates were doing· ut suppose the frosting to be effected there still would re- ain the difficulty as to the admission of heat. Perhaps e propounder of the glass house theory does not know at even frosting will not exclude the sun's rays, actinic, nd illuminating. In such a house the inhabitants would on experience a degree of heat to which an ordinary hot ouse would be as nothing. Ventilation must be provided r under any circumstances. Glass might indeed be ad- ntageously employed in building, especially of the less ittle and more tough and tenacious kinds. But the substance of the blocks would require to be clouded with some dark material that would have a portion of the external thickness of transparent glass, but having the central and inner portion so opaque as to be impervious to light and heat. Recent discoverics in the glass manufacture, and the art of inserting ornamental work in glass balls, weights &c. render the introduction of a clouding material into the substance of building blocks of glass an easy process. But in any event glass will always admit and transmit a very large portion of solar light and heat; and it is probable that this quality may render the employment of glass for walls practically unavailable. There are indeed certain portions of a good house that might with advantage be constructed of clouded glass. Columns for instance, pilasters, sills, decorative work around windows, and other portions, where the effect of light and heat on the material, as affecting the rooms would not be very perceptible. For the present there need be no great rush for glass for other purposes. Good stone, brick, tile, with glass accompaniments for specialties are all that are practicable. We have not forgotten the force and effect of reflected light and heat if houses in streets should be constructed of glass. A simple surface of that material would render a sidewalk absolutely intolerable. The heat reflected from enameled tiles across a narrow alley will be more than perceptible, and at many an angle even the reflected light is a nuisance. But with glass, men would be obliged to shade their eyes, unless the glass surface were coverd with a non-reflecting material, and in that case the advantage of transparency, claimed for glass, must disappear. We should be glad to revert to our homelier, less sentimental materials that will not crack and fly and melt when the fire fiend rages.

WEEDY EDUCATION.

The legacy transmitted to us from the scholastic pedantry of the middle ages must bear the reproach of largely furnishing the crowd of empty and idle searchers for a "soft job," who crowd our cities. For many centuries the highest type of education consisted of so-called classics, that is treatises on rhetoric, grammar, and other languistic proficiencies. So long as men's highest knowledge consisted of dreams and fancies,and the most puerile and flimsy tales of supernatural fictions formed the substratum on which socalled education was built, naturally the art of perpetuating these debasing myths was regarded as education. Pious dreamers and prophetic charlatans who differed from fraudulent mountebanks only in name, were able in those days to cheat the victims of the unseemly impostures that passed current for literature, out of all power to help themselves. Our universities have inherited too much of the exclusively antique and visionary substratum of mediæval fancies. Hence the education of our young men is too much in the past, and partakes of the dreamy, the rhetorical, the sentimental, the "gushy." We seem to have yet to learn that facts, proved, demonstrated and natural, are the basis, the substance and the completion of all knowledge. But facts in an educational sense, must be limited to such as are under the power of students not only to comprehend, but to control and utilize. If we cannot turn our knowledge to account of what benefit is it? And if our knowledge cannot be turned to account at all, it is necessarily worthless. If we cannot build it up into something, cannot handle it and make it into some definite shape, it is of no practical value. Our universities have to deal with a large proportion of minds that are unfitted for the purely scientific subjects of the practical side of their curriculum. When such minds have been struggling for years with abstruse questions and have not mastered them, the knowledge gained is of no account; but a taste for philosophic idling has been acquired. It is these minds that crowd into the cities seeking for some easy job. Before long the terrors of want are felt and the descent to crime—more or less violent—is a frequent result. Education which does not enable a young man to do something practical outside of scribbling in an office is of very little account. Parents are finding this out. Association with the constructive facts of real life is the best education after the preliminaries of school have been acquired. We read then with pleasure of a professional man, enjoying e good income, who has apprendiced his son, 16 years old, to a builder. The lad will have to work at his trade, do all jobs, outside and inside, and familiarize his mind with facts so as to control them. Being s sharp lad, he will be master of his trade at twenty-one, and will be then independent. The silly pride of parents and the evil tendencies and gambling propensities of modern youth are handing trades over to the lowlier representatives of the toiling world. The idlers are being thrust aside, because mediævalism in schools, colleges, and churches, has still a hold on us.

THE MARKET.

Real estate is now in active demand. Prices are firm to say the least. Owners in some cases are expecting more than they may be able to obtain. But inquiries were never so numerous, and many transactions of importance have taken place. The most noticeable feature is the fact that purchasers look to permanency and not to speculation. Attention is chiefly devoted to improved lots, but acre property will soon be in request, and there is much that is very valuable to be had. The faces of real estate agents are corrugated with smiles, because they expect a continuance of active business. In all probability they will not be disappointed. A few owners consider their property better than the money they would receive for it now, but the tendency is towards actual business at the best rates procurable.

The announcement that ground would be broken for the new building to be erected by the Home Fire Insurance Company at the northeast corner of La Salle and Adams streets about March 1. is substantiated by the local agents of the company, who also state that plans for the new structure have not yet been completed. Several competitive drawings have been made, but none accepted. The company's New York representative is expected here in a few days to decide upon the plan to be adopted.

Among the real estate transfers recorded on Thursday was that of Mary Lee Stewart to Samuel H. Wheeler, of the Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Company, as follows: Washington boulevard, southwest corner of Francisco street, north front, 412x596 feet to Madison street, with 400 feet running to Lake street in opposite block (except 100x190 feet on opposite corner), $106,000. An examination of the record columns will show other important transfers.

SOUTH CHICAGO.

This extensive and now rapidly advancing district comprises about 2,500 acres. Ten or a dozen short years ago the place was a waste. Now it contains a busy population of not far from 20,000, and several very large manufacturing establishments that expend about a half million dollars monthly in wages. The advantages of this important region for large establishments are very great. Lumber men and others who need space are being attracted thither. The Calumet river which is navigable for any lake vessel for fifteen miles can be readily connected with Calumet lake, where harbor facilities present great possible advantages. The canal forming the connection will in all probability be completed within a very short time. Very extensive and well arranged slips have been constructed opening on Calumet river, offering to lumber vessels the most ready access from the lake to shipping by rail on shore. Railroads run to all points; and large freight can be put on cars running on short side tracks with the greatest economy of space and time and labor. The series of small lakes close to the shore constitute in themselves so many docks that only invite dredging to present unrivalled opportunities to owners. A present space may be secured and many wise and foreseeing men are turning their serious attention to this most important suburb. In the congested condition of much of our city terrritory a wide expansion of business facilities has become absolutely necessary. South Chicago has the space, the docks, the harbor, the ready access, and the shipping facilities by land fully equal to any demands that can be made upon it for many years. Before long it must be preeminently our lake port, what Leith is to Edinburg, what Kingstown is to Dublin, what Ostia was to Rome, what Blackwall is to London—the Piræus of Chicago, but on an immensely enlarged scale. From these advantages and many others that might be named real estate in South Chicago is now attracting lively attention. There are gentlemen located there who can afford abundant information to visitors and intending investors. Messrs. Smith & Wilder on Commercial avenue, a very short distance from the Mich. Southern R. R. station control considerable interests and are gentlemen of large experience in real estate matters. Their information is always reliable; and they can guide investors intelligently. At present there exists a great need of cottage residences. The workmen engaged in the large manufactories are insufficiently housed, and large additions to the existing accommodations would pay well. According to information received from the gentlemen named, from twel per cent to fifteen may be reasonably expected. With the establishment of lumber yards, and the great influx of workmen necessarily attendant on that change there will be serious dearth of dwellings. A splendid opportunity for investment is presented in excellent paying property. Messrs. Smith & Wilder are fully alive to the growing importance of their suburb; and their experience will be of value. With increase of dwellings of the simpler class will necesarily arise the demand for better edifices. In fact, Chicago is thrusting herself bodily into that region. The shell has grown to be too small, or rather the creature is bursting its shell in that direction, and the new shell will be many miles larger in circumference than the old one.

Our views and our information on this district are confirmed by Mr. A. Krimbill who also controls extensive interests in South Chicago. The firm have themselves permanent connection with local real estate, and are fully informed on the localities. This gentleman states that the prospect for a large accession to the shipping and manufacturing interests is certain in the near future. The increased accommodation in the shape of bridge facilities long in course of preparation, will probably be adjusted very speedily, as all parties now perceive the business wisdom of affording full and ready transit across the river both for foot passengers and teams. The coal yards alone need these facilities, and those who are most nearly concerned are shrewd enough to know where their profit lies. Mr. Krimbill is well aware that cottage residences are much needed now, and will be still more loudly called for in a short time. The rent paid by workmen for such accomdation as they obtain is far below what ought to be provided for the same money. They would hail new cottages with joy.

The most desirable portion of this district for residence purposes consists of what is known as the East Side or Taylor's additions which extends for a mile or so along the shore of Lake Michigan. Mr. D. S. Taylor who is the owner of the additions and whose interests have been and are very extensively associated with South Chicago, has bestowed much energy on the improvement of the district. This gentleman's acquaintance with the actual movements now taking place towards the consolidation of South Chicago manufacturing and shipping industry, fully confirms all that the JOURNAL has learned from other sources. It is well known that many leading firms are in want of more room, as well as greater dock facilities. Both can be obtained in South Chicago. The railroad communication especially by belt line is unsurpassed, and the entire framework for a large commerce is ready at hand. A new manufactory will be set in operation in the southern portion of Taylor's addition on the site of a former one; and others will follow. Inquiries from distant cities come in freely; and the attention of enterprising firms who have been unable hitherto to discover the combination of manufacturing sites and shipping advantages presented by South Chicago, is being turned to this promising district.

A horse railway will be built and put in operation this summer on Ewing avenue which extends through the center of Taylor's addition, thus connecting Cummings and the North Chicago Rolling Mills with the East Side.

We need not add that the present town is well provided with schools, churches, and other evidences of intelligence and culture. Taylor's addition must form the residence centre, as the ground is higher and drier than any other portion, and enjoys the further advantage of fronting on Lake Michigan. Full information on matters of inner detail can be obtained from Mr. D. S. Taylor, room 52 Calumet Building, 191 LaSalle street, Chicago.

The Builders' and Traders' Exchange, having secured a lease for five years of their present premises in the Arcade building will make important additions to their accommodation. The partition wall next the stairway will be removed, the floor extended over the stairs, and the two rooms on the opposite side of the present hallway will be added to the offices occupied by the Exchange. The additional space will be of great advantage, and will extend the usefulness of the Exchange. The membership has greatly increased and this body will form ere long a very important corporation.

A. W. Herr & Co.,

Sidewalk Ventilators and Vault Covers,

Are now ready to supply the public with their new and improved VENTILATOR and COAL-HOLE VAULT COVERS. This invention entirely does away with propping up or placing barrels or boxes in your sidewalks, at the same time giving you all the desired ventilation and three times the light given by covers now used, and always leaving the sidewalks fully clear to the public, thus abating an intolerable nuisance, and protecting life, limb, and landlords from serious damages. These covers are constructed with two heavy-hinged wings, so that one or both can be opened from below by turning a heavy thumb-screw when ventilation is desired, and can be readily closed to prevent rain or dust without obstructing the light to apartments below in either case, or disturbing the cover on sidewalk. We have all sizes, both round and square, with or without rings and fastenings. We invite the public, and particularly architects, builders, and those contemplating building, to call and examine our new devices, which will be found cheaper, and we will guarantee better satisfaction than any ever used.

We also invite your attention to our new and indispensable "EUREKA" VENTILATOR and FIRE LOCATER, to be placed on iron shutters, locating the fire in a building to a certainty, thus giving easy access to the apartment where fire is located, saving great damage and delay and loss of property, and can be used as a ventilator whenever desired for ventilation of attics, mansard roofs, outhouses, barns, stables and wooden structures of all kinds where ventilation is needed. It will be found as safe a protection from outside heat as the solid shutter. Call and see for yourselves, or send for circular.

REAL ESTATE LAW.

SUPREME COURT OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

COVENANTS THAT RUN WITH THE LAND,

The covenant of general warranty in a deed is a covenant that runs with the estate in reference to which is made, and may be availed of by suit, in his own name, by any one to whom the same may come by deed, even after several successive conveyances, or a descent or devise. As the covenant runs with the land, it passes to the grantee under any conveyance sufficient to transfer the title to the land,

The legal title to land ordinarily carries with it the right of possession, and gives a constructive possession without actual entry; and a conveyance by one having the legal title, although not in actual possession, carries the right of possession, and the grantee upon taking actual possession, may avail himself of a covenant of warranty running with the land: Chandler v Brown page 370

CONTRACTORS—ATTACHABLE INTEREST.

A contracter has no attachable interest in building erected by him on land of another, under a contract for a stipulated sum payable in installments as the work progressed to the satisfaction of the owner of the land, the contract having been abandoned when the buildings were partially completed, and the contract price partly paid.

A party furnishing materials for the erection of such buildings can secure a lien thereon only by giving notice ie the statutory mode; and a levy and sale on execution of the buildings, as personal estate of the contractor, wtll pass no title in the purchase: Sleeper & Co. v. Emery, page 374.

REAL ESTATE—PURCHASED WITH PARTNERSHIP FUNDS.

Real estate purchased with partnership funds for the use of the partnership and used in the partnership business, is in equity regarded as assets of the partnership, and will be applied in the liquidation of part. nership in preference to individual liabilit ies Messer & a. v. Messer & a. page 375,

LANDLORD AND TENANT,

The opinion of the New York city court, at general term by McADAMS, C. J., holding term the landlord of a tenement house, occupied by numerous tenants, is bound to keep the roof in repair, but is not an insurer, nor is he required to exercise any other than ordinary care in the management of the property, and in the absence of negligence, is not liable for damages done to a tenant's goods by a rain storm, until after knowlege or notice of the defect compl ained of.

GUARDIAN'S SERVICES,

The opinion of one of the Orphan's court, in Pa., by HAWKINS P, J,, holding that guardians are not expected to abandon their private business to attend to that of their wards and will be compensated for service required by the trust only. In thts case the expenses for collecting less than fifteen thousand dollars, for the ward were over twenty-five thousand dollars. At this rate it would be much more profitable to be guardian than ward. In many cases an honest, firm, probate judge, is the only bar between a dishonest, devouring guardian and the estate of his helpless ward,

BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

—)o(—

Internal Decoration of Houses.

A strong sense of the æsthetic is innate in every human being. It will find its gratification according to the means possessed by individuals, and although it may exhibit itself in various directions, and seek expression in strange outlets, yet it is a real power governing the human race. The ocbre, the plumes and the bears' claws of the savage are not only the manifestation of the same kind of sentiment which spreads a bird, real or simulated, on the bonnet of a modern belle, but they are the tokens of that sentiment itself. In this respect we are not one degree elevated above the fancies of the savage. The false taste which parades a dead bird in all the apparent agonies of dying misery on a head dress, and calls that ornament, is as low in the scale of feeling as that of the savage who hangs a bear's or a leopard's head for a locket.

It is to be noticed that where sufficient gratification is allowed for æsthetic taste in one direction there is always a decline in the manifestation of this taste in another. Persons who are environed by beautiful sights and ornamental devices in their homes are in almost all—if not in all cases, cultivators of quietness and moderation in matters of personal decoration. The savage whose home is a tepee, a mud bothy, a begrimed hovel, or an infested hut, looks for the most garish ornaments, and the most extravagant expressions of individual importance. This is the only outlet for his sense of the æsthetic, In the middle ages [when domestic animals were frequently quartered in the next room with the family, and sometimes in the same room, when bare stone floors, and dark and narrow chambers formed the abodes of even the yeomanry and humbler nobles, when wattled walls, cracked and rough, and the coarsest surroundings constituted the comforts of farmers, and still worse those of peasants, men expressed their sense of dignity in fripperics of personal attire. The absence of architectural refinement in ordinary dwellings begot those demonstrations of courtly courtesies of manners, and those elegant extravagancies of mode and fashion which formed the marks of gentle culture. These were the means in existence for the expression of personal taste and sense of dignity. The accumulation of wealth has placed costliness of architectural decoration within the reach of moderns; and men point with pride to their magnificent surroundings as proofs of the power of their genius and energy. The pride in a bright and attractive home is thus accompanied with simplicity in dress which especially distinguishes persons possessed of splendid mansions. No taste to-day is more vulgar than that of frippery either of mode or color in dress. Men respect themselves for what they can accomplish, and what they can surround themselves with as proofs of dignity and worth. The influence of this change depressed vanity, encouraged arts and industries, distributed wealth, and filled the land with the highest ambition men can have, that of being at once great possessors of costly surroundings, and that of leading their neighbors in the march towards the higher and better. This feeling cannot be too widely diffused; and the men who can furnish the style. the pattern, the skill, the attractive design that can speak to human feelings and entice men to their homes are the noblest benefactors, and the most honored citizens. Their works speak more potently than sermons, their language is that of the soul speaking to the soul through the charms of color, and the suggestiveness of beauty. A home decorated wfth a meaning and an appropriateness is an open Bible and of the most authentic kind. Its words are truth and its lessons divine, and the man must be debased indeed that can despise them. Unhappily the tendency to speak to human feelings through architectural elegancies is largely limited to the extreme limits of society—the schools of vice and the halls of preaching. The purpose in both cases is to address men through the charms of graceful form, and the delights of aesthetic appeals. The soul answers to the invitation in each case; and the home feeling, the citizen pride, the manliness of personal contentment in its own domestic surroundings, the calmness of intelligent purity, are banished from their legitimate abode and merged in the excitement of the gin slave or the devotee.

Proposed New Buildings.

The superintendent of repairs of Public Buildings will attempt to secure a special appropriation by congress for the purpose of strengthening and remodeling the Chicago Custom House and Post Office.

Architect F. B. Townsend, of this city, has prepared plans for an industrial school, to be erected for the Unity Church Society, as soon as the weather will permit. Its dimensions will be 44x44, two stories and basement, and built of brick and stone; cost, $9,000.

Architect O. L. Wheelock is building for himself a residence on Ellis avenue, between Oakwood avenue and Brook street. Pressed brick is the material used, with brown stone trimmings. It will be two stories and basement in height, 32 by 58 feet, with a high roof. One of the features of the interior is a diagonally shaped parlor. A brick barn in the rear will be 36 by 29 feet and two stories.

Mr. Huber has plâns for a three-story flat-building for Mr. T. Parker, on Honore street, to cost $6,000; also for three-story flats, with pressed brick front, terra cotta trimmings, stained glass transoms, and all modern improvements, to be erected on Rush street, near Oak, for Mr. J. Moerschbaecher, to cost about $8,000. Also a residence and barn on Larrabee street, for Mr. J. Becker, to cost about $9,000.

Two handsome houses are to be built at Rosalie Villas. For information, see Chandler & Co., 72 Dearborn street.

L. J. Secristi is building a handsome house at Lagrange Ills. Also H. A. Keys will build a residence near depot.

A new store at Chicago Lawn, 24 by 38 feet, two stories high is to be completed soon. Mr. Jno. Craven of Englewood, will build two houses at Chicago Lawn.

The building committee of the Woman's Hospital of Chicago will build a new hospital as soon as the money is donated. Mr. Leopold Bloom of 1725 Michigan avenue has sent in his check for $100.

New Town Hall 128 by 40 feet, one story high, to cost $2500, at Lagrange.

Two new engine houses, each 48x80 ft. frame, one in South Chicago and one in Hyde Park.

Messrs. James S. Kook & Co. will shortly begin another large addition to their extensive soap-works.

The Pueblo Refining and Smelting Works of Colorado will soon enlarge the capacity of their works.

THE
Real Estate and Building Journal
R. C. SMYERS, PROPRIETOR.
CHICAGO, SATURDAY, March 1, 1884.

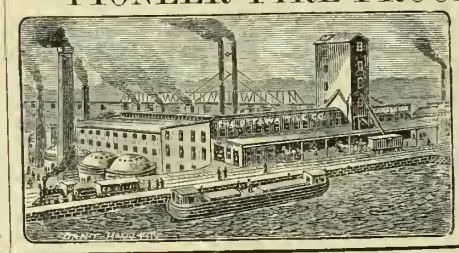
How are the mighty fallen! The late Senator Sumner's house in Washington is now a hotel "annex." Edward Everett's home is an office of tbe War Department, and the house in which Secretary Seward was nearly murdered is similarly used. "Edgwood", the home of Chief Justice Chase is empty. The residences of Stanton and Hamilton Fish are boarding houses, and—let us blush for it—Daniel Webster's home is a beer saloon. The fact is that style and appointments are so rapidly rising that a stately mansion of one decade is mean and unsightly in comparison with its younger rivals the next.

THE MARKET.

Fair activity has characterized our real estate market during the week. The harsh weather has produced a kind of compression in negotiations which will result in a mild explosion of energy when the thaw comes. Masons and contractors are gathering up their vim, and putting themselves in readiness for vigorous effort. The incipient or pronounced corpulence of some of the weightier members of this fraternity, acquired during the winter's leisure, will abate considerably as the season advances. But they are eager for the prey, and ere long the metallic ring of the trowel and the cheery cry for mortar will arise even above the den of the Board of Trade. Sidewalks will be obstructed and heaps of material will demonstrate the usual litter that accompanies all improvement. The enterprise in real estate has spread all through Chicago and out into the suburbs. Style and finish are rapidly becoming more tasteful and buildings are put up for permanence. Eagerness for space is making up in height for deficiency in width. A notable instance of this tendency is the proposed new building, almost resembling an exaggerated campanile, at the corner of Calhoun place and Dearborn street. A tower of twelve stories, 40x 90 ft. and rising ninety feet in solitary eminence above the adjoining structures, may raise a question as to the advisability and even the permissible character of such edifices. A few owners have exhibited a tendency to retire their property as soon as their figures are reached or even approximated. There are always such; but their facility for evading the inducements they have themselves held out has not marked the general real estate speculation. Owners generally sell when they can, knowing well that it is transfer that confers increase of value.

South Chicago.

Some unreasonable complaints have been made in regard to the opening of the new bridge over the Calumet river, on Ewing avenue. The Dock Company are not responsible for that delay. It arises from the obstruction tactics of the parties in occupation of the adjoining property which they have squatted on without right. The company have made most reasonable proposals but without avail.



Although the season is not yet sufficiently advanced for the ordinary real estate purchaser to venture out into the suburbs to view the localities, yet correspondence leading to such visits is very active, and much attention is being devoted to the advantages of South Chicago. As we stated last week a demand for a larger and more costly class of buildings than cottages has been developed; and there are pending negotiations of an important character that will, in all probability, end in the erection of several prominent structures. There is always a class of foreseeing men who put up attractive stores in promising localities even before any outward movement is manifest towards a large influx of population. These are the men who are on the ground when the time comes, and they usually reap the harvest due to their energy. Several of such men are at present negotiating for locations; and if favorable terms can be procured signs of activity will follow. Mr. Frank McWinnie of South Chicago, is probably not unaware of unpublished progress in that respect. This gentleman can supply valuable information as to men and sites; and he can advance the interests of intending purchasers both at South Chicago and Hegewisch. All the aspects of South Chicago realty can be learned from Mr. McWinnie and the tendencies of present movements will always decide the choice of a location

Central Park Vicinity.

The immediate neighborhood of Central Park just bordering on the western limits of the city is a region that presents very great inducements to purchasers. It is pierced by lines of conveyance direct to th eheart of the city, running along excellent routes, and requiring the least possible time. The Lake street and Madison street cars are at once accessible, and the railroad accommodation is of the most ample. No more available or convenient location for residences for persons established along the great routes, Madison, Washington, Randolph & Lake streets and Park avenue—the very chiefest arteries of Chicago—could be named. The proximity of the fine Central Park, the existence of dry, macadamized roads, one hundred feet in width, and forming splendid thoroughfares, renders this district a centre of great possibilities. The town of Cicero is well and economically managed. Taxes are far be low those on property at much greater distance; great attention has been devoted to drainage; the ground rises steadily from the city westward; and for health and convenience this region cannot be surpassed. A glance at the map will prove the easy accessibility to the business centre. For moderate priced lots and residences no bett er location is presented. Lots are 180 feet deep and the dwellings can never be crowded. Splendid sites are afforded along the Belt Line and the C. & N. W. Ry. for warerooms; and every possible advantage of space associated with accessibility to transporl by street car and railroad is here available. This property attracted deserved attention last year and many improvements in the shape of good buildings were made. To persons who need to control time in reaching and returning from their places of business, and require home location at a low figure, this property is exceedingly advantageous. We are informed by Mr. Farr who superintends the disposition of this and other property that inquiries for lots were never so numerous, and the present season will exhibit a large increaee of sales. Inquiries at 38 Washington street will confirm our statements.

Fire Losses.

During last year the losses by fire in the United States and Canada were estimated at $105,000,000. Several of these losses amounted to $300,000 each. At Atlanta, Georgia, $600,000 worth was swept away. Insurance companies were held to the sum of $54,000,000. Four foreign and two American companies retired from business; and there have been no applications for admission from abroad. The use of only combustible materials ought to be compulsory.

Commisssoner of Public Works was directed to cause a sewer to be laid in Van Horn street, and also in Seventieth street.

Fire Escapes.

The idea of tower fire escapes attached to all buildings of any considerable size is one that will command attention. They could be employed as ordinary means of egress in hotels and factories. Workmen and the general public would thus become perfectly habituated to their use, and no embarrassment could ensue on an alarm being given. Indeed the work people ought to be regularly drilled in the use of such towers, so as to ensure quietness and order, whenever a cry of fire should be raised. Factory inspectors could easily apply the rule for such a practice. In school houses such discipline might even now form a part of the regular routine. A very little practice would ensure perfect order in all large establishments on an occasion of fire. The divisions being numbered, the inmates of each division in case of fire could at once repair to the tower or towers attached to that division, and be out of harm's way. A broad circular stair-case with balusters would afford plenty of room, and the knowledge that such a stairway was entirely out of the reach of fire, joined to the practice of using those stairs, and of training in orderly egress must prevent confusion which is usually the principal ingredient in the danger from fire.

Removal.

We take pleasure in giving notice in this week's JOURNAL of the removal of William Strang, one of the most prominent dealers in wall paper, paint, oils, glass, etc., on the West Side. Mr. Strang has removed his store from its old location on Randolph street to 324 West Madison street. Mr. Strang has acquired for himself a reputation for honesty and straightforwardness in his dealings with customers; he thus has obtained for himself a good patronage, many of them readers of the REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING JOURNAL, and wishes to notify them of his removal to this new store, where they will find him more able than ever to do any work that he is called upon to do. Remember the new and capacious store, 324 West Madison street, where you will find a fine and varied stock of wall paper and decorations.

Change of Name.

Our readers will readily perceive that the title of the Ottawa Tile Company has been changed to the Pioneer Fire Proof Construction Co. Fire proofing of buildings is their specialty. The management will continue as heretofore under direction of Mr. E. V. Johnson.

A. W. Herr & Co.,

Sidewalk Ventilators and Vault Covers,

Are now ready to supply the public with their new and improved VENTILATOR and COAL-HOLE VAULT COVERS. This invention entirely does away with propping up or placing barrels or boxes in your sidewalks, at the same time giving you all the desired ventilation and three times the light given by covers now used, and always leaving the sidewalks fully clear to the public, thus abating an intolerable nuisance, and protecting life, limb, and landlords from serious damages. These covers are constructed with two heavy-hinged wings, so that one or both can be opened from below by turning a heavy thumb-screw when ventilation is desired, and can be readily closed to prevent rain or dust without obstructing the light to apartments below in either case, or distnrbing the cover on sidewalk. We have all sizes, both round and sqnare, with or without rings and fastenings. We invite the public, and particularly architects, builders, and those contemplating building, to call and examine our new devices, which will be found cheaper, and we will guarantee better satisfaction than any ever used.

We also invite your attention to our new and indispensable "EUREKA" VENTILATOR and FIRE LOCATER, to be placed on iron shutters, locating the fire in a building to a certainty, thus giving easy access to the apartment where fire is located, saving great damage and delay and loss of property, and can be used as a ventilator whenever desired for ventilation of attics, mansard roofs, outhouses, barns, stables and wooden structures of all kinds where ventilation is needed. It will be found as safe a protection from outside heat as the solid shutter. Call and see for yourselves, or send for circular.

REAL ESTATE LAW.

OPINION FILED JANUARY 21, 1884,
HART v. SANSOM.

JUDGMENT UPON SERVICF BY PUBLICATION NO BAR TO ANOTHER SUIT.

A decree of a State Court tor the removal of a cloud upon the title of land within the State, rendered against a citizen of another State, who has been cited by publication only, as directed by the local statutes, is no bar to an action by him in the Circuit Court of the United States to recover the land against the plaintiff in the former suit.

In a suit to recover land, and to remove a cloud upon the title thereof, brought in a court of the State in which the land is against W. H. and others, the petition alleged that W. ejected the plaintiff, and unlawfully witheld possession from him; that H. set up some pretended claim or title to the land; that the other defendants held recorded deeds thereof, which were fraudulent and void; and that the pretented claims and deeds cast a cloud upon the plaintiff's title. Due service was made on the other defendants; and a citation to H., who was a citizen of another State, was phblished as directed by the local siatutes. All the defendants were defaulted, and upon a writ of idquiry the Jury found that H. claimed the land, but had no title of record or otherwise, and returned a verdict for the plaintiff. Judgment was rendered that the plaintiff recover the land of the defendants, and that the deeds mentioned in the petition be caucelled and annulled, and the cloud thereby removed, and for costs, and that execution issue for the costs: Held. that this judgment was no bar to an action by H. in the Circuit Court of the United States, to recover the land against the plaintiff in the former suit.

POWER TO CONDEMN PROPERTY. The opinion of the Supreme Court of Florida, by WESTCOTT, J., holding that the State has the right to make a compulsory purchase of, or to condemn the property of the citizen for a public use or purpose, just compensation being made to the citizen for it; that the State, through the legislative department of government, may grant such right to any incorporated railway company having the usual franchise and duties attached to such companies, to the extent that the property is necessary for the use of the corporation in accomplishing the purposes of its creation that the statute must, however, provide just compensation to the citizen for his property so authorized to be taken. Neither an award of damages nor a judgment against a corporation for damages ascertained, or to be ascertained by commissioners, is a just compensation to the citizen, for the appropriation of his property by the corporation to its use in the construction of its road.

THE COUNTY ABSTRACTS.
COMPENSATIONS OF RECORDER.

Judge Smith of the Superior Court held, that the county board had no power to allow Recorder Brockway $1000 a year for attending to the abstract department, in addition to his salery of $3000 per annum.

Judge Smith said it is agreed "that the sum of $1,000 is a reasonable sum and properly retained by the defendant, provided the county board has the legal power to allow to him any extra compensation for superintending the abstract department, over and above his salary as fixed by law,"

BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

——)o(——

HOUSE ACCOMMODATION.

In Chicago the average number of persons to each house is eight, in London nine, in Berlin fifty-six. Paris contains twenty five to each house. In the first named places the system of flats does not prevail very largely. In Berlin and Paris flats are common. The English capital contains 420,000 houses. About 25,000 new dwellings are erected every year to accommodate an accession of 120,000 inhabitants. Vienna grows slowly, and here we find the most elaborate appointments. Edinboro is the most classically constructed city of modern times, and her architects have studied effect; but the tenements have always been overcrowded. The squalor of the Cowgate is proverbial. The advantage of foreign travel with one's eyes open for observation of useful facts and not to discover haunts of libertinism, is seen in Hamburg. The younger men of the wealthy classes of this commercial city travel usually for a year or more, and their tastes are improved by the architectural designs they study. But Hamburg is densely crowded and the average of Paris is nearly reached. In width of streets, and in general accommodation for our people we are not ashamed of our status in Chicago, and we might be proud of our position considering that we are hardly fifty years old. There are however some overcrowded spots where population has almost suddenly thrust itself. The evil is not extensive and will be remedied effectually ere long,

Associated with the question of accommodation, that is the convenient and healthful stowage of human residents in a limited space, is the practical detail of the size of buildings. Width seems to have been taken no notice of in discussions on the subject. That point has been so far determined by the ownership of the site of each house. In Chicago at least the question of cellarage is also practically simple. In a few cases only we have sub cellars. There remains the unsolved problem of height. Let it be noted here that if our legislatures, great and little, have power to regulate this point at all they have power to do so in all respects. In this view the problem reaches out further than is supposed generally. Basing their action on the French imperial decree of July, 1869, the New York authorities propose to regulate the height of houses to be erected in that city. Taking the width of the street as the basis of comparison, the imperial government established a scale of heights of houses on that street. The scale adopted is 11 to 7, 14 to 9, 17 to 9⅔, finally reaching an equality between the with of the street and the height of the houses. When the roadway is represented by 7, 9, 9⅔, the elevation is represented by 11, 14, 17, respectively. When 20 represents the street, the houses may also be represented by 20. When a street does not exceed 25 feet or thereabouts a regulation limiting the houses to 38 feet is reasonable. A height of 47 feet for a street of 32 feet is also reasonable. But in Chicago we should wince under a decree restricting builders to 65 feet on all boulevards of 65 feet or over. Sound reasons, based on danger from fire and epidemics, can be advanced for restraining the towering ambition or covetousness of prospectors and proprietors. That extremely tall buildings are fire traps and very likely to become nests of pestilence under defective or neglected sanitary arrangements, cannot be disputed. Bnt if we refuse to permit accommodation to be provided for an augmenting population in the increased height of houses in one locality, are we not bound to compel provision for that accommodation in another? If we can and we ought to compel one set of owners to limit the capacity of the dwellings they put up, can we not and ought we not to compel another set of owners to provide the room thus denied elsewhere? If we forbid more than, say 100, feet in Dearborn street, must we not require a correspondingly greater elevation and capacity along W. Lake street? If we have the right, that is the voting capacity, to prevent landlords and other alleged miscreants from roasting their tenants in fire traps, have we not also the voting capacity and therefore the right to compel other alleged miscreants to provide the dwelling places which shall protect tenants from being frozen? The power to regulate must extend both ways. If we can say to the rich owner "You must not spend more than a certain amount of money to accommodate any person," may we not also say to the poor owner, "You must spend a certain amount on your building if it is to be placed on a certain street." If we base our plans on philanthropy and not on economical calculations, let us be logical in our philanthropy; and if we build on public convenience and the principle of social and physical expediency, let our expediency extend to the supply as well as to the limitation of accommodation to our people.

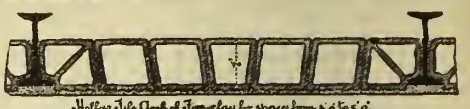
THE
Real Estate and Building Journal
R. C. SMYERS, PROPRIETOR.
CHICAGO, SATURDAY, March 8, 1884.

That Proposed Twenty Per Cent.

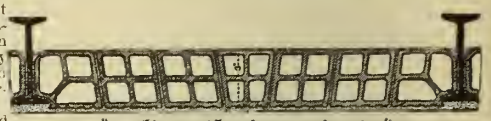
Some noise is being made by portions of the city press, and those neither the most candid nor the best informed, respecting the proposition to discover delinqnent property holders. The city officials ought to be informed that this JOURNAL publishes every week a full list of all persons in whose names trust deeds, mortgages and chattel mortgages are entered on the books of the county. A very little examination will place these names in alphabetical order, and the non-residents among them can be discovered almost at a glance, by the aid of a directory.

The purpose of the "twenty per cent" plan is to compel persons who abstract a large proportion from the ownership value of our real estate. in the shape of mortgages, to pay their proportion of the burdens incident on the land from which they derive large revenues, through those mortgages. In 1872 the entire taxable property of the city was $384,000,000. In 1883 that total had dwindled to $132,000,000. The land which pays the mortgagecs has to bear the entire burden; and is compelled to pay the additional tax, because those who have converted large portions of its value into paper indentures do not pay their share. A dangerous proposal.

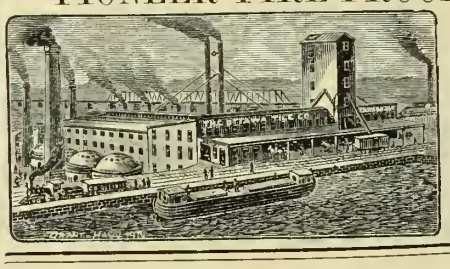
THE MARKET.



We here repeat for the special information of our friends that we never publish contemplated sales or other real estate transactions prematurely. We know of many proposed transfers, but as the negotiations are immature we are discreetly silent respecting them. It is not long since a fussy if not impertinent scribe in one of our Chicago dailies almost annihilated the arrangements for a very important negotiation, by premature and indiscreet disquisitions on a subject which the said scribe did not understand. All that such folk care for is to make a crackle like that of "thorns under a pot," the element of idiocy being the chief ingredient in the material.



Great activity still prevails, and a large number of proposed sales are being negotiated. Agents are increasingly reticent, and their caution is justifiable.



At present the renting business occupies much attention. A noticeable feature in this department is the presence of foreign firms who are seeking to make Chicago their American headquarters. There are also firms who find themselves obliged to secure their western trade by maintaining a brauch here. Not many changes in the location of local firms of standing are expected; and inquiries for capacious premises, well situated, for the incoming houses from other cities, will probably result in the occupation of all available locations. We refrain from giving second insertion to the details of accomplished transactions which are to be found in the ample records we present every week. In this respect, within our limited spacc we furnish far more information, thoroughly authentic, on real estate transactions, than all the other journals in the city put together every Saturday. Our numbers are therefore much more valuable in this respect than those of any other weekly paper in the city, Persons having property for sale will do well to make note of this.

We can only present a few samples of recent sales:

HARBOR IMPROVEMENT.

The subdivision of Chicago into districts devoted to the several great industries natural to a lakeport of the first importance is now recognized as the only system capable of allowing this growing city all its natural expansiveness. These subdivisions are already marked out for us by the Chicago and Calumet rivers. The latter is associated with so large an area of water surface, and presents so many advantages as an inlet to a great harbor system that a glance at the map is all that is needed to convince the most skeptical. The great dockage and warehouse systems must ere long group themselves where the accessories of approach by land and water are the most extensive, and where the appliances for shipment can be brought to bear on anything like an adequate scale. That the present harbor of Chicago, if such it can be called, is more than choaked need not be told. That a large accession of space is absolutely required demands no proof. The only question is where this accession is to be found. The Calumet lake region is the only place that presents anything of the magnitude required. The depth of water in Calumet river, and in all parts of Lake Michigan adjoining, is confessedly ample for a first class harbor. A good beginning has been made. Government has already recognized the value of the site mentioned; but when it is stated that the river with its branches, and Calumet and Wolfe lakes will afford a dock frontage of forty miles, all perfectly sheltered, and in immediate contact with a complete railroad system; and all this even now forming an integral portion of the port of Chicago, it is not necessary to dilate on the serious national importance of improving and utilizing these splendid advantages to the utmost. A small expenditure would render Calumet river available for the largest vessels. The borders of Calumet lake are ill-defined; and the depth of water is about six feet. Nothing but a moderate outlay is required to render this opportune sheet of water the finest inland harbor in the United States. The great railroad lines must inevitably converge about this point from the East and Southeast; and the Michigan Central, Illinois Central, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Pittsburg & Fort Wayne, Baltimore & Ohio, Grand Trunk, Western Indiana, New York Chicago & St. Louis, and the new belt line, centering in Chicago cross the marshy shores of Calumet between Pullman and Lake Michigan, a distance of a very few miles. The river being also rendered available simply as a water way, and not at all as a dock, ample ingress and egress would be secured.

Commercial men and manufacturers have not been slow to perceive and appreciate these great facilities now being developed. From fifty-eight tons of freight shipped by one line in 1871 from South Chicago to more than fifty-nine thousand and a quarter tons in 1882, the advance is startling. From $955,000 of capital invested in this broad district in 1870 to $29,590,000 in thirteen years the progress is still more startling. But when it is added that in 1870 not a dollar's worth was manufactured in this region, and that only thirteen years later $40,765,000 worth of manufactured product was created here we can form some estimate of the opportunities that enterprising men have found for push and energy. And this is but a beginning. There is ample room yet for the most aspiring. Eleven main lines of railroad now cross this territory, and other roads centering in Chicago reach it either by branches or by the Belt Line. Thus all the roads are concentrated at South Chicago and Hammond in Indiana just over the line.

This great region will necessrily become the location for the heavier and more unwieldy descriptions of commercial products, lumber, iron, coal, and these industries are now largely represented. The improvement of the river to Hammond the final point in the great series of manufacturing industries in this region, must remove the chief obstruction to the splendid growth of the district in manufacturing and commercial wealth and power. Even under the depressing conditions of a financial panic the population of the district rose from under 600 souls in 1870 to more than 37,000 in 1883, and the value of dwellings from 64,000 to nearly $7,000,000 in the same period, while the capital embodied in industries swelled from less than one million to more than $29,000,000. A modest appropriation to render the channel of the river at all equal to this magnificent trade is more than justifiable.

In 1873 not a foot of dock had been constructed on Calumet river; now there are more than 26,000 feet of dockage; and so superior is the location deemed by some firms that it is preferred to Chicago itself. Not a dollar of appropriation has been made for the improvement of Calumet river, the only money granted being all expended on the other harbor. A large sum is not required. There are no engineering difficulties of any description. The strengthening, widening, and deepening of the channel is all that is called for. Should this be done a more comprehensive benefit would be conferred on national industry, and a greater impetus communicated to national trade than by the subvention of a half dozen steamship lines, each costing millions. No strip of water in the world is so active, so alive as the Chicago river for the same area; and Calumet would far surpass even the Chicago river within a very few years.

CITY COUNCIL.

An ordinance was passed for sidewalk on east side of Hawthorn avenue from Larrabee street to North avenue; also for sidewalks on both sides of Hickory avenue from North Branch street to Division street; also for sidewalk on both sides of Cass street from Kinzie street to Rush street; also annulling ordinance for improvement of Milwaukee avenue and assessments for same; also for annulling assessment for improvement of Hermitage avenue; Also for vacating alley adjoining lots 24 and 25 sub block 1, block 7, Canal Trustees sub division, and for opening a new alley through west 16 feet of lt 30 in same sub block; also changing name of Granger street to Beethoven place; also for vacating west eight feet of alley in front of lots 12-22 block 1, Moody's subdivision.

Removal.

Since Messrs. Jones & Stebbins advertised in this JOURNAL, their business has increased so largely that they have been compelled to house themselves in more extensive premises, at 231 State street. The change has necessarily been troublesome. It is no light matter to transfer so many bolts, screws, butts, locks, hinges, chisels, castors, door plates, knobs, and a thousand other articles of builders' hardware. But the job is about completed, and Messrs. Jones & Stebbins have now a commodious store of 125 feet in length, and their friends can find room to make their selections. The patrons of the firm have all congratulated them on observing the excellent and well located premises they have now secured. Reader, if you would have a long store, and a large assortment of bright shining goods, and money coming in, and plenty of customers, then advertise in this JOURNAL, and you will have all those desirable things.

A. W. Herr & Co.,

Sidewalk Ventilators and Vault Covers,

Are now ready to supply the public with their new and improved VENTILATOR and COAL-HOLE VAULT COVERS. This invention entirely does away with propping up or placing barrels or boxes in your sidewalks, at the same time giving you all the desired ventilation and three times the light given by covers now used, and always leaving the sidewalks fully clear to the public, thus abating an intolerable nuisance, and protecting life, limb, and landlords from serious damages. These covers are constructed with two heavy-hinged wings, so that one or both can be opened from below by turning a heavy thumb-screw when ventilation is desired, and can be readily closed to prevent rain or dust without obstructing the light to apartments below in either case, or disturbing the cover on sidewalk. We have all sizes, both round and square, with or without rings and fastenings. We invite the public, and particularly architects, builders, and those contemplating building, to call and examine our new devices, which will be found cheaper, and we will guarantee better satisfaction than any ever used.

We also invite your attention to our new and indispensable "EUREKA" VENTILATOR and FIRE LOCATER, to be placed on iron shutters, locating the fire in a building to a certainty, thus giving easy access to the apartment where fire is located, saving great damage and delay and loss of property, and can be used as a ventilator whenever desired for ventilation of attics, mansard roofs, outhouses, barns, stables and wooden structures of all kinds where ventilation is needed. It will be found as safe a protection from outside heat as the solid shutter. Call and see for yourselves, or send for circular.

REAL ESTATE LAW.

SUPREME COURT OF ILLINOIS.
Filed at Ottawa, Nov. 20, 1883.
JAMES QUINN ET AL v. THOS. C. EAGLESTON.

ANCIENT DEEDS—OF THE PROOF OF THEIR EXISTENCE FOR THIRTY YEARS. Certain deeds purporting to have been executed in 1832 and 1839, but not acknowledged according to law were admitted in evidence in behalf of the plaintiff in an action of ejectment, as ancient deeds, on proof that they had been actually recorded in the proper county twente-nine yeers before the commencement of the suit in which they were received, and they being shown to have been in the possession of the party in possession of the land before the plaintiff, and to have remained with him until his death, and it being shown that one of the deeds had been recorded more than forty years before the suit was brought: HELD, in the absence of evidence of fraud or suspicious circumstances, that this was satisfactory proof that the deeds had been in existence for thirty years, and entitled them to be read in evidence as ancient deeds.

EVIDENCE—declarations and statements as part of the res gestae. On a question of a boundary line, when it appears that a prior owner, since deceased, built his fence a rod within his lines, the declaration of such person, while the owner and in possession of the land, explanatory of his intention in leaving a strip of land open, is properly admiited in evidence in behalf of a person claiming under such prior owner, as part of the RES GESTAE, as accompanying the act of throwing the strip open and keeping it open.

$66 a week at home. $5.00 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

GUILDS OF ARTISANS.

In every department our rapidly growing population is in process of organization. Every free moving community gradually assumes a compact form around centers forming the points of attachment of special interests What may be called industrial attraction draws men of the same pursuits together; and their association is necessarily cemented by formal rules and proceedings. The more free a community is, the greater necessity exists for association by the members of the various pursuits and handicrafts. Men who have laboriously studied both in principle and practice, the minute and varied details of any art or profession, are the most capable of judging of the estimate to be placed on the skillful exercise of its branches. Hence in all ages men have constituted themselves members of societies for mutual counsel and protection. Our own population being now experiencing those series of transmutations which constitute social growth, is beginning to confront the same necessities for organisation which our ancestors encountered many ages ago. We are passing through the same formative processes which have bestowed their most useful framework on the social organization of old countries From a heterogenous assemblage of persons gathered promiscuously from all climes, each individual seeking his own fortune as best he might, our population is now beginning to combine in regular societies for the better furtherance of specific industrial enterprises. The Real Estate and Renting Agents' Association is only the beginning of a formal guild of this description. Closer association will create firmer interdependence among the members;and harmony of action must eventuate in still greater compactness and solidity, All the elements to require and sustain a regular collegium as in old days are abundantly present, while the title will no doubt be more modern.

Another institution which seems likely to become, even more pronouncedly, a confraternity of the same nature is the Builders' & Traders' Exchange, a secular guild of the highest importance and likely to develop into an organization of great power and wealth, Following the example of its predeccssors in ancient and modern history this body contemplates and has taken some steps towards the acquisition of a permanent home and a fixed abode of its own. The members of this college, being engaged in enterprises of much magnitude, and being largely, and in many cases wholly independent in their undertakings, can control an amount of wealth, both of money, material and skill which will place them very high among local centres of power. No guild of ancient Rome, even when its capitulary was an imperial rescript; no liveried fraternity which struggled against the despotism of Pope or Kaiser, Guelph or Ghibelline, under its own banner and its own syndic or consul, enjoyed so great a prospect of large influence as the "college of workmen" who compose the Builders' and Traders' Exchange.

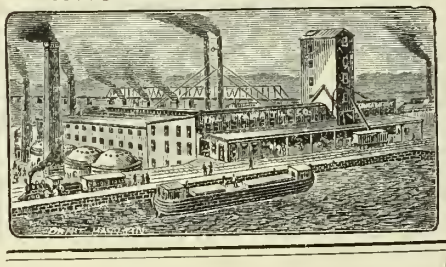
THE
Real Estate and Building Journal
R. C. SMYERS, PROPRIETOR.
CHICAGO, SATURDAY, March 15, 1884.

Search for Untaxed Property.

Last week want of space prevented the JOURNAL from giving more than a few brief details of the proposition to allow 20 per cent of all collections on alleged untaxed property in Chicago. The description of property thus claimed to be fraudulently exempt from taxation consists chiefly of mortgages and other evidences of indebtedness. The claim made is that the holders of these liens ought to be compelled to pay the proportion of the tax on the real estate included in the mortgage, represented by the amonnt borrowed. If a lender advances $5000 on property worth $20,000, it is claimed that he ought to pay one fourth of the tax levied on the property. The proposal is by no means new. Something of the same kind has been proposed and attempted in every State.



One difficulty is that the attempt is slightly utopist. Well meaning men forget that certain concessions must be made in all kinds of business. Men who have money lend on the best terms they can obtain, and no persuasion but that arising from the existence of money in the hands of other men, who are seeking to lend also, can induce capitalists, so-called, to part with their money at a cheap rate. They have people in their power, and they know it, only to the degree in which this power is taken away from them by other men in the same business will moneyed men ever be induced to abate their claims. Coercion or severity, or inquisitorial proceedings of any kind have never done this and never will do it. They say "we lend at market rates, we are entitled to do so, and if you practically reduce that rate by a tax we will decline to lend, except on harder terms." An eager, growing city must have money; men must borrow. Hence necessity places them in the hands of other men with money. The necessity of one party is the opportunity of the other, and that other will certainly use it. Our utopists claim that this is not fair; Perhaps it is not; but stringent measures in the future cannot make men more disposed to be lenient. Hold out the greatest possible inducements to men to lend. Encourage capital to compete for loans; let plenty of it flow in: make it cheap by abundance and security, and it will be lent at low rates rather than lie idle. Distrust inevitably leads to hoarding; and every dollar collected by harsh measures deprives the community of vast sums which will not expose themselves to a similar risk. Perhaps men ought to be more considerate for the needs of others, and for the public good etc., etc. But men are not fashioned after that pattern; and we must deal with them as they are. Divide and conquer, on the principle of competition, has always been the most successful method.

THE MARKET.

A noticable check has been felt in real estate transactions during the week as a result of the proposed operations of Messrs. Rilcy & Co. Since the subject has been publicly announced of an indirect interference with loans of money in the way suggested, agents have been inundated with questions from persons seeking for property. Where the subject is understood and also not understood, purchasers have been scared; and in some offices transfers have greatly fallen off since last week.

Messrs. Cole & Co., real estate dealers of 188 West Madison street, a firm in no way connected with any other firm of similar name, have felt the change resulting from the proposed search for untaxed property. These gentlemen describe the market as very active in renting business. Rents have advanced on stores fifteen per cent between Ashland avenue and the river, and twenty-five per cent and upwards on the corner of Halsted and Madison streets. Property in this immediate vicinity is worth $1000 per foot, and from Madison to Harrison streets from $300 to $600 per foot. Flats west of Ashland avenue have not advanced.

Mssrs. Goodridge of 259 West Madison street have also felt the effect of Mssrs. Riley & Co's proposition: Inquirers and purchasers have been temporarely scared away. Renting has been very active at advanced rates. Flats are in good demand at last years rates, and from 50 to 55 dollars per month for a respectable flat of 7 to 8 rooms is an average rate. The year promises well, and much business will be done at very encouraging prices if no untoward scheme intervenes to spoil trade,

We may here notice the advancing prospects of property on Washington boulevard towards the park. This region is one of the most desirable in the city, and experienced eyes readily detect its appearance when the architect's transforming presto has been spoken. Already great improvements are projected. Lampposts will very soon be erected up to the park. A stone sidewalk will be put down, and part is now ready. A strip of seventeen feet for grass plat and trees has been laid, and mounted policemen will watch the highways; some large public institutions of the most respectable character have arranged to locate in that neighborhood; and as the distance to the heart of the city is very moderate, about three miles, and the route direct, a more advantageous residence district does not exist within the same limits. The ground rises gradually; and inquiries for locations are already very numerous. At the present moment some of this region looks rough, but as everybody knows what any raw material looks like before it is worked up, no one will be deterred. A log is an ugly looking thing, but a little cutting brings out its value. Very rough spots are made exceedingly attractive by the spade and shovel, and some litter always accompanies improvements. But in fact the district mentioned is far from being rongh. It is better than nine-tenths of what our land is when first taken in hand. Drainage is really good and great attention has been devoted to it already. Within a few years this region will be a charming resort with wide macadamized roads and plenty of air.

New Domesday Book.

Recent discussions lend additional weight to our proposal to fix the actual ownership of all Chicago realty by means of a standard authority exclusively controlled by the State, A definite starting point to which all titles can be readily traced, and that would render complicated abstracts unnecessary, is urg ently required. In order that the maps and plans necessary for such a work could be made complete every owner would be obliged to produce and present his claims. Perfect lucidity would then reign in a subject which is now involved and uncertain. The benefit of simplicity and certainty in facilitating transfers cannot be exaggerated. By this plan the actual ownership and therefore the duties and responsibilities of all property would become divested of technicalities; and rights and incomes of owners would be protected. Directness and clearness in reference to the rapidly augmenting volume of our real estate interests would be worth all it would cost, and would pay for itsetf in a few years.

CITY COUNCIL.

An ordinance was passed for sidewalk on both sides of Cherry avenuc, from N. Branch streei to Division street. Also on both sides of Halsted street, from Clay streel to Webster avenue. Also on both sides of S. LaSalle street, from Twenty-third street to Douglas avenue. Also on both sides of Twenty-seventh street, from Grand boulevard to Cottage Grove av. Also on both sides of Parnell av., from Twenty-ninth street to Egan av. Also on both sides of Western avenue, from West Madison street to West Polk street. Also on both sides of Loomis street, from W. Twelfth street to Blue Island av. Also on both sides of Maxwell street, from Canal street to Halsted st: Also on both sides of Honore st., from W. Also an order for the construction of an approach from Rebecca street to Western avenue.

Thievery.

We notice without any surprise, and but little pride, that certain knavish contemporaries still demonstrate their till tapping nature by thefts from this JOURNAL. Being without either brains to originate, or principle to acknowledge literary productions, the contemptible anthropomorphic quadramana that scrawl in some local publications, and exhibit their atavism in brainless theft, would be more honestly employed in divesting themselves of their native habits of picking as well as stealing, before they venture into developed society without a chain and red breeches. These creatnres acknowledge the necessity of looking up to us by filching from us; but we willingly condone the knavery, seeing that without it the helpless creatures who patronize these quadrumana would fare ill indeed.

A. W. Herr & Co.,

Sidewalk Ventilators and Vault Covers,

Are now ready to supply the public with their new and improved VENTILATOR and COAL-HOLE VAULT COVERS. This invention entirely does away with propping up or placing barrels or boxes in your sidewalks, at the same time giving you all the desired ventilation and three times the light given by covers now used, and always leaving the sidewalks fully clear to the public, thus abating an intolerable nuisance, and protecting life, limb, and landlords from serious damages. These covers are constructed with two heavy-hinged wings, so that one or both can be opened from below by turning a heavy thumb-screw when ventilation is desired, and can be readily closed to prevent rain or dust without obstructing the light to apartments below in either case, or disturbing the cover on sidewalk. We have all sizes, both round and square, with or without rings and fastenings. We invite the public, and particularly architects, builders, and those contemplating building, to call and examine our new devices, which will be found cheaper, and we will guarantee better satisfaction than any ever used.

We also invite your attention to our new and indispensable "EUREKA" VENTILATOR and FIRE LOCATER, to be placed on iron shutters, locating the fire in a building to a certainty, thus giving easy access to the apartment where fire is located, saving great damage and delay and loss of property, and can be used as a ventilator whenever desired for ventilation of attics, mansard roofs, outhouses, barns, stables and wooden structures of all kinds where ventilation is needed. It will be found as safe a protection from outside heat as the solid shutter. Call and see for yourselves, or send for circular.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

GUILDS OF ARTISANS.

Other organizations of less pronounced character as yet, are gradually consolidating into the formal character of guilds. The plumbers are marching in that direction, and others are doing likewise. They all have the ancient and essential characteristics of a common banquet and a common purse. The secret ceremonial of old is replaced indeed by the formal investigation for membership, and the privileges conferred are of course counterweighted by the reserved right of the corporation to remove the offenders. These associations differ from Traders' unions. They are essentially guides for the promotion of excellence in specific callings, and for the high and honorable discharge of duties connected with business undertakings. They are not organizations whose profession is the equal honor of all persons without regard to individual skill and acquirement. Under the old guilds, and we do not doubt also under the new, arts flourished, and individual merit received its full recognition and reward. It was to the chartered colleges of workmen that we owe the splendid monuments that distinguish the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. It was to these noble guilds that we are indebted for the manly self-assertion of skillful industry against power and against ignorance. It is to the munificence of the great artificers that we are indebted for the encouragement of art and useful learning. Neither monkish asceticism nor feudal grandeur bestowed the architectural sublimities of by-gone times, or produces the genius that sustains them in the present. The guilds of artificers everywhere provided th splendid monuments that adorn the earth; and it is to their tenacious maintenance of that wide knowledge of natural philosophy, and that untrammeled independence of scientific investigation against ecclesiastical bigotry and feudal arrogance that we owe the maintenance of our civil, scientific and political freedom of thought and action.

So long as the noble guilds and brotherhoods of Italy, France and England devoted themselves to the righteous contest for art, wealth and independence they commanded the sympathy, the admiration, and the chartered privileges which were theirs by right of industry, science, and public spirit. But from the moment when they descended, in their corporate capacity, to the vulgar arena of partisan contentions, they forfeited the dignity of industrial pre-eminence and were mingled with the common multitude of factious charlatans.

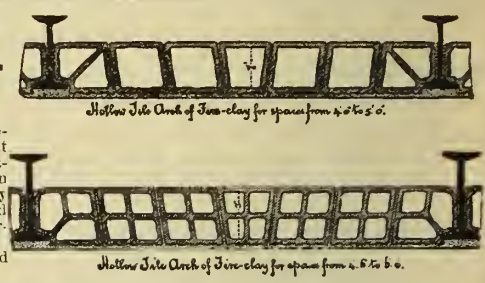
THE
Real Estate and Building Journal
R. C. SMYERS, PROPRIETOR.
CHICAGO, SATURDAY, March 22, 1884.

THE MARKET.

Chicago, not alone, but other western cities are enjoying a healthy, active trade in Real Estate. Weekly lists of transfers published in journals at Minneapolis, Huron, Dak., Peoria and other prominent towns in the west prove that real estate is attracting the attention of speculators as well as homc seekers. The great boom in real estate that in the last several years has been a phenomenal feature in the history of Minneapolis seems fully predestined to hold its way upward and onward through 1884. There has been a marvelous extension in every direction, both in the way of additions in realty and erection of business blocks and dwellings—all, too. of a substantial and healthy character. Numer us manufacturing interests have sought a site at the North and a number of mills have taken possession in the East Division. Not the least is the location of the extensive yards of the Northern Pacific Railroad in what is known as Northwest Minneapolis. It fixes that section with the certainty of being a minitiature city in itself, and already new school-houses, churches, and apropriate adjuncts are contemplated at an early day. Another index regarded as plainly showing the safe growth of Minneapolis, is in the proportion of property mortgaged to the total valuation, the pro rata so far this year being less than 35 per cent, when a community is conceded sound that is not over 40.

Chicago and Cook County.

During the last month or six weeks real estate operations have been active enough to encourage owners to stiffen np in priees. The long list of transfers each week both in the city and even beyond the seven mile ra dius is a sure indication that much business is being done. The phenomenal success that has attended the bullding enterprises of the Wright Estate, S E Gross & Co., Campbell Bros., U. P. Smith, and a host of others, is proof that residence building has not been overdone. The volume of building permits as published in the JOURNAL will rank Chicago second only to New York in costly office and business structures; many of which are twelve stories in height. A hasty trip around the city among the agents shows that the renting season is fairly upon us. Many of the leading agencies are kept busy in answering calls from inquiring tenants. The cussedness of the weather is the only drawback. Another healthy indication not heretofore spoken of is the numerous quit claim deeds of tax interests. People who allowed their lots to be sold for taxes in former years are now redeeming it at a considerable expense to themselves but to the satisfaction of the tax buyers.



CHICAGO is likely to have another important down-town improvement in the near future in lhe new office buildiag of the Adams Express. The company has found its present quarters much too small for its mammoth business in this city.

is rapidly becoming a most charming spot. The winter's traces are still to be seen—like tear tracks upon the face of beauty; but all that will soon disappear, and the charm will be unsoiled again. The fresh air, plenty of room, and a rapidly growing population of industrious workers render Humboldt Park an exceedingly promising neighb orhood for persons intending to settle and do business in a suburb. Easily accessible by Milwaukee avenue cars running constantly from Lake street, the route being wholly one of business, commercial men, and owners of stores would be exactly suited at Humboldt Park. Lots are now fairly cheap too. From $500 up to $700 or $800 will still purchase a pleasant homestead site. The Pennock Land Improvement Association, through their intelligent representatives, Messrs. D. F. Keeney & Son, 913 West North avenue, corner of Humboldt Park, control extensive tracts which they are selling at very reasonable rates. These lots are very favorably located near Fullerton avenue. They are high and dry, 25x125 feet, and with natural drainage. Pennock is close to the street cars from Humboldt Park; fare five cents to the city. Messrs. Keeney who have a branch office at Pennock, on Fullerton avenue, will be happy to afford every facility for selection. Take the Milwaukee avenue car to the Park, and these gentlemen will set you on the ground. The prairie all over that neighborhood is being covered with dwellings, and there is a fortune for a skillful business man among the thriving population of valuable incomers. A better class of settlers does not exist anywhere. The Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad depot is at the intersection of Fullerton and Crawford avenues.

The extensive buildings of the Miltimore Elastic Steel Car Wheel works, situated at the intersection of Fullerton avenue and the M. & St. P. R. R., will create an increasing value in neighboring property. The dis-

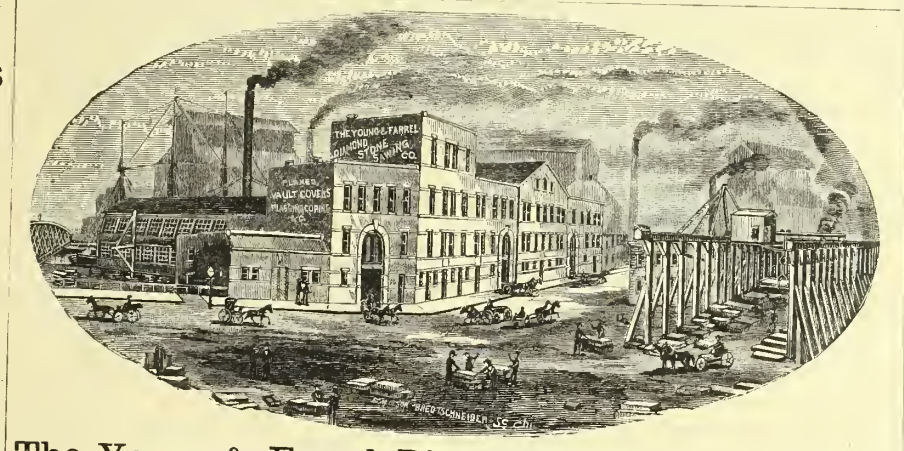
Real Estate and Renting Agents' Association.



A business meeting of the Real Estate and Renting Agents' Association was held after the regular call on Tuesday noon. Mr. J P. Wilson was chosen as the permanent attorney for the association. The constitution was amended so that individuals and not firms could hold certificates of membership, and the article bearing ubon admissions was made more rigid. The by-laws were amended so as to provide for the annual apointment by the President of an Executive Committee, to consist of three; a Committee of Reference, to consist of the same number; and a Committee on Membeship, to consist of seven. An amendment regulating the scale of commissions on real-estate sales was laid over and the proposed change of name of the association was referred to the Reference Committee. The Lease Committee was reqnested to report Saturday.

The usefulness of the association is becoming more apparent every day. Agents who have bargains in real estate to offer meet daily with those who have customers in quest of something of the kind.
